SENATE KEEPS LICENSE CLAUSE IN INDUSTRY ACT

Vote 57-31; Long, Robinson Clash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders in the senate appeared tonight to have the administration's public works-industry control bill on its way to certain passage tomorrow in a form substantially in accord with President Roosevelt's wishes.

Every effort to effect material change in the measure was defeated as the senate proceeded through consideration of the industry control and public works titles. After twelve hours and forty minutes of continuous session it was decided to recess and take up the controversial tax title tomorrow.

Include Chicago Sewage Works.

Assurance that the sewage development program ordered for the Chicago sanitary district by the Supreme court will be included in the public works program to be undertaken under the bill was given by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], sponsor of the public works section of the bill.

During consideration of the construction features of the measure Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] asked whether the sanitary district program could be included in the projects to be prosecuted by the government. If not, Senator Lewis indicated, he wished to offer an amendment to take care of the Chicago situation. But on Senator Wagner's assurance that no change in the bill was necessary Senator Lewis refrained from submitting his amendment.

Administration forces scored a decisive victory at the evening session when the senate voted, 31 to 49, against a motion to strike the public works title from the bill in its entirety. The motion was made by Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.], who declared the title's repudiation of the anti-trust laws to be "vicious and obnoxious" and who insisted that the proposals of the industry control title were an outright repudiation of the Democratic campaign platform.

Leaders Forced to Compromise.

On the embargo issue senate leaders were forced to compromise, although the President has been represented as opposed to the inclusion of any embargo plan in the bill. Instead of the proposal inserted by the finance committee over administration protests under which the President would be given blanket authority to embargo imports, the senate adopted a more liberal scheme under which individual industries will appeal to the President for protection against imports which they feel are injurious. The tariff commission would investigate the appeal, under the plan adopted tonight.

Several amendments were inserted into the public works section of the measure at the evening session, but none was of controversial nature and none was opposed by administration leaders in charge of the bill. Hospitals, toll roads, naval shore station, and air station construction were included in the types of projects to be undertaken and R. F. C. loans were authorized for army and navy officers' quarters.

When Robinson Assails Long.

Earlier the administration won its first major victory, and one that presaged subsequent success for the bill, when the senate defeated, 31 to 57, an attempt of opponents of the measure to strike out the power to license industries.

The vote on this amendment concluded an afternoon of debate during which the discussion leaped at one high point from a tedious quibbling over details to a fiery passage between Democratic leader Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas and the Louisiana radical, Huey Long.

Reed Offers Amendment.

It was Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] who introduced the amendment seeking to strike from the industrial control section of the bills the provisions giving the President power to require a license of industrial groups in which he finds violations of trade codes imposed by the federal authority.

Such a grant of power, said the Pennsylvania senator, meant that the President was to be vested not only with the legislative authority carried in the right to create the codes but also with the judicial authority, since he would be given power to determine violations and to penalize the violators.

These were the provisions that the senate finance committee last week

MARRYING FOR MONEY

A COPPER GETS A PHONE CALL FROM MOTHER

Early yesterday Mrs. Anna Fitzgerald, 7047 Prairie avenue, telephoned to the detective bureau to speak to her son, Sergt. James Fitzgerald, a squad leader. She told him a shabbily dressed man had knocked on her kitchen door an hour before, representing himself as a relief "client" with four children, eager to earn money to aid his family. Mrs. Fitzgerald told her son she had given the man a pair of heavy brogans and a shovel and told him to spade up her yard.

"He just got well started," she said, "when he asked me to let him make a telephone call from the corner drug store. I let him go and he didn't come back. I'd paid him 75 cents in advance."

"Well, mother," said the sergeant, "this is my day off. I'm just taking a motorman's holiday down here. But I'll get my squad out and hunt down the man."

"O, no, you won't," replied Mrs. Fitzgerald. "I know it's your day off. That's why I called you. I don't want you to find the man. I want you to finish the job."

And Sergt. Fitzgerald did.

'WE'RE SORRY WE HAD TO KILL YOU,' JAPS TELL FOES

PEIPING, China, June 8.—(AP)—The Japanese army which recently threatened to occupy Peiping as part of a campaign to clear the Chinese from the southern side of the Great Wall of China, today offered their recent foes condolences on the loss of Chinese lives in the hostilities.

A Japanese bomber—minus the bombs—came down at the Chinese airport at the outskirts of the city. It carried a representative of the Japanese army seeking a responsible Chinese official to whom he could hand the condolences.

Finding no one with authority at the airport, he flew over the Japanese legation and dropped a letter within a metal cylinder which requested the Japanese legation officials to convey the message to Chinese military leaders. This gesture was one of several indications of genuine effort on the part of both Chinese and Japanese to carry out the terms of the recent Tangku peace agreement.

30 Harvard Freshmen Become Ill in Classroom

Cambridge, Mass., June 8.—(AP)—In the midst of the final examination period, a mysterious sore throat ailment has stricken 30 members of the freshman class at Harvard and caused them to be confined to the Stillman infirmary, university authorities disclosed tonight. The symptoms were a sore throat, coupled with slight fever and headache.

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, June 9 (Friday)—(AP)—Jimmie Mattern landed at Krasnoyarsk, Siberia, early today, completing the sixth leg of his world-circuit flight by an 185 mile hop from Belovo, Siberia. He took off from Belovo at 4:10 a. m. today, Moscow time (8:10 p. m. Thursday, Chicago daylight saving time.)

[Copyright: 1933: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, June 8.—Still sick from breathing gasoline fumes which escaped through a leaking gas line, James Mattern, American flyer, who was forced to land near Prokotevsk, Siberia, yesterday on his round-the-world solo aerial journey, today told the story of his adventure in a long distance telephone interview.

The flying Texan came down at 10 a. m. Moscow time [2 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time] a few hours after he had left Omsk on the fifth lap of his flight in which he is attempting to beat the record set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in 1931.

Ready to Resume Flight.

Summoned to the telephone at Belovo, a workers' settlement near Prokotevsk, Mattern said he was ready to resume his flight to the east in his airplane Century of Progress.

"I am still sick from those fumes," Mattern said in explaining how motor trouble caused his unscheduled landing. "I can't hold any food on my stomach, but I expect to get off for Krasnoyarsk, about 200 miles away, in five or ten hours.

"I was four hours out of Omsk when I discovered a leak in the fuel line, and by the time I found out what the trouble was I was in bad shape from the fumes."

When he alighted on a small emergency landing field he was almost unconscious, the American aviator said.

"When I landed I broke my stabilizer and I cannot make permanent repairs here," he said. "I plan to run into Krasnoyarsk, where there are facilities for fixing the stabilizer."

43 Hours "Behind Time."

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The escaping gasoline fumes that sent James Mattern down in a forced landing near Prokotevsk, Siberia, had set him about 43 hours behind the time of Post and Gatty at 3:21 p. m. (Chicago time) today.

With about half the course yet to be covered, Mattern must reach New York by 8:12 p. m. Sunday night to beat the Post-Gatty record of eight days 15 hours and 51 minutes.

When Mattern came down near Prokotevsk he was estimated to have been about 89 hours out of New York, and at 3:21 p. m. today his elapsed time had increased to about 130 hours.

The nearest available comparison with the Post-Gatty time at this stage was when they left Novo-Sibirsk, which is about one hour's flying time this side of Prokotevsk. At that time Post and Gatty were 85 hours and 49 minutes out of New York. Thus it may be assumed that their total elapsed time when they passed Prokotevsk was almost 87 hours, or 43 hours ahead of Mattern.

GREEN VISITS WASHINGTON TO DISCUSS INSULL?

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Dwight Green, district attorney at Chicago, conferred today with Attorney General Cummings on the progress of criminal prosecutions in the Chicago federal courts.

While neither official would discuss the nature of their conversations it was reported they centered in part around the efforts to be made to procure the extradition from Greece of Samuel Insull, fugitive utility magnate, wanted for trial in Chicago on charges of fraud.

It was also reported Cummings and Green discussed the prosecution of Moe Rosenberg, west side Democratic boss, indicted for income tax frauds.

Notorious "Robin Hood" Sent to Prison for 2 Years

AJACCIO, Corsica, June 8.—(AP)—The last of Corsica's notorious outlaws, Andrew Spada, who was captured in his mountain hideout more than a week ago, was sentenced today to two years in prison on a charge of carrying weapons illegally. Regarded as a sort of Robin Hood by Corsicans, Spada had evaded capture for 11 years.

COOLER TODAY AFTER 97° HEAT BLISTERS CITY

Hot Wave Moves on to East.

Moderate relief from the extreme heat that has prevailed in Chicago for the last two days will be experienced today, according to the official weather forecast. It is expected that the highest temperature today will be in the middle 80s.

Yesterday's maximum, reached at 3 p. m., and remaining at that point for more than two hours, was 97 degrees. This mark, although three degrees below the high of Wednesday, which set an all time record for June in Chicago, made the day still the warmest June 8 on record here. The old record for the date was 93, established in 1914.

Rain to Miss Chicago.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said there was no immediate prospect of rain, the low pressure area that caused downpours in the west having moved to the northward.

"Temperatures will remain well above normal," he said. "But in contrast to the last few days that should seem mild. I look for a minimum of perhaps 74 or 75 in the early morning and a top of between 83 and 87 in the afternoon."

The winds from the southwest, which brought in the superheated air from the plains of Kansas and Oklahoma, had already shifted late last night to the west. Yesterday's heat was hardly as oppressive as that of the day before, due to a relatively low humidity. This was only 27 per cent in the early afternoon, while the comparative figure on Wednesday was 55 per cent of saturation.

100 Degrees at Detroit.

Heat centers, which had been mostly in the Mississippi valley the day before, shifted to the eastward during the day. Detroit had an even 100, the highest ever recorded there in June. It was 101 at Sharon, Pa., 100 at Wheeling, W. Va., and in the high 90s at Pittsburgh. New York City's 92 was the highest ever recorded there on June 8.

The change to cooler in Nebraska was followed by tornadoes that destroyed many farm buildings and damaged growing crops. In western New York and nearby sections of Ontario it was estimated the heavy storms of Wednesday had caused damage of more than a million dollars to farms and orchards. The death toll in the storm, including three lightning victims, stood at five.

Thousands Go to Beaches.

Chicagoans again sought relief from the heat in the parks and on the beaches. The south parks were visited, according to estimates, by more than 100,000 persons and the Lincoln park system by about the same number. The pools in the west park system were closed, but residents of the west side flocked into the parks.

The Oak Park playgrounds, as a concession to the temperature, opened their five wading pools and each was visited by several hundred children. In Berwyn the public schools were all closed at 2 p. m. because of the heat. Suburbs in general had temperatures yesterday within a degree or two of Wednesday's.

Two Drowning Victims.

Two deaths by drowning occurred in the Chicago district. One of the victims, Joseph Guarino, 17 years old, 520 North Curtis street, lost his life while swimming in the lake off Ohio street. At Crown Point, Ind., Harold B. Margison, 22 years old, was drowned in Fancha lake. He was a sophomore at the University of Indiana. Companions said Margison, who seemed to have been prostrated by heat, fell into the water from a springboard.

SCIENCE FINDS MEANS TO CHART HUMAN HEARING

Science has now discovered a way to look into the human ear and to chart accurately the reactions caused on the ear muscles by sound waves.

A demonstration of the method was given yesterday in the Lake Shore Athletic club to delegates attending the convention of the American Laryngological, Rhinological, and Otological society. The demonstrator was Dr. Rafael Lorente de No of St. Louis.

Tiny wires are attached to the ear muscles and sound impulses on the muscles are carried to a galvanometer, whose indications may be photographed with the aid of mirrors. It is the belief of Dr. de No that further work with the device will reveal to physicians the entire mechanism of hearing and permit them to relieve deafness.

10,000 Sign Plea for Nude Sun Bathing

A petition signed by 10,000 persons requesting an inclosure for nude sun bathing was taken into consideration by the Lincoln park board yesterday. The leader of the movement is Dr. Arne L. Suominen, with offices at 159 North State street, nature cure specialist and friend of the late Mayor Cermak.

The proposal calls for a stockade in which men could bask in the sun for a period and then would be followed by the women sun bathers. President Alfred D. Plamondon of the park board already has received protests from north side residents. He referred the matter to the service and miscellaneous committee, which consists of Commissioners Walter J. Cummings, Louis H. Harrison and William Schlake.

Height of Fence Issue.

"I doubt," said Mr. Plamondon, "that a fence could be built high enough."

Dr. Suominen contended, however, that a wood stockade nine feet high and lined with sheet metal would shut off views from the towering apartment buildings facing the park.

Dr. Suominen was asked about roving airplanes.

"I don't think aviators are morons," replied Dr. Suominen. "If any of them flew too close, regulations would have to be passed."

In order to get the maximum benefits from sun rays, Dr. Suominen said, a person should not wear a bathing suit. He explained that he was taking issue with Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical association journal, who claims that a suit does no harm.

"Dr. Rollier, great Swiss expert on sun bathing, in his book on 'Heliotherapy,' declares that an unbalanced exposure makes an individual irritable instead of affording relaxation," said Dr. Suominen. "Dr. Alfred Hess of Columbia university says that exposure to actinic rays [ultra-violet rays] increases the calcium and phosphorus salts in the blood with beneficial results. These salts are essential for body structure and resistance to tuberculosis."

Opposes "Mixed Nudism."

The doctor explained that he was not interested in "mixed nudism," more commonly known as "nude cults." He said he had heard of a nudist colony in the dunes of Indiana and of one being proposed for the north shore, but that such experiments must be undertaken only by "the most highest-minded persons without inhibitions."

Dr. Suominen said his project was being sponsored by the Physical Culture Club of Chicago, Chicago Sun Bathers' association, and the German club "Bund für Körper Kultur," which translated means "Club For Body Culture."

A similar plan for a nudist sanctuary at the foot of Touhy avenue, advanced by Dr. Suominen, failed to pass the city council a year ago because of protests from Rogers Park property owners.

Old Time Coach Driver Is Hurt in Runaway at Fair

Jess Smith, 58 years old, an oldtime stage coach driver from Oklahoma, suffered a broken leg last night at A Century of Progress Exposition. Employed by the concession known as "Days of '49," Smith was driving his team of mules in a parade when the animals became frightened and bolted. Smith was unable to control them and the coach overturned.

Czechoslovak Government Given Dictatorial Powers

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 8.—(AP)—Parliament today passed an emergency act giving the government of Premier Jan Malypetr extraordinary powers to deal with economic questions and national defense. The government thus was given a free hand for negotiations in the London economic conference.

URGE AMERICAN ENVOYS TO ACT ON MONEY FIRST

Secretary Hull Sees MacDonald Today.

PARIS.—American Ambassador Norman H. Davis urges France to follow security guaranteed by new four power peace pact with actual disarmament. Details on page 2.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—With the dollar taking another plunge downward in international exchange today as President Roosevelt's delegation to the world economic conference arrived in London, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain arranged to begin discussions at once of currency stabilization and allied questions.

Hull and other members of the American delegation with a staff of technical experts landed at Plymouth shortly after noon and reached London at 6:30 o'clock this evening. At Paddington station there was a reception party of British foreign office officials who went into a huddle with Mr. Hull between the railroad coach and a waiting automobile.

To Visit MacDonald Today.

He was informed that MacDonald wishes to confer with him at the earliest opportunity before the opening of the conference next Monday. Hull said he would place himself at the disposal of the prime minister tomorrow morning.

The desirability of effecting some sort of stabilization of currencies as soon as possible is understood to be slated for immediate attention by the heads of American and British delegations. According to the view of the Americans, however, the question of temporary stabilization is one for the central banks of the respective countries to deal with independently of the conference, which can practicably concern itself only with permanent stabilization. Mr. Hull has prepared to take this stand in his first conversation with the British prime minister.

When members of the American delegation changed their dollars into pounds sterling on the dock at Plymouth they were confronted with the notice that the pound was selling at $4.10 in New York and that sterling exchange would cost them $4.20. This represented a marked decline in the value of the dollar in the last fortnight.

Regard Ratio Natural Relation.

This ratio of values of the pound and dollar approximates what the American delegates regard as the natural relation of the two currencies instead of $3.50, at which the British sought to peg the pound. That low value of the pound gave the British an enormous advantage in foreign trade which has been destroyed by the cheapening of the dollar since the United States went off the gold standard.

Delegates Hull, Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nevada], head of the senate foreign relations committee; Representative Samuel McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the house foreign relations committee, and Ralph W. Morrison, retired Texas banker, after a hasty dinner, went into conference with American experts. The conference was expected to last most of the night. They were giving final consideration to the course to be pursued in dealing with the British delegation, which is exceptionally strong. The British delegation is composed of members of the cabinet with a reputation of being hard bargainers.

Housed in 90 Rooms.

The American delegation is housed in 90 rooms for the duration of the conference at Claridge's hotel, the most exclusive and aristocratic hostelry in Europe. Each member of the delegation has rooms lavishly decorated in art moderne.

Mr. McReynolds, who hails from the hills of eastern Tennessee, is lodged in a palatial suite on the floor that former King Alfonso was accustomed to hire in its entirety. Secretary and Mrs. Hull were escorted to their magnificent suite by the manager with the manner of an English earl. Lackeys in gold laced purple coats, blue knee breeches, and white stockings flanked the Hulls.

An ancient servitor, who is said to have served King Leopold of Belgium in these royalty hallowed precincts, hastened to light the cigarets of Mrs. Lucy V. Garner, Miss Margaret Duffley, and Miss Clara Freeman, stenographers to the delegation.

Frank J. Delany, Chicago Board of Trade man, who is the delegation's wheat expert, professed to find himself entirely at home in such surroundings, being descended from a long line of Irish kings.

Gets Paper on Silver Tray.

Dr. Herbert Feis, chief technical adviser, who, according to Editor William Allen White of Emporia, Kas., looks like Harpo Marx but talks like Karl Marx, had no more than murmured his desire for a copy of the London Times than he found it presented to him on a silver tray by a dignitary with that respectful immobility of countenance marking the perfect butler of the perfect lord.

And then lightly tripping down the staircase that once framed pageants of royal progress to the dining room came pretty Miss Celeste Jedel, secretary to Dr. Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, who is slated to come to the conference as soon as President Roosevelt can spare him from the home grounds.

Courted like the queens of Claridge's great days is little Miss Jedel, who is accounted as being the power behind Moley as Moley is accounted as being the power behind Mr. Roosevelt.

Under contract with the United States government, Claridge's is furnishing the American delegation with an atmosphere of regal splendor at the rate of $6 a day per person for room and board.

Hull Bans War Debt Talks.

LONDON, June 8.—(AP)—Resolutely hopeful, but without the conspicuous optimism which has characterized so many missions to international parleys, Secretary of State Hull on debarking at Plymouth today from the steamship President Roosevelt declared that war debts will not be discussed during the world economic conference.

"We shall not go outside the details of the agenda," the secretary said. "We have come to deal with problems and conditions that call for international action in the economic sense.

"There is a spirit of hopefulness throughout America that the conference will succeed. This has been encouraged by the preliminary discussions in the last six weeks among our officials and those of ten other nations. We know the nations have suffered enough from the raising of trade barriers and all forms of economic nationalism."

HULL EXTENDS HIS GREETING TO 'IRISH REPUBLIC'

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 9 [Friday].—Under headlines across seven columns on its front page, the Daily Express today reported a speech in which Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, is said to have offered America's greetings "to the people of the Irish republic" and drank to the health of its president, when he arrived at Queenstown, Irish Free State, yesterday.

A vain endeavor to prevent the speech being reported, the Express said, was made when Mr. Hull realized that the slip he had made might create an "unfortunate situation" on the eve of the world economic conference. According to the Express, Mr. Hull said:

"People of the Irish republic, I greet you on behalf of the oldest republic in the west. I greet the new republic in the oldest hemisphere and it is only fitting that the new republic and the old should meet."

It was disclosed that references to the "republic" in Mr. Hull's speech had been suppressed by all Dublin newspapers as a result of a round of visits by representatives of the United States consul general to editors.

Report Larger Contracts for Heavy Construction

New York, June 8.—The Engineering News-Record says that heavy construction contracts awarded in the week ended June 5 totaled $21,511,000, a gain of $3,500,000 over the previous week. The volume was 50 per cent larger than the average of the last four weeks.

DISARM ON BASIS OF NEW PACT, U. S. PLEA TO FRANCE

4 Power Accord Assures Security, Paris Told.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 8.—With the peace of Europe presumably assured for 10 years by the signing of the four power pact yesterday, Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, today called on Premier Edouard Daladier and Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, to translate the theoretical security afforded by the new accord into actual disarmament.

Lord Londonderry, British air secretary, and Capt. Anthony Eden, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, also participated in the dicsussions. Davis left the Quai d'Orsay after a solid day of work without any tanks or heavy artillery in his pocket, but concordant reports from French and American sources revealed that something is changed in Europe after all. The arguments now hinge largely upon "when" instead of "if."

Sees Deadlock Broken.

It was admitted the conversations had not led to any new understanding on disarmament. Despite the absence of formal plans, however, today's talks are regarded as showing that a real deadlock in the disarmament conference does not exist and that an agreement is still possible in the more or less distant future.

The American envoy proposed five way conversations between Daladier, Chancellor Hitler of Germany, Prime Minister MacDonald of Britain, and Premier Mussolini. The suggestion was not definitely rejected, but the French took the position that such a meeting would be the final step in the negotiations and not worth talking about until preliminary accords are reached.

The quetsion of permanent control of armaments—or disarmament—was the pivotal point in today's conversations. The French have definitely abandoned their former insistence on a pact of mutual assistance and now have set permanent and effective control as the sole condition to disarmament.

Agreement Lacking.

There is not complete agreement on the principle of international control among the different powers. The British, notably, wish the projected control commission to have authority to survey only the armaments of continental nations, leaving itself, the United States, and Japan outside. The French naturally oppose this, but the main clash is not so much over the principle as the length of time the commission would have to function before France begins to disarm.

France would like to see if Germany would respect treaty pledges over a period of five years or so before cutting down on armaments. The Germans want French disarmament to begin simultaneously with the control. Davis is trying to effect a compromise on the period of time, long enough to satisfy the French and short enough to be acceptable to the Germans. During this trial period it is proposed that France not scrap any offensive weapons, but abstain from increasing her armaments.

While this was the main subject of discussion no solution is yet reached on many other points relating to the British draft convention. Progress was checked notably when Daladier suggested to Davis and Lord Londonderry that America and England do a little naval disarming, a suggestion which met with no enthusiasm.

Straus Also Makes Disarm Plea.

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—Jesse I. Straus, presenting his credentials as new American ambassador to France today, told President Lebrun that the United States is waiting for France to do something definite for disarmament and for the success of the world economic conference. Straus reminded the president that "starting with the Briand-Kellogg pact, you will agree the United States has gone a long way toward assuring economic and military peace."

Japan Attacks London Naval Treaty as "Trouble Maker"

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 8.—(AP)—Japan threw the disarmament conference into confusion today by assailing the London naval treaty as a provoker of international apprehensions and refusing to renounce bombardment from the air until aircraft carriers should be abolished.

In this uncertain atmosphere the formal disarmament discussions were adjourned until July 3.

The attack on the naval accord, reached in London in 1930 by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, drew sharp protests from the American and British delegates and from Arthur Henderson, president of the Geneva parley and British foreign secretary when the agreement was concluded.

Wilson Makes Vain Plea.

Hugh R. Wilson, envoy to Switzerland, the American spokesman, also appealed earnestly—but in vain—to the Tokio delegate, Ambassador Naotake Sato, to reconsider his stand against prohibition of aerial bombing as long as other great powers possess warships which provide landing and launching decks for aircraft.

"The London treaty," Sato told the conference, "should have brought appeasement to all the signatories. On the contrary, it has created an atmosphere of uncertainty and apprehension.

"From one side and another, inflammatory speeches have followed the conclusion of this treaty. Therefore the feeling of security has not been strengthened."

Replies Come Quickly.

President Henderson and Wilson, as well as the British delegate, were not slow to announce their disagreement with the Japanese viewpoint.

"Mr. Sato has made serious reflections on the London treaty," Henderson said.

Mr. Wilson, asserting that "all this is new to me," retorted that it is not easy to isolate any one factor as the cause of international disquietude.

Dealing with Japan's objections to doing away with dropping bombs from the air, Wilson said a constant introduction of new amendments would destroy the whole fabric of the naval part of the British disarmament plan, which now is under consideration as a basis of a convention.

Ambassador Sato, replying that Japan is entirely surrounded by water, said that his country must think of its own special situation. Japan, Mr. Sato said, agrees to the French thesis that all armaments are interdependent and will therefore maintain its position unless means are found for affording complete security and overcoming her apprehensions.

Representatives of other great naval powers consider today's developments as another move in Japan's campaign to obtain a more advantageous naval ratio than the 5-5-3 laid down by the London convention.

JAPAN WILL BUY U. S. COTTON TO BOYCOTT INDIA

OSAKA, Japan, June 8.—(AP)—The prospect of a marked increase in Japanese purchases of American raw cotton is expected as a result of a decision of the Japan Cotton Spinners' federation to cease buying raw cotton from British India.

This decision, reached by the federation's emergency committee, is in retaliation for India's 50 per cent increase in duties on non-British cotton cloths announced on June 6. The Indian action was taken because of the depreciation in the yen and the pressure of Japanese competition. Indorsement of the committee's stand is expected at a general meeting of the federation June 13.

In the last three months Japan's purchases of raw cotton from India have considerably exceeded purchases from the United States. The Japanese press today characterized the contemplated boycott of Indian raw cotton as tantamount to severance of Indo-Japanese commercial relations.

3 BALTIC STATES TO DEFAULT ON U. S. WAR DEBT

RIGA, Latvia, June 8.—Unofficial announcements appeared in the press in Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania today that these governments intend to default on their June 15 war debt payments due the United States. Latvia owes $118,961, Lithuania $132,091, and Estonia $284,322. Estonia already is in default on the $356,370 payment due last Dec. 15.

Through refusing to meet their debts and also maintaining currency restrictions, Latvia and Estonia have succeeded in artificially maintaining the gold standard. Lithuania, however, is in a different position. Emigrants to America have been remitting $2,000,000 annually and the country is regarded as the most prosperous nation in northeastern Europe.

Having increased customs to the point where imports are throttled, the Baltic states are sending delegates to the London economic conference chiefly with the idea of conducting private negotiations with the British government for increased contingents on their imports in return for reduced tariffs.

Given 2 to 14 Years for Torturing, Robbing Family

Valparaiso, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—Joseph Mansfield, 40, member of a prominent Porter county family, was sentenced to 2 to 14 years in Michigan City prison today. He was charged with being a member of the gang which robbed August Wandrey's home in Kouts, April 24, of $636 after torturing members of the family and shooting Roy Wandrey.

SPAIN'S CABINET FORCED OUT TO 'SAVE REPUBLIC'

President Zamora Trips Up Premier Azana.

BY JAY ALLEN.

MADRID, June 8.—President Niceto Alcala Zamora today tripped up Premier Manual Azana's government of left wing Republicans and Socialists, who have set the pace for the Spanish revolution during the last 18 months, and tonight is casting about for a more moderate cabinet.

Anxious both to slow up the March revolution and end the feud that split the Republican ranks to the profit of their enemies, the president availed himself for the first time of his constitutional prerogatives—he withdrew his confidence in the government, thus forcing the resignation of Azana's ministers.

Official Version of Fall.

They were surprised, but came forth from the presidential palace in good humor, and the Socialist minister of public works, Indalecio Prieto, gave the official version of what happened:

"The cabinet ministers proposed to the president the replacement of Finance Minister Jaime Carner [who is ill of cancer], and the division of the ministry of agriculture, industry, and commerce into two offices, esteeming such measures indispensable.

"The president declared that without prejudice to decision of this request he preferred to call representatives of the Republican parties for consultation.

"Deeming the president's declaration implied negation of confidence, the government presented its resignation on the spot."

It truly was a negation of confidence. Alarmed by the clamor of the country against Azana and particularly his Socialist colleagues, confronted by the decision of the opposition to leave parliament, and fearful even of a military rising against the régime, Zamora chose to assert himself. It is too early to predict what the consequences of the assertion will be.

Hopes Are Chilled.

Whatever hopes the president may have had of making peace with the Republicans were chilled almost at once. Zamora called into consultation this afternoon Julian Besteiro, Socialist speaker of the cortes; Remigio Cabello, Socialist deputy, and Alejandro Lerroux, leader of the radicals who abandoned the government in December, 1931, rather than collaborate with the Socialists.

Besteiro, as speaker, not as a Socialist, counseled a reconciliation of the ministry, grouping all Republican parties and Socialists under either a Socialist or a nonpolitical personality as a means of prolonging the life of this cortes and avoiding an election. An election, it is generally felt, would be catastrophic now.

REPORT MACHADO ADOPTING U. S. PROGRAM IN CUBA

President Said to Be Taking Welles' Advice

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 8. — With President Gerardo Machado's assurance that he will relinquish his office after the Cuban constitution is amended to reëstablish the office of vice president, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes today became the most likely candidate as Machado's successor.

The opinion is becoming prevalent in Cuba that Machado, although he continues as the chief executive, is no longer a power in shaping the nation's affairs. It is believed that he will now effect only such steps as are approved by Ambassador Welles. Welles, according to this interpretation of events, is now really governing the country's politics in an endeavor to restore political and economic normalcy without extreme violence and unnecessary humiliation to the government.

Censor Press Again.

This version, however, does not square with the fact that Machado today again clapped a rigid censorship on the local press. Foreign correspondents were not affected by the order.

According to one palace source Welles offered Machado the choice of immediate resignation or acceptance of his plan of constitutional revision with retirement some time next year. Machado, it is pointed out, accepted the plan by his pronouncements of last night.

The Welles plan, it is reported, stops government reprisals against oppositionists, assures freedom of the press, abolishes military rule, ends la porra, the government's "strong arm" organization, and guarantees the safety of exiles who wish to return.

New Deal for Cuba.

General elections are to be held in November, 1934, devoid of partisan pressure, according to the reported program. In short, the present Cuban political machinery is to be scrapped in preparation for a start from scratch by the island republic—if the Welles plan is as unofficially outlined.

Welles, it is understood, has promised the support of the United States in effecting the island's economic reconstruction. Negotiations for a new reciprocity tariff treaty are already under way, it is pointed out.

SAME RIDES COST 26 PER CENT MORE IN MONOPOLY CAB

Reporter Tests Rates to Fair Visitors.

A reporter went taxi riding yesterday to discover what World's Fair visitors are called upon to pay the monopoly cab system, which has flourished here for years by virtue of the city council's reluctance to license independent cabs offering lower rates.

For an hour and a half the reporter shuttled back and forth between hotels, railway stations, and the Fair grounds, patronizing the monopoly's Yellow and Checker cabs, whose rate is now 20 cents for the first quarter mile and ten cents for each half mile thereafter.

In response to many complaints the monopoly only this week had reduced the charge for the first quarter mile from 25 to 20 cents, but, even so, the reporter's bill for seven short trips was $2.90.

Independents Save 26 Per Cent.

For the next hour and a half, over exactly the same route, the reporter rode in a machine of the Capitol Cab company, whose rate is 15 cents for the first third mile and 5 cents for each additional third of a mile. The bill for the same seven trips was $2.15, a saving of approximately 26 per cent.

In conversation with monopoly drivers the reporter discovered that, notwithstanding claims of the monopoly attorneys to the contrary, a majority of these drivers favor a lower rate. Although the attorneys have claimed a lower rate would work injury to the men, four out of five drivers interviewed were of the opinion that a reduced fare would boost patronage and increase their present average earnings of $8 to $15 a week.

Monopolize Cab Stands.

On the other hand, four Capitol drivers declared that notwithstanding such handicaps as denial of parking space, insufficient telephones and limitation of licenses to only nine of their cabs, they were making about $6 a day. Under the ordinance which the city council is now talking of revising, thousands of Yellow and Checker cabs monopolize the public parking stands and those at the World's Fair.

The reporter boarded his first monopoly cab, a Checker, at the La Salle hotel, and directed the driver to the La Salle Street station, just .5 of a mile south by the speedometer. The passenger observed that, notwithstanding the flag rate cut from 25 to 20 cents, the meter still flashed 25 cents as the flag went down.

Meters Show Old Rate.

"Yeah, they've cut the rate, but they haven't changed the meters yet," the driver explained. "They'll be down to the 15 and 5 rate before long—you watch. Can't make any money at these rates. I used to get up to $100 a week back in the boom days. Now it's $12 or $15 at the most."

At the station when the driver pulled his flag the meter showed a bill of 35 cents. Disdaining a chance to cheat, the driver said the bill would be 30 cents, accepted a ten cent tip with thanks, and drove away.

The next cab hailed was a Yellow, this company holding a contract monopoly at the La Salle street station. The driver was directed to the Stevens hotel, just .5 of a mile east and south of the depot. His meter also showed a 25 cent charge as he pulled his flag.

"They're talking about busting the monopoly and cutting the rates," he observed, "but the city council is pretty slow. The company is making money and paying dividends, but the drivers aren't making money. Most drivers want a lower rate—figure we can make more money—but we haven't much to say."

Driver Deducts 5 Cents.

The 25 cent flag reading wasn't mentioned, but when the driver tendered the printed receipt for 35 cents at the end of the run, he asked for a nickel less. The next driver in a Checker cab seemed less scrupulous. He was directed to the Fair grounds, .9 of a mile from the hotel by the meter.

"Better go to 18th street," he suggested. "Can't get very close to the gate at 12th street. You want the closest entrance? Better make it 23d street, huh? Making money? How can you, bucking the line for two hours before you get a load. Yeah, there's an independent company running a 15 and 5 rate, but I don't know how they're going."

The bill, when the cab finally reached the parking stand, a good hike from the Fair Grounds gate, was 40 cents. The next driver was ordered to the Congress hotel, one mile away by the speedometer.

Driver for 16 Years.

"I've been at it for sixteen years," said this driver. "The Yellow company pays a 38 per cent commission that nets the driver from $8 to $12 a week. The Checker fellows own their cabs but assign them to the company, which gets its take in storage charges, gasoline, and so on. They don't make much either."

This driver had no positive opinion on what a rate reduction would accomplish. His bill at the Congress was 40 cents. There another Yellow driver was found who had a pronounced view on rate cuts. It appeared he formerly had owned some Yellow stock. He was directed to the Union station, 1.2 miles' distant by the speedometer.

"I don't see how we'll make a living if they cut," he said, en route. "Cutting rates won't do any good. People haven't any money and they won't ride."

A rate card in all Yellow and Checker cabs advertises the waiting time charge at ten cents for each three minutes. At the Union station, a test was made on this particular cab, the meter showing a charge of 55 cents for running time. Instructed to wait the driver pulled out of line and his passenger disappeared for two and a half minutes by his watch. Returning he found the meter showing, not the anticipated ten cents additional, but twenty cents.

The driver couldn't explain it but an inspector for City Sealer Joe Grein did, some time later. The taxi ordinance, it appears, sets a legal limit on the waiting charge of ten cents "for the first three minutes or fraction thereof," and ten cents for every three minutes thereafter. Under this ambiguity, the inspector explained, the monopoly cab meters flash the first ten cents after a minute and a half of waiting, and an extra ten cents for every three minutes following.

For a second test of Yellow waiting time the reporter rode from the Union station to the Hotel Sherman. The fare was sixty cents and the six minutes' waiting time came to 30 cents.

Companies' Rates Compared.

At last the reporter found a Capitol cab at the Roosevelt road station of the elevated lines, the company having rented a vacant lot when the police tried to drive them off the street there. A table comparing the monopoly and Capital rates on each of the trips detailed above, follows:

Trip—	Monopoly rate.	Independent.
Stevens hotel to Fair grounds	.40	.35
Fair grounds to Congress hotel	.40	.30
Congress hotel to Union station	.50	.45
Union station to Hotel Sherman	.60	.40
Tribune Tower to pumping station	.30	.20
Totals	$2.90	$2.15

"Our men have been getting about $6 a day," said Ora Schell, president of the Capitol company and a driver. "The policeman on this beat tried to stop us when we started taking visitors from the elevated station to the Fair grounds at ten cents a head, but he wasn't so tough after we complained to the inspector. We've got the kind of rates the public can pay and our trade will grow if the officials just give us a chance to expand. Competition is the life of this business as much as any other."

BORELLI RETIRES AS THE CZAR OF CLEANING TRADE

Municipal Judge Francis Borelli, recently appointed czar of the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago, announced his voluntary retirement last evening. He said: "The industry has been placed on such a plane—as evidenced by the conduct of its members during the last 30 days—that an arbiter is no longer necessary. Everything is peace and harmony in the industry."

The judge's retirement was announced at a meeting of 200 members of the Master Cleaners and Dyers, a group of large plant owners. At the judge's direction a board of governors of three members was elected to direct the policies of the group. They are Robert Birck, representative of the retail membership; Theodore Becker, chain store representative, and James J. Finnegan, wholesalers' representative.

WIFE TO SEEK DIVORCE FROM ROOSEVELT SON

Elliott and She Disagree, Will Be Charge.

Reno, Nev., June 8.—[Special.]—Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, has established residence near here as his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner, daughter of William H. Donner, Philadelphia industrialist, is to seek divorce on grounds of incompatibility. This was learned today when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Elliott Roosevelt made statements.

Young Roosevelt has taken up residence at the summer home of Samuel Platt, former United States attorney for Nevada, on Lake Tahoe. With the exception of the short visit with his mother in Los Angeles, where he and she admitted the impending divorce action, he has been residing here ten days. Mr. Platt said he was permitted to state Elliott has come to Nevada to live, but could say nothing more.

Young Roosevelt Explains.

"For some time," young Roosevelt said in Los Angeles tonight, "my wife and I have found that our life together was incompatible. We both disliked the idea of a divorce, but now we are convinced it is the best thing for both of us. I have refused to admit a formal separation until I had talked with my mother.

"I have felt that any statement should be made by my wife. It is she who made the decision. In accordance with her suggestion, I will go to Reno, almost immediately, and establish residence. The divorce will be obtained by my wife on grounds of incompatibility."

Either May Ask Divorce.

Nevada divorce laws permit either party to file a divorce action, regardless of which has established residence. Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt would be able to file suit here immediately after her husband has resided in the state six weeks.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt left suddenly for Washington, D. C., from Los Angeles, after revealing the young Roosevelts' impending divorce proceedings. Her departure ended a stay of less than thirty-six hours in that city.

Son Confirms Report.

The disclosure of the domestic break of young Roosevelt and his wife came as Mrs. Roosevelt left her Los Angeles hotel for the Burbank airport. In reply to a question she declared the divorce was in prospect. Elliott, who was at his mother's elbow, confirmed his mother's statement. She soon left for the east.

Young Roosevelt came to the coast a short time ago to become general manager of a west coast air line. He and his wife have been separated for a year. They were married Jan. 16, 1932, and have a son, William Donner Roosevelt, born last Nov. 17. The wedding was a social event in Philadelphia. He is 22 years old and she is 21.

Donner Family Is Silent.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt today maintained strict silence after her break with her husband was disclosed at Los Angeles by his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Neither she nor her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donner, would make any statement. Mr. Donner, millionaire industrialist, said if he has any statement to make in the future he will see that it is given to the public.

Mother Silent on Rumor

Dallas, Tex., June 8.—(AP)—The Dallas News, in a copyrighted article written by its regular Fort Worth correspondent, said Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declined to comment tonight when asked whether her son, Elliott Roosevelt, was to marry Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth if his present wife obtains a divorce in Nevada.

"I really couldn't say anything about that," Mrs. Roosevelt was quoted as saying. "You see, Elliott still is married."

Miss Googins is the daughter of the late John B. Googins, former Texas manager of Swift & Co.

YANCEY TO SEEK NEW AUTOGYRO RECORD AT RACES

Is Assured Place on Program Starting July 1.

Capt. Lewis A. [Lon] Yancey, who flew from New York to Rome with Roger Q. Williams in 1929, yesterday announced that he plans to set a new world's altitude record for autogiros at the American air races, to be staged at Chicago airport on July 1, 2, 3, and 4. The present world's record of 21,500 feet was set by Capt. Yancey at Boston last September.

Capt. Yancey told Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events for the air races, of his plans to attempt the new record. Maj. Schroeder said he is setting aside time in the program of races for the record attempt, which will be made in Capt. Yancey's Wright powered Pitcairn autogiro "Miss Champion," in which he has visited every city of the country with a population of more than 20,000 during the last two years.

Helps Win Bermuda Prize.

Following his sensational flight to Rome, Capt. Yancey navigated the plane which won the $10,000 prize posted by the Bermuda Board of Commerce by making the first flight from the mainland to the island. The plane was flown by Bill Alexander. The island is twelve miles long and two miles wide, and about 750 miles from the coast, necessitating almost perfect navigating. The prize had stood for four years.

A year ago Capt. Yancey flew his autogiro from Miami to Havana, Cuba, and then west over the Yucatan straits and the jungle to Merida, Yucatan. Using Merida as a base he made many flights over the jungle with a Mexican photographer to obtain the first pictures of ancient Mayan ruins.

Flies in Yosemite Canyon.

He has made several other hazardous flights in the "windmill" machine, including one to the floor of the Yosemite canyon with a movie cameraman lashed to the wing of the plane, and over Crator Lake, Ore. Several pilots had been killed and others were forced to abandon their planes in the canyon, in attempts to complete the Yosemite flight.

Capt. Yancey plans to fly over A Century of Progress Exposition in his autogiro this afternoon before he leaves the city. He will return in time for the American air races, which are being held under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

TO SEEK RECORD

Capt. Lewis A. (Lon) Yancey, trans-Atlantic flyer who announced yesterday that he plans to set a new world's altitude record for autogiros at the American Air races, to be staged at Chicago airport July 1, 2, 3 and 4.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TO 186 STUDENTS AT ARMOUR TECH

Commencement exercises continued yesterday in a number of the city's schools. At the Armour Institute of Technology President William E. Hotchkiss addressed the class of 1933 in the afternoon. Degrees were awarded to 160 seniors in the engineering and architectural schools and to 26 graduate students.

Two schools of nursing held graduation exercises. The Cook County School of Nursing presented diplomas to graduates in ceremonies held in Murphy Memorial hall, 50 East Erie street. Exercises were conducted in St. James' Episcopal church, North Wabash avenue and Huron street, for graduates of St. Luke's hospital school of nursing.

CLEMENTI AND 9 AIDS IDENTIFIED IN BANK HOLDUP

Louis "The Louse" Clementi, and nine other members of the "42" gang are wanted by police as the members of the shotgun robbery gang which swarmed into the Main State bank, 2654 West North avenue, yesterday and escaped with $16,300. Photographs of the 10 men were identified at the detective bureau last night by the seven bank employés who were terrorized during the robbery.

The robbery occurred shortly after noon. Arriving in two automobiles the bandits adjusted handkerchiefs over their faces and entered carrying shotguns and small bags. One of the men climbed over a plate glass partition of a teller's cage and left finger prints.

Forcing the seven bank employés and a dozen patrons to lie on the floor, the men looted the cage and fled less than a minute before police arrived. The police had been summoned by two tellers, Ernest Kilgore and Peyton Johnson, who stepped on alarm buttons as the gang entered.

The bank's loss was covered by insurance, according to John Rusnak, vice president. The bank has been open for five years and was one of the first to open after the bank moratorium, he said.

W. I. WESTERVELT WILL DIRECT PACTS FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. William I. Westervelt of Chicago, retired, research director for Sears, Roebuck & Co., was selected today by George N. Peek, chief administrator, for one of the key positions in administration of the farm adjustment act.

He was named director of processing and marketing, a position which will place him in charge of the drafting of marketing agreements with processors of the basic commodities listed in the farm act—cotton, wheat, rice, corn, hogs, tobacco, and dairy products.

Peek also announced appointment of Dr. A. G. Black of Ames, Ia., as acting corn-hog production chief. Black has received an indefinite leave of absence from Iowa State college, where he has been head of the agricultural economic department.

He will assist with drafting of the first policies of the administration in applying the act to corn and hog production. He will work with Guy C. Sheppard of Evanston, Ill., who is chief of meat processing, a position which places him in charge of preparing trade agreements dealing with packing house products.

EXPLORER LOST IN NORTH TIBET 6 YEARS AGO SAFE

PEIPING, China, June 8.—(AP)—Dr. Nils Ambolt, a member of a Chinese-Swedish expedition who was lost in 1927 in northern Tibet, is safe in Khotan, southwest Turkestan, according to a telegram received today by the Swedish explorer, Dr. Sven Hedin, who planned to search for his confrère.

The message from Dr. Ambolt said he was returning shortly to China by way of India.

Dr. Ambolt went into Sin Kiang with a caravan of 80 camels in order to continue four years of research in central Asia. A terrific snowstorm caused Dr. Ambolt to lose his camels and scientific instruments worth thousands of dollars.

He proceeded afoot toward Cherchen oasis, 400 miles south of the capital.

VILLAGE BOARD SPURNS GLENCOE PRESIDENT AGAIN

August Babize, Chicago broker and newly elected president of the village board of Glencoe, made another attempt to appoint his cabinet at a public meeting of the board last night. Hearing the president in silence the board members refused to make a motion to confirm the appointments and the meeting ended in a deadlock after some hot oratory by one of the rejected appointees.

Elected on the economy ticket, Babize took office on May 1. On several occasions he has attempted to make appointments which will place a new cabinet in power. Last evening even Frank H. Stowell, the one economy candidate on the board, sat silent with his five colleagues of the opposition party.

Walter A. Rooney, President Babize's choice for village attorney, informed the board members that they were "playing politics to the detriment of constructive government."

ED WYNN SHOW GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH FROM WINDOW OF HOTEL

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—Mildred Betts, who played two seasons with Ed Wynn in "The Laugh Parade," leaped to her death today from a thirteenth floor window of the Lincoln hotel.

Miss Betts was known as Jerie Rogers and, according to Ed Wynn, was one of the first natural platinum blondes to score a hit on Broadway. Her home was in Williamsport, Pa.

Lately, according to her mother, Mrs. Mary Betts, she had been working in a department store as a model.

Boy Shot as Policeman and Father Fight for Gun

Robert Motis, 15 years old, 6759 South Loomis street, was shot in the left ankle early today when a revolver was discharged during a struggle for the weapon between the boy's father, Frank Motis, and Policeman Adolph Avery of the Morgan Park station. The men quarreled, police said, over the divorce obtained by Motis' daughter, Barbara, from Avery a month ago.

UTILITY CHIEFS TO MEET MONDAY ON CUT IN RATES

Prospects for Reduction Declared Bright.

Officials of the Chicago utility companies will meet in Chicago next Monday with Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, to arrange a reduction in gas and electric rates in Chicago and the suburbs on a basis satisfactory to companies and the commission.

Arrangements for the conference were completed yesterday following the conference in Springfield Wednesday between Gov. Horner, Mr. Lindheimer and the chief executive officers of the three Chicago companies.

Prospects Bright for Reduction.

Prospects are bright that a satisfactory agreement will be reached at the Monday conference, it was said yesterday. Neither the officials of the companies nor Chairman Lindheimer would discuss the probable extent of the reduction.

It was learned, however, that James Simpson, chairman of the three utility companies, told Gov. Horner that the companies are ready to accept voluntarily a reduction in aggregate gross income from gas and electric sales of between 3 and 4 million dollars. This would be partially offset by a 25 per cent cut in dividends to stockholders.

The aggregate gross revenues of the three utility companies in 1932 were $139,179,000. This included income from gas and electric sales only. On the basis of the 1932 revenue a $4,000,000 reduction would amount to 2.8 per cent. This percentage cannot be applied to determine the savings to individual customers because the cut will not apply equally to all classes of business.

2 Companies to Bear Burden.

Commonwealth Edison company and Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, which furnish electric and gas service to the city of Chicago proper, will absorb the greater share of the proposed 4 million reduction. Public Service of Northern Illinois, operating in the suburbs, does a smaller gross business and will accept a proportionately smaller reduction in revenue.

Mr. Simpson declined to comment yesterday on the forthcoming conference. Through his secretary Mr. Simpson made known that he would make clear the position of the companies on the rate reduction later in a formal statement.

Shares of Commonwealth Edison and Public Service were weak on the Chicago exchange yesterday on the news that the companies are prepared to accept a voluntary rate reduction. Edison fell nearly $3 a share to $65.62 and Public Service slumped $2 to $35. Peoples Gas shares traded on the New York exchange were little affected, holding steady at $69.75.

Reduction to Stockholders.

Under the present plan stockholders of the three companies will have to accept an aggregate reduction of $2,708,666 in dividends annually. This would amount to $1 a share on Edison and gas stocks and 60 cents a share on Public Service. The current dividend rates on Edison and Gas stocks are $5 a year and on Public Service stock $3 a year. Up to the time of the retirement of the Insull management each of the companies had paid $8 in dividends annually for several years.

Although the companies have expressed their willingness to accept a rate reduction it was said they would not relent in their opposition to some of the features of the utility control law which Gov. Horner is sponsoring in the state legislature.

Mr. Simpson made his position clear on this point to the governor, who seemed equally determined to see that the legislature enact the bill before adjournment.

Oppose Appraisal Feature.

The feature of the bill to which the utility companies are opposed provides that the companies shall bear the entire expense of examination and appraisals made by the commerce commission. Such a provision will lead to perpetual investigations by the commission, representatives of the companies believe.

The measure, known as house bill 845, also enables the commission to initiate temporary rates for a period not exceeding a year, giving the companies a chance to present their side in the interim. If such a temporary cut is eventually proved unjust the company may amortize the loss in revenue over a period of years. Bankers declare that such an emergency reduction in rates might wreck a company before it had a chance to appeal from the commission's decision.

A third objection is to the provision allowing the commission to forbid the payment of dividends by utility companies when such payment would impair capital. Determination of such a question should be left entirely to the companies, the utility people argue.

Bill Still in Committee.

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Despite Gov. Horner's anxiety for passage of the utilities' dictatorship bill, the house subcommittee considering the bill took no action today.

Representative John R. McSweeny [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the subgroup, said tonight that his committee would meet "the first thing tomorrow" and recommend the bill favorably or unfavorably. But this will be only the first step; the recommendation must then be fought over before the full utilities committee before it is brought to the attention of the house proper.

FEDERAL LOANS TO BE SOUGHT BY LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—[Special.]—Frank L. Shaw, mayor elect of Los Angeles, today stated his administration, starting July 1, would be committed to accomplishment of nine major construction projects, all to be financed by money he expects to get from the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Washington under the mayor elect's description of the projects as "self-liquidating."

The projects are:

1. Rapid transit system for city and county.
2. Immediate development of Los Angeles harbor.
3. Development of this city as a coast shipbuilding center.
4. Five year plan of constructing highway and grade crossings.
5. Building a two way freeway from San Fernando valley, skirting the city and running direct from that ranch region to the harbor.
6. Slum rehabilitation.
7. A land chest and back-to-the-soil movement.
8. Public building plan in connection with new federal postoffice.
9. Flood control construction.

Capt. Callaghan Going to Hungary for Counterfeiter

Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, chief of the United States secret service in Chicago, yesterday received a presidential warrant for the extradition of John Molnar, fugitive counterfeiter, from Budapest, Hungary. Capt. Callaghan will make the trip to Budapest to return Molnar to Chicago. Molnar jumped a $12,000 bond following his arrest here for possession of $50,000 in bogus currency.

BAILIFFS SHIFT BLAME AT QUIZ ON JAIL ESCAPE

Just an Honest Mistake, Says Meyering.

The investigation yesterday into the strange disappearance from jail of John Holland, 25 years old, while he was awaiting trial on three criminal charges, turned into a session of blame shifting among the employés of the bailiff of the criminal court. Three deputy bailiffs appeared before Chief Justice John Prystalski and told varied stories of how Holland was permitted to escape.

Juggling of a remand slip, which serves as a receipt for a prisoner and which, in Holland's case, did not reach the jail until 24 hours after the prisoner was brought in, gave Holland an opportunity to slip out of the institution, the investigation disclosed. Warden Baird Moneypenny announced at the hearing thta he was sure Chief Bailiff James Z. Gabriel of the Criminal court was to blame. Bailiff Gabriel in turn said the jail officials are at fault.

Seeks Reason for Delay.

"I want to know why Holland's remand slip was delayed in reaching the jail," Chief Justice Prystalski said, addressing his remarks to Sheriff William D. Meyering, who has charge of the bailiff's office. "It looks as if this was a prearranged scheme to allow the prisoner to escape. Before I am through I intend to find out who was at the bottom of it."

Called from the courtroom at this point, the chief justice turned his chambers over to the sheriff. Mr. Meyering herded his bailiffs into the room for a star chamber session. As he closed the door he was heard to remark that "some one is a damned liar."

After the session the sheriff announced that "there has been an unintentional mistake. There is no reason to believe there was collusion."

The mysterious manner in which the remand slip was handled was related by Deputy Bailiffs Jack Rellihan, Leo Nowicki, and Michael Russell. Rellihan said he took charge of Holland in Judge Prystalski's courtroom on last May 25, after Holland had been surrendered by his bondsmen. Rellihan then turned the prisoner over to Nowicki to be taken to jail. Rellihan said he gave Nowicki two remand slips, one for Holland and one for another prisoner who was to go to the the county jail.

Takes Holland to Jail.

Nowicki said he took Holland to the county jail but did not wait to complete the usual formalities in transferring custody of a prisoner. He said he gave Holland's remand slip and the one fo rthe other prisoner to Russell and added that he was certain he saw the jail clerk, Frank Parpinski sign them. Russell, called to testify, said the remand slips were signed but not by Parpinski. George Troike, a jail trusty and assistant to Parpinski, signed them, Russell said.

Parpinski denied that he had signed the slips. He said that he had noted that there was none for Holland. This was confirmed by Troike, the trusty, who testified the bailiff admitted that Holland's slip had been forgotten. The bailiff promised, he said, to "come right back with it." The slip was not brought in until 24 hours later.

Holland's escape was revealed Tuesday when he failed to appear on a charge of robbing a truck driver of $2,700 in tobacco. Holland had been at liberty in $10,000 bond on the robbery charge until he was arrested on two charges of automobile theft. Later the signers of his $10,000 bond refused to stay on Holland's bond and he was surrendered and ordered jailed. When the remand slip did not arrive at the jail Holland was able to slip out when he made $2,000 bond in the auto theft case."

COUNTY SEEKING WAYS TO PUT TAX CUT INTO EFFECT

Actual Saving Under Ruling About 10%.

County officials turned their attention yesterday to means of making the vast changes in the 1931 assessment roll and tax books made necessary by the Supreme court opinion on Wednesday sustaining the board of appeals order for a 15 per cent assessment cut.

The order as it now stands provides for a 15 per cent reduction in the base prices alone of homes and two and three flat buildings. It does not apply to the assessments on land on which these properties stand nor to incidental buildings such as garages, nor to variations in the building assessments from the base price due to extra valuations for such items as improved heating systems, extra bathrooms, and improved roofs.

Actual Saving About 10 Per Cent.

The order, therefore, will not mean a straight 15 per cent cut in their bills for the taxpayers. As it now stands it will reduce the average bill about 10 per cent. Assessor J. L. Jacobs has pointed out that the work of changing the assessment rolls and tax bills will be greatly simplified if the board of appeals will amplify its order to include in the reduction the total building assessment of the properties involved.

George F. Nixon of the board of tax appeals said that he and Fred W. Brummel, his fellow member, are willing to do this if they are assured that the change is not made the basis for a new attack upon the validity of their order. If this change is made the saving to the average small taxpayer will be increased to about 11 per cent.

Seek Authority for Rebates.

Taxpayers who have paid only the first installment of their 1931 tax bills will find the reduction under the order deducted from the amount still due when they get their second installment bills after the changes in the assessment rolls and tax books have been made. This reduction, of course, will be upon the basis of their full bill and not the unpaid portion alone.

But more than 70,000 small taxpayers already have paid their 1931 bills in full. Under the present statutes there is no legal manner in which these taxpayers, comprising one-sixth of the individuals supposed to benefit by the order, may receive a rebate.

One of the first points brought up yesterday in discussions of the situation was the necessity for legislation making it possible to avoid discrimination against these taxpayers. That can be done, in the opinion of Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax department of the state's attorney's office, by passage of a law giving the county treasurer power to make such rebates.

May Add Million to Costs.

Assessor Jacobs estimated that the cost to his office and those of County Clerk Sweitzer and County Treasurer McDonough, in making the changes under the present form of the appeals board order, would be between $500,000 and $1,000,000 and would delay tax collections for six months. Under the simplified order proposed the time necessary would be cut in half, he estimated, and the cost greatly reduced.

Mr. Nixon, however, termed the assessor's estimates of cost and time required "silly." He asserted that the work can be done for $50,000 within two months.

He likewise pointed out that the Supreme court ruling will greatly lighten the work of the board of appeals in hearing 102,500 complaints against 1931 real estate assessments now pending before it. About 35,000 of the complaints, he estimated, were filed by small taxpayers asking the 15 per cent reduction which they will now get automatically.

Even with these complaints off its docket it will take the board until Aug. 17 to hear the remaining ones, he estimated. The present penalty date on second installment payments is Sept. 1, and for the reduction to apply all of the complaints must be heard and the tax bills sent out before that date.

Peril Tax Warrant Market.

Another angle of the situation which worried officials of all local governments yesterday was the effect of the Supreme court ruling on their market for tax warrants. Bankers have said time and again that if the board of appeals has power to make blanket assessment cuts after the taxes are extended they will not feel justified in buying any more tax warrants.

If the board of appeals can cut one class of property 15 per cent, they argue, there is no legal reason why it cannot make other cuts of 20, 30, or 40 per cent, reducing the security behind the warrants by those amounts.

A test of the bankers' attitude on this point may be made shortly when the Sargent committee attempts to sell $900,000 worth of 1932 warrants for the county so that it may give a month's salary to its employès, now even farther behind in their pay than are the school teachers. County commissioners were pessimistic yesterday regarding their chances of selling these warrants.

"We won't be able to get any money from the banks," said Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee. "They told us last week that if this order was sustained we wouldn't get any money."

"I don't know where we can get the extra money to give Assessor Jacobs for his work," added President Emmett Whealan of the county board.

Propose Curb on Board.

The remedy suggested to restore the marketability of tax warrants is passage of a law forbidding the board of appeals to make blanket assessment cuts in the future. The present order applies only to the 1931 taxes, against which all the warrants possible already have been sold. If the board is prevented from taking similar action on future assessment rolls the objections of the bankers will be removed.

Whether the Supreme court will be asked for a rehearing of the mandamus action in which it upheld the assessment cut was still under consideration yesterday by Attorney Homer H. Cooper and other associates of Attorney Lester L. Falk, who attacked the order on behalf of a taxpayer. If a rehearing is granted it will be heard by the new membership of the court, elected this week, of which only two of the justices who signed the opinion Wednesday will still be members.

Auto Thefts.

For the 24 hour period ending at 11 o'clock last evening there were 96 automobiles stolen, 71 recovered, and 12 stripped.

THREATENS JAIL FOR FIVE IN LOOP BACK TAX QUIZ

Stockholders Subpœnaed by Judge Jarecki.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

	1928.	1929.
June 8	$ 22,085	$ 171,431
Uncollected ..	19,535,366	51,477,275
	1930.	1931.
June 8	$ 118,619	$ 147,358
Uncollected ..	83,079,594	114,476,329

The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $15,745.

Five stockholders in control of the La Salle-Monroe Building corporation, owner of the property at 39 South La Salle street, were subpœnaed yesterday by County Judge Jarecki to appear at a hearing June 14 when they will be asked to explain some matters revealed by a state's attorney's investigation.

The stockholders, referred to as a "closed corporation" in a report, are L. J. Lesser, M. E. Papke, B. J. Galow, H. F. Busch, and C. W. Neubauer. None was present in Judge Jarecki's court yesterday, nor were any of their lawyers, although the sheriff had been given summonses for them.

Income $750,000 Yearly.

An information presented by Assistant State's Attorney William Kearney revealed that the yearly income of the building was between $750,000 and $800,000; that funds had been set aside to pay the 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes aggregating $335,000, but that only $40,000 had been paid on the 1928 taxes and none for the succeeding two years.

"This is the kind of case responsible for our tax debacle," declared Assistant State's Attorney Hayden Bell after the information had been presented. "This case is going to take some one to jail. The higher courts have said that taxes come before anything else. It is time to see whether this dictum is to be obeyed by property owners. It looks here as if the stockholders got the dividends and the bondholders were victimized."

$58,000 Due on Taxes.

The delinquent tax bill on the property is now about $58,000, the report showed, the fee owner of the property having been recently compelled to pay $237,000 in taxes because of the failure of the building corporation to pay up, although funds had ostensibly been set aside for tax purposes.

An audit of the books showed a charging off of bad debts in 1931 of $87,694, although in the five preceding years this amount had never been more than $1,500; that $378,500 had been charged up as depreciation in six years; that $50,000 had been paid for a reorganization which was never effected; that $52,500 had been paid in 1928 dividends to the stockholders and a 13 per cent and 9 per cent dividend declared in 1929 and 1930, respectively.

Use Tax Money for Fees.

Another information presented by Prosecutor Kearney was aimed at Frank J. Nurmingham, receiver for the 16 apartment building at 4524 North Lincoln street, upon which delinquent taxes total $6,292. The report showed that $4,000 had been on hand which could have been applied to the payment of back taxes, but that Attorney J. Percival Pio, representing the complainant in foreclosure proceedings, had taken $1,500 of this and Receiver Nurmingham had taken $475 for fees.

Moreover, Attorney Pio had asked Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend, before whom the receivership is pending, for permission to take advantage of the six year payment plan of taxes.

"Why, that plan was intended only for nonrevenue producing properties," interrupted Judge Jarecki. "It was certainly never intended to apply to a property where cash was on hand. Send a transcript of these proceedings to Judge Friend so that he will know the facts in this case and we will have a hearing in this court on June 14 to determine why taxes were not paid before receivers and attorneys' fees."

$252,000 Collected in Court.

A number of large payments on taxes were made in Judge Jarecki's court by property owners anxious to avoid tax receiverships. A total of $252,000 was collected in court.

Attorney John G. Campbell presented a check for $12,000 in part payment on delinquent taxes of $50,846 owed by the Brevoort hotel and commented:

"Every penny of this payment was made available by profits from beer sold at the Crystal bar in the hotel."

A receiver was appointed for the City club, 315 Plymouth court. Attorney R. M. Adams, as a member of the club, protested, saying that the membership of the club had sunk from 2,000 to 500 and that a receiver could do no good.

"If each member of the club, as a civic duty, would kick in $20, that would pay the delinquent taxes of $6,160," remarked Judge Jarecki.

Having listened to the report on the Brevoort hotel and the beer profits there, a discussion followed of the advisability of putting a bar into the City club.

"That will be up to County Treasurer McDonough as receiver," smiled the judge, signing the order.

Other payments in court were as follows: Old Colony Life building, 180 West Jackson boulevard, $47,922 paid on a $58,056 tax bill; Stanley McCormick estate, 110 South Clark street, $76,693 to make a total of 75 per cent of delinquent taxes paid; Chicago Musical college, 62 East Van Buren street, $10,965 on a $14,620 bill; Plaisance hotel, 6000 Stony Island avenue, $3,000 and a promise of all net income estimated as high as $7,000 a month. The Atlantic hotel, 320 South Clark street, was given until Saturday to pay $20,267 in back taxes.

Reports $200 Lost in Cab; Purse with $404 Recovered

C. B. Raymond of Santa Barbara, Cal., a visitor to A Century of Progress, discovered that he had lost a purse containing $200 after he had boarded a train for home. Having ridden to the railroad station in a Yellow cab, Mr. Raymond sent a wire to the cab company. A short time later a driver, Oswald Jeske, appeared with the purse. As his train reached Arizona, Mr. Raymond received a telegram that his purse had been found and would be returned. The wire said, however, that the purse did not contain $200. There was $404 in it.

Those Good ALLSTATE Tires WIN!!

The 1933 QUALITY Race

No, we're not in the racing business, because it costs a lot of money for special equipment to build those special racing tires that are used in the big events. Our money is put into the development of better tires for highway use at lower prices. Thus the saving is passed on to you. Anyway, you wouldn't want a set of the best racing tires made if you could get them for next to nothing for your car, because they just are not satisfactory for highway driving.

A very prominent Racing Driver said:

"The tires we use in the big races are made special for racing and are different in type, design, and grade than any tires used to equip passenger cars of any kind or that are used to replace such original equipment. Racing tires just aren't designed or made for the highways."

They Can't Argue Against A Written Guarantee

ALLSTATE TIRES ARE TOP GRADE

They can say in seventeen languages that No. 2 grade (second line) tires in other lines are equal in quality and value to ALLSTATE tires, but there is little room for argument when Sears makes the positive statement that ALLSTATE quality has been proven by actual test to be second to none in the field, and backs it up with a written guarantee against blowouts, rim cuts and worn-out tread for any reason for one full year.

SARGENT GROUP HITS 40 MILLION BOND PROPOSAL

Report Points to Danger of Large Issues.

The proposed issuance of $40,000,000 in bonds by the school board to replenish its working cash fund and indirectly provide the cash to meet school salaries in full was criticized in a communication from the committee on public expenditures to members of the school board, made public yesterday by James B. McCahey, president of the school board.

The report, signed by Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the committee, and John O. Reesits, director, commends the effort of the school trustees to get off their present extenuated basis of credit and to avoid dependence upon the sale of tax warrants alone for cash. But, the report says, the theory under which the working cash fund was established will not justify the issuance of more than $18,000,000 in bonds.

Aim of Working Cash Fund.

The original purpose of the working cash funds of the county, city and school board, it is pointed out, was to provide a revolving fund equal to one year's tax income. From this fund money would be borrowed to keep the governments operating without recourse to outside borrowings pending the collection of taxes for that year.

The school board in 1930 sold $25,000,000 worth of bonds to start its working cash fund. An additional $40,000,000 in bonds would give the board, instead of the tax income for one year originally contemplated, 160 per cent of a year's income. If the city and county take the school board's actions as a precedent, the total of bond issues will be $70,000,000, the report points out.

The creation of such a large working cash fund by the city, the report warns, may lead to litigation in which taxpayers will seek to invalidate a large proportion of the 1933 school tax levies, on the charge that such expenses have already been paid by the issuance of bonds over the one-year-revenue limit originally set for the working cash funds.

The Committee's View.

"If the working cash funds are confined to the theory and purpose for which they were established, namely, a one year shortening of the credit spread of the educational fund and the city and county corporate funds," says the report, "their creation will have served a commendable purpose for both the taxpayers and the governments.

"If, on the other hand, there is no practical or legal limit to the issue of bonds on the levy of taxes for these funds, they simply become bottomless pits into which the proceeds of bond issues can be poured without limit. If there is no definite legal limit, the working cash fund arrangement becomes a veneer of legalistic ritual by which the ordinary running expenses of local government are paid from the proceeds of bond issues."

The report ends with a warning as to the increasing percentage of tax levies being required for interest and amortization of bonds. Bond and interest payments represented 20 per cent of the 1929 tax levy, 29 per cent of the 1931 levy, and it will reach 35 per cent, the report estimates, for the 1933 levy. This latter figure does not include any taxes for the proposed school bonds, which will not be levied until 1934.

"NO REPEAL FOR U. S.," SAYS DRY DIRECTOR; FOR 12% WINE NOW

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Officials of the Roosevelt administration may be working tooth and nail for repeal of the 18th amendment, but A. V. Dalrymple, prohibition administrator, is not.

For Mr. Dalrymple, with his customary emphasis, announced today that he is "unalterably opposed" to repeal. Moreover, he doubted whether repeal would bring in the revenues that are expected and with which President Roosevelt hopes eventually to finance his public works program.

Coming from a newly appointed official of the new administration Mr. Dalrymple's statement caused no little surprise at the ways and means committee hearing at which he was testifying on the Lea bill to legalize wine of 11 to 12 per cent.

But while he declared his opposition to repeal, the dry head announced his advocacy of "liberalization" of the dry laws. He favors beer, he said, because it has decreased drunkenness, and he favors the wine bill because he thinks legal wine would likewise promote temperance even if, as he said, "you would get a skinful" if you drank enough 12 per cent wine.

INCREASED BEER CONSUMPTION IN NEW YORK

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—The fourteen New York city breweries which are members of the New York State Brewers' association sold 13,000 more barrels of beer during the second thirty day period after the sale of beer was legalized than during the first thirty day period.

The total sales during the second period, from May 7 to June 6, were 363,000 barrels in New York City alone. There are thirty-one gallons in a barrel of beer, so the increased consumption amounted to 503,000 gallons.

The federal barrelage tax amounted to $1,850,000 during the second period and in addition new national license fees of $2,500 each, amounting to $35,000, were paid.

Club Forum to Discuss National Recovery Bill

The pending national industrial recovery bill will be discussed today at the forum luncheon of the City club, at 315 Plymouth court. Speakers will be Prof. Henry L. McCarthy of Lewis institute, Prof. Andrew A. Bruce of Northwestern law school, and Dr. B. M. Squires.

BEER ALREADY HAS MORE KICK, WAHL REPORTS

His Analysis Shows Eight Brands Are Over 3.2.

Chemical analyses of 24 beers being sold in Chicago have shown a decided improvement in the quality and an increase in the alcoholic content as compared with beer tested two months ago, Dr. Robert Wahl reported to a graduating class of brewers in his institute at 612 West Lake street yesterday.

The beer was tested, according to Dr. Wahl's report, for alcoholic content, body and zest giving extractives from malt, other cereals and hops; mineral ingredients, taste, flavor, clarity, effervescence, foam stability, and süffigkeit, that quality which invites another stein.

Eight of the beers were found to have an alcoholic content in excess of the legal maximum of 3.2 per cent by weight. Of these, four were made in Chicago and four were shipped in, Dr. Wahl said.

The 24 sample bottles—bought in the open market—had an average alcoholic content of 3.1 per cent by weight, as compared with the average of 2.8 found by the chemists of the prohibition department shortly after the legalization of beer sales on April 7. The beers ranged in strength from 2.97 to 4.2 per cent by weight.

The Wahl report said that 14 of the 24 beers met all the requirements of the connoisseur. Only four were found to have an excessive amount of gas, which destroys foam stability. Two showed evidence of having been directly exposed to the sunlight too long. This "light struck" beer was found to have a nauseating odor.

Three were deficient in body and therefore lacked süffigkeit, or the appetizing quality. One had a pronounced salty taste due to the addition of too much common salt to the wort. This brew was intended, according to the report, for near beer.

The report said that tests had demonstrated a lack of uniformity in determination of the alcoholic content of beer by the government formula. Under the government's process of extracting the alcohol by distillation, according to the report, some of the alcohol is evaporated, with the result that the content determined is too low.

As a result of these tests the institute devised a new process of distillation whereby none of the alcohol is lost and the exact content is found, the report said.

Woman, 90, Who Knew Lincoln, to Visit Fair

Mrs. Mattie H. Pattison, 90 years old, arrived here this week from Kansas City, Mo., to visit the Fair. For a few days she is resting at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Eloise Newkirk, 6244 North Claremont avenue, before starting a tour of the Fair. One of the things she expects to see, she said yesterday, is the Lincoln exhibit in the Illinois Host building. "When I was a girl I lived at Monticello, and learned to admire Abraham Lincoln," Mrs. Pattison said. "I remember how thrilled I was when he shook hands with me."

AHOY, CHILDREN! THIS IS YOUR DAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

Prices Reduced for Boys and Girls Under 12.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The first Children's day at the World's Fair will be celebrated today, when all the wonders and entertainment features of the great exposition will be open to boys and girls under 12 years old at special reduced rates.

School will close for the year at noon today, releasing some 250,000 pupils who are under 12 years old. This and the special admission rate of five cents to the grounds are expected to attract the largest juvenile attendance yet recorded at the Fair. Once in the grounds the children will find nearly every concession open to them at a special admission charge of five cents for each feature. The normal charge for children is 25 cents to each concession.

May Become Regular Feature.

Fair and school officials are coöperating to make today, the last day of the school year, a gala day for the children. Promptly at noon the schools will close and the trek to the exposition grounds is expected to begin. From the entrance gate on 12th street to the tip end of Enchanted island a nickel is the open sesame to the delights for children. Even nickel hot dogs ond nickel drinks have been provided by the concessionaires. If today draws a record attendance of children, officials plan to make every Friday a special day for them.

The gates open at 9:30 a. m. The first and probably the most interesting single event for the children will be the gigantic parade at 11 o'clock. The parade may be witnessed for the single admission fee.

Shortly before 11 o'clock at the south entrance to the grounds a story book land will come to life for the children. Hundreds of Indians, cowboys, elephants, lions, clowns, cossacks, two bands, a caliope, all the events and equipment of circus land will be there.

Talk to Performers.

Not only can the children see the parade but they can talk to the performers, ride in the stage coaches, and do other things every child has wanted to do.

The parade forms at the south entrance and will go north in Leif Ericson drive to the 12th street gate, across the bridge to Northerly island, south on the island to the 23d street bridge, and south on the mainland to the starting point. Children who want to follow the parade may do so.

The side shows and barkers, the rides and the games, all have agreed to do their utmost to make children's day a success. Even the bathing facilities of Jantzen beach are on the nickel list. The Horticultural building, to which a usual admission fee is 25 cents, has gone other exhibits one better and will admit children under 12 years of age free.

Among the shows the children may see are the Battle of Gettysburg, the Pantheon de la Guerre, the Fort Dearborn massacre, the Midget Village, the Oriental Village, the Miller 101 Ranch, the Florida Alligator show and practically all others. The rides and the games are all on the nickel list.

Ride with Barney Oldfield.

One feature attraction will be a ride with Barney Oldfield, famous racing driver, over the testing grounds of the Chrysler corporation in the fair. Oldfield promises to take as many children as can pile in his car and will make runs all day.

Junior Fair Tours, with headquarters on Enchanted island, will provide a special rate for children so that they may see the exposition at their ease and with a guide. For the day, the charge will be 5 cents an hour or 20 cents for the full four hour tour. Burton Holmes, travel lecturer, will be guest conductor.

Hollywood to Open.

Today's special event for older visitors will be the gala opening of Hollywood at 9 p. m. The main trek to Hollywood will start at the Wrigley pier in the Chicago river. Headed by the steamer Isle Royale, making its first Chicago appearance, a parade of boats will proceed to the south end of the Fair lagoon.

The guest list will include Ben Bernie, acting as master of ceremonies, Harry Richman, Ben Pollack, Claire Windsor, Doris Robbins, Ted Weems, Guy Lombardo, Buddy Rogers, Tony Sarg, Harold Stokes, George Olson, Wayne King, Phil Baker, Fifi D'Orsay, Francis X. Bushman, Leo Carillo, Tom Patricola, Vincent Lopez, Andrea Marsh, and others.

Hollywood is on the south end of Northerly island, facing on the lake. It is the last stop on the bus route.

Despite the warm weather yesterday there were 42,432 paid admissions to the Fair, officials reported at midnight.

Jewish Pageant to Depict 40 Centuries of Religion

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Forty centuries of religious progress will be depicted in a mighty pageant when "The Romance of a People" is presented in Soldier's field on July 3 as the Jewish contribution to A Century of Progress.

The pageant is to be a gigantic spectacle—and more. Isaac Van Grove, conductor of the Chicago Civic opera, as he drew the lines for the production, found the living spirit and vitality of a race whose religious influence has changed the world. One of the aims of the production will be to foster an understanding of the religious passion of a people in whose experience the belief in a compassionate God began.

Of Interest to Christians.

While "The Romance of a People" will be presented on Jewish day of A Century of Progress, Judge Harry M. Fisher, general chairman of the events of that day, and Meyer W. Weisgal, executive director of the pageant, pointed out that the event is of vital interest to Christians of all sects.

"We have no history, other than racial, that is exclusively our own as Jews," said Judge Fisher. "Our religious history belongs not only to Judaism, but also to Christianity and Mohammedanism. 'The Romance of a People' will be shared with our Christian friends as a common historical experience."

As a result of this expression of good will, Protestant and Catholic leaders have formed a Chicago committee of Christian friends who are coöperating actively in the preparation for the event. Among the great cast of 3,500 persons will be found great numbers of Christian actors and musicians. Judge John P. McGoorty, prominent Catholic layman, is the chairman of the Christian committee.

Christians Aiding Work.

Others in this group include Dean Shailer Mathews, D. F. Kelly, Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago Methodist Episcopal area, Paul Rader, evangelist, Henry P. Chandler, President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation; Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston; Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, and a score of others.

The Christian support for the pageant has been enlisted by Dr. J. M. Artman, director of the Religious Educational association. Judge Fisher said such coöperation would make "The Romance of a People" the "high mark of religion at A Century of Progress."

Mr. Van Grove, employing in the pageant what he calls "the dynamics of the Bible," has chosen to reproduce human struggle, pain and longing which attended the birth of the idea of God. In painstaking rehearsals during recent months, Mr. Van Grove has impressed upon his artists, singers, actors, dancers, and designers and "this is not a pageant in the sense of a series of static scenes or tableaux vivants, nor is it a pictorial symbolization of the stages of religious thought."

"The Romance of a People," Mr. Van Grove emphasizes, "is the enactment of the agonies through which a people passed in giving to the world the foundation of its religious concepts."

The ability to depict action of that sort, as well as movement of thought, is an art in which both the Hebrews and their successors, the Jews, have always been leaders.

Akin to Passion Play.

The pageant may be regarded as America's first attempt at a Passion Play. But the difference between this and the play of Oberammergau lies in the fact that hitherto such dramas and pageants have confined their action and representation to one or two incidents from Holy Writings.

The aim of this pageant, Mr. Van Grove asserts, is to portray, with all the modern mechanics of the stage and of music, a people as a whole in the grip of a religious idea, giving to all mankind a vision destined to live forever.

It is not always understood that Abraham, the father of the Jew, was the first protestant. He protested against the several ideals of early people. He protested against human oppression and despotism. Religion of that early day had no humanizing influence. The gods were monstrous symbols of blind forces of evil. As the ancient oriental despot was the incarnation of ruthless cruelty, so the gods were regarded as powers which could be placated only by human blood.

A Sacrifice to Moloch.

The first episode of the pageant has seen built around the sacrifice of a child to the god Moloch, A huge figure of the god, 27 feet high, has been created to serve as the center of this scene. It will be flanked by lesser idols. More than 500 slaves and worshipers will enact the ritual of the "passing of a child through the flames" against which the Hebrew prophets protested.

This scene will aim to show how the protests of the first worshipers of God against such sacrifices marked the birth of true religious concepts.

LUTHERANS WILL DEDICATE FAIR EXHIBIT TODAY

The Rev. Dr. Alex Ullrich, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, La Grange, will dedicate the national exhibit of the Evangelical Lutheran church, Missouri synod, in the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress this afternoon. Dr. Ullrich is president of the Northern Illinois district of that church.

Dr. R. A. Kretzman, chairman of the exhibit, will be the principal speaker at the exercises. A short musical program will be given by the Concordia College Glee club of Milwaukee.

This exhibit contains the murals executed by L. W. Bendix Taenzer of St. Louis, Mo. The committee of A Century of Progress expressed enthusiasm for the sketches when submitted and set aside its ruling of "approved artists only" and accepted the work.

Parade to Precede 40 and 8 Dedication Rites Tomorrow

Mayor Kelly yesterday granted a permit for a parade tomorrow through the loop to A Century of Progress Exposition to dedicate the "40 & 8" headquarters in the Sears building. One of the features of the dedication will be the playing of "Semper Fidelis" by 1,500 members of drum and bugle corps of Legion posts of the west, the largest gathering of its kind, according to Samuel Rowland, state director of the Bandmasters' association, who will direct the event.

ITALIAN PLANES POISED FOR AIR TRIP TO CHICAGO

Plans for Reception of Armada Made.

Twenty-four seaplanes are poised on the waters of the Bay of Obertello near Rome, Italy, for the greatest mass flight ever attempted. While the air armada awaits favorable weather before taking off for A Century of Progress, plans were being completed in Chicago yesterday for a reception to the squadron.

Cable dispatches from Rome last night said that wind and rain were whipping the Bay of Obertello and that meteorological conditions were unfavorable over the North Atlantic and particularly between Iceland and Labrador. Aviation officials believed the Italian armada might not be able to take off until next week, the dispatches said.

If the 6,280 mile formation flight is completed without mishap the 24 twin-motor planes are scheduled to land in the harbor off Navy pier June 20 or 21. Unless weather conditions improve soon the armada may not arrive until a later date. On their arrival here the 100 aviators, commanded by Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian minister of air, will be formally saluted by the gunboat Wilmette. The armada will be convoyed on the last leg of its journey by a squadron of army flyers from Selfridge field, Michigan.

May Land at Lake Geneva.

In the event the Lake Michigan shore line is foggy and the harbor choppy, the fleet will land at Lake Geneva, Wis. From either landing place the flyers will be escorted to the exposition grounds where they will be welcomed on behalf of the government by Harry S. New, United States commissioner to A Century of Progress.

After this official welcome the flyers will be greeted by city and exposition officials in a massmeting at Soldiers' field. Speakers will reply to the gesture of the Italian government to demonstrate the friendliness of the people of Italy for the people of Chicago and the expression for the success of the Fair which is the purpose of the flight.

A three day reception is to be held for the flyers. On the evening of their arrival they will be greeted by the Dante Alighieri club at the Drake hotel, where they will make their headquarters. There will be a dinner dance later, probably at the Electric club in the Civic Opera house.

Cardinal to Celebrate Mass.

On the second day the flyers will attend a thanksgiving mass in Holy Name cathedral which will be celebrated by Cardinal Mundelein. They will visit the Exposition and in the evening attend a dinner of welcome to be given at the Stevens hotel by Italian societies of Chicago.

On the third day a visit to the Chicago airport is planned. There is also to be a celebration at the Auditorium theater and a ball to be given by Italian-American societies. Plans for the reception are being made by a committee of Chicagoans working in conjunction with Col. Carlo Tempesti, noted Italian aviator, and Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general in Chicago.

The air fleet will take off from Rome and fly to Iceland by way of Holland and Londonderry. From Iceland the flyers will proceed to Labrador or Newfoundland and down the St. Lawrence river to Chicago. After the reception here the flyers are to go to New York, where they will spend a week, including a visit to Washington.

On the flight homeward the air armada will take the southern route to the Azores, Africa and thence to Rome.

700 GUARDS ARE LET OUT AT FAIR; MAY BE RECALLED

The World's Fair has discharged 700 guards in the last two days, it was learned yesterday. One entire division of 357 guards was discharged yesterday. A. C. Thurman, director of employment, explained that the guards were let out because it was discovered that more men were employed during the rush of opening week than were needed. It was indicated the men might be recalled in August, when it is expected attendance will be rapidly increasing.

Five persons were rescued from a flaming motor launch in Lake Michigan, 300 feet off Northerly island, yesterday afternoon as hundreds of visitors to A Century of Progress looked on. The boat is the Wyllys T., 40 foot cabin cruiser owned by Dr. Charles Miller, 6347 Maryland avenue.

It was cruising 300 feet off shore when fire started in the motor and the boat burst into flames. An unidentified man operating an outboard motor boat drew alongside and took the passengers from the burning launch.

Those on board were Wyllys T. Miller, 343 East 79th street, a son of Dr. Miller; his daughter, Marilyn, 5 years old; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Henderson of Los Angeles and Hugh Howard, 213 West 62d street. Miller was slightly burned in the rescue and was taken to the Woodlawn hospital and treated by his father, who is chief of the hospital staff.

The fire was extinguished by Capt. Lockhart of the pleasure boat Kittaning, which operates between Navy pier and 23d street. He ordered his boat alongside and directed the fire fighting. The Wyllys T. was towed to the 23d street dock by the Kittaning.

NATIONAL PEONY SHOW TO OPEN TODAY AT FAIR

Visitors to the Fair will be given an opportunity to see the finest as well as the largest peonies produced in the nation. A large collection of the flowers will be placed on display in the Horticultural building today. According to W. F. Christman, secretary of the American Peony society which is staging its national peony show at the Exposition, there will be nearly 100,000 blooms. This is the largest display ever arranged in this country. Hot weather damage has been circumvented by cutting the peonies as buds and keeping them in cold storage.

PARK BOARD WILL TRY NEW TRAFFIC SYSTEM AT FAIR

Plan of Experts Will Be Inaugurated.

BY HAL FOUST.

A new traffic system will be inaugurated, probably this week-end, in Grant park and the north approach to the World's Fair. George T. Donoghue, superintendent of south parks, yesterday agreed to try a plan advocated by A Century of Progress administration. The agreement was reached at a luncheon meeting of the administration committee headed by Ald. John A. Massen [48th].

Under the new scheme, bus and taxicab passengers will not have to climb a foot bridge in front of the Field museum to reach the Roosevelt road gates. Northbound through traffic will no longer be routed east in front of the museum and north in the outer drive but will continue north in the inner drive as it did before the exposition opened.

Willing to Try New Plan.

"I still believe that the south park plan now in operation is more satisfactory than the one proposed by this committee," said Mr. Donoghue, "but the south park board is willing and anxious to try all plans, and to determine by a process of elimination the best arrangements for accommodating World's Fair traffic and through traffic.

"I can't agree with some newspaper critics that the present traffic arrangement has failed. It has handled the business rush hour movements without delay. And even under the peak loads of Fair traffic in the evening automobiles have been kept moving. However, I agree that we have yet to experience the big crowds that are expected in July and August and it is well that we perfect our system before these big crowds arrive."

Fair Traffic on Outer Drive.

The new traffic plan, prepared by a group of the city's leading traffic engineers, will take over the outer drive of Grant park for A Century of Progress traffic only. The drive will run into a double loop terminal on existing pavement 800 feet from the Roosevelt road turnstiles. One loop will be for buses only. The other will be for taxicabs and for motorists who want to unload their passengers near the gates before finding parking lot space.

Other refinements of the system are also being made by south parks. As suggested in THE TRIBUNE survey last week-end, the board is painting lanes on the pavement paralleling the Exposition west fence.

Robert Nau of the Chicago Association of Commerce reported he was receiving letters from St. Paul, Cincinnati, Dallas, and New Orleans, saying there was a rumor that cars from other states were barred from entering Chicago or approaching the Fair grounds. Private automobiles are barred from the grounds but there is ample space for storage in pay parking lots convenient to the gates. Seventy per cent of the patrons of A Century of Progress from outside Chicagoland are expected to arrive by automobile.

Plane Hits High Tension Wire; 2 Army Flyers Die

Oceanside, Cal., June 8.—(AP)—Lieut. Jack C. Richardson, 36, and Chief Machinist Mate F. C. Glazener, 40, of scouting squadron No. 2, naval air station, San Diego, were killed at the emergency landing field near here today. Their plane struck high tension wires and crashed to the ground while they were attempting to land.

PIGEON GIRL

GLENNA LOUISE SMITH.

Glenna Louise Smith, her brother, Chester Lee Smith, and her aunt, Miss Oda C. Smith, came to Chicago yesterday from St. Joseph, Mo., for a visit to the Fair. They had made preparations to send a message home announcing their safe arrival. They brought their messenger with them—a carrier pigeon. It was released from the tower of the Morrison hotel, and presumably started immediately for St. Joseph, Mo., with a note tucked under a leg band.

AUTO CRASH IN OAK PARK KILLS WOMAN VISITOR

Mrs. June Lansing, 58 years old, of West Granville, N. Y., was killed yesterday when her husband's automobile collided with another at Home avenue and Washington boulevard, Oak Park. The husband, Ervin Lansing, 42 years old, escaped injury.

Lansing admitted to police that he failed to see the stop sign at the intersection. The driver of the other car, Neil Randall, 322 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, was not injured. Lansing and his wife were returning from California, where they had visited relatives, and had planned to visit A Century of Progress.

The deaths of Mrs. Lansing and two others last night increased the Cook county toll for 1933 to 416. The other victims:

Violet Penga, 10 years old, 6121 Fullerton avenue. Died at St. Anthony's hospital. She was struck in front of 6149 Grand avenue Wednesday night.

2 BANDITS POSE AS DOCTORS, ROB WOMAN OF $1,070

Two robbers posing as physicians yesterday robbed Mrs. Kathryn Zabeck, 80 years old, 2525 Carmen avenue, of her savings of $1,070. Mrs. Zabeck was treated at the county hospital three months ago for a stomach disorder, and the bandits told her that they had been sent from the hospital to examine her.

Three bandits posed as prohibition agents yesterday to gain entrance to the home of Mrs. Francisco Dacanay, 1624 Warren avenue, held her and two roomers prisoners for half an hour, and took $42 and jewelry valued at $400.

EVERYTHING IS JUST DANDY AT OHIO'S EXHIBIT

Residents Enjoy Seeing Home Town on Map.

Some states may be having their troubles at the World's Fair, with taxpayers giving vent to their ideas on art, but everything is "just dandy" at the Ohio exhibit in the Hall of States.

"Everything here comes from the Buckeye state and was produced by Ohioans," chant the hostesses to visitors. "It's not like some exhibits, such as Indiana's, where a New York artist made the murals."

The visitors smile and nod approval. Then the hostesses, Mrs. Edmund Joseph Tyler, a Chicagoan, who was born in Milton Center, O., and Mrs. Joseph B. Greulich of Fostoria, O., explain the Ohio murals.

"The more you study them the more you get out of them," Mrs. Tyler said.

Mrs. Tyler said that after she explained them, everyone liked the murals. But even more the Ohioans enjoyed seeing their home town illuminated on the giant map in the center of the large exhibit space, she said.

Finds His Home Town.

One visitor had come in, Mrs. Tyler said, and stated shyly that his town was Berwick. He suggested that Berwick might not be on the map as its population is only 13. But it was. He found the right button to press, and a light just as big as that marking Cincinnati pointed out Berwick. Thirteen hundred and fifty Ohioans have registered.

The murals depict early Ohio products such as the first Wright brothers' airplane, and above it, the dirigible "Macon." In another Indians are shown gathering oil from streams in their blankets for medicinal purposes.

Ohio specializes in providing comfort as well as art. Thirty-four benches of solid Ohio black walnut are scattered about the exhibit hall. The seats are covered with hand hooked rugs. On the backs are historic scenes. The beginning of the W. C. T. U. in Hillsboro, O., is depicted.

New Yorkers Find Fault.

In the New York exhibit, which occupies one of the larger spaces in the Hall of States, a hostess explained to a group of visitors: "Those who know, who understand artistic things, are full of praise for our exhibit. But of course some of them want to see those same exhibits of cabbages and wheat and corn that they saw in 1893."

Paul Meserve, New York architect, in charge of the exhibit, explained:

"The taxpayers come in and see the photo-murals by Edward J. Steichen, probably the most noted photographer in the country, and the panoramas by Joseph Urban, and they say: "I thought this cost $100,000. It doesn't show it. Where did it all go? I can't see anything but some photographs and a drinking fountain.'

"They're used to a lot of stuff being shown. They see ours and think it isn't finished. Then those living upstate think that the exhibit is too much a show of New York city."

Eugene Schoen, architect, designed the room and the drinking fountain, which is impressively modern. Urban, who is seriously ill and has not seen his murals on view, has shown, in one of them, "Man: Skyscraper." Through an effect of steel girders, the visitor sees the artist's conception of the city, with the Empire State building in the foreground. Opposite it is "Nature: Niagara Falls."

Notes of a Century of Progress

A German tourist travel exhibit, arranged by the German Tourist Information office of New York, was opened yesterday at 622 South Michigan avenue to acquaint Chicagoans and visitors to the World's Fair with the attractions of Germany. Dr. Hugo-Ferdinand Simon, consul general, and his staff took part in the opening ceremonies. A large model of the famous Neuschwanstein castle with a background of the Bavarian Alps stands in one of the street show windows beneath a portrait of Richard Wagner, German composer, the 50th anniversary of whose death is being celebrated in all Germany this year.

The Streets of Paris, night life center at the Fair, were policed last night by the three detectives of the Chicago pickpocket detail headed by Lieut. Edward Kelly. The detail was assigned after several visitors complained their pockets had been picked.

High school bands from six states, competing in the national high school band contest in Evanston, will play at the Fair. The band programs will be given in courts of the Hall of States and the Electrical building. In the evening a program of songs will be given by a chorus from Milwaukee.

Frank Hefling, stunt flyer, will do a parachute leap into the lake from 2,000 feet as the feature attraction in the dedication of Jantzen Beach at the Fair grounds tomorrow morning. He will cut himself free from his parachute 100 feet above the water and dive into the lake. The program will start at 10 o'clock. Speakers will include Rufus C. Dawes, Lenox R. Lohr, Avery Brundage, Lawrence Heyworth, and Mayor Kelly.

The schooner Blue Nose, queen of the Nova Scotia fishing fleet and four times winner of the international fishermen's trophy, is heading down Lake Michigan en route to the Fair, where it will become part of the Canadian exhibit. Included in the company aboard is E. Earle Bailey, legless and armless artist. Bailey holds the brush in his teeth to paint, and will use the Canadian exhibit as his studio.

Tony Sarg, artist and puppeteer, yesterday announced a free drawing lesson to ambitious young artists who visit the A. and P. carnival this afternoon. Models will be picked from the audience, and as he draws them Sarg will explain how he produces the various effects. The drawings will be presented to the children who pose.

Tomorrow will be Army day at the Pantheon building on the Midway. The 6th U. S. infantry and the 14th U. S. cavalry will review the spectacle. Maj. McCarron will head the military parade from the encampment on the Fair grounds.

Two hundred gray haired men, who forty years ago formed the Columbian guard at the Fair of 1893, today will march as the fair guard at A Century fo Progress Exposition. Coming from the United States, Canada, and Alaska, they will be met at the court of honor, south of the Field museum, at 2 p. m. by Fair officials. After touring the Fair grounds they will be honor guests at a concert to be given by the Marquette University chorus in the court of the Hall of Science.

The four most famous golf balls in the world, used by Bobby Jones in winning the British open, the British amateur, the American open, and the American amateur in 1930, are now part of the Georgia exhibit in the court of states.

An anniversary party, involving a special train, 2,000 miles of travel, a dinner and three full days of sightseeing at the Fair, will be staged, starting June 21, by the International Business Machines corporation.

The Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri will begin a series of weekly lectures Sunday at the Hall of Religion. The first speaker will be the Rev. Alex Ullrich, president of the Northern Illinois district. The Glee club of Concordia college of Milwaukee will sing.

Fair officials yesterday announced a police motorcycle patrol of the fence surrounding the grounds to keep adventurous persons from climbing over and entering the grounds without paying.

BANDIT VICTIMS FIND JUSTICE A BIT BEWILDERING

George Tauber, secretary of the Standard Sausage company, 963 West 37th street, yesterday confessed bewilderment concerning the administration of justice in Cook county.

Mr. Tauber and other officials of his company have appeared many times in court against four bandits who held up their office last Dec. 23 and obtained $400. The bandits were arrested, identified and made confessions.

Despite the clear evidence against the defendants, the following court record has been compiled in the case:

Jan. 30—John Cozzi, Frank Laino, Ferdinand Daum and Alphonse Capasso indicted for robbery;

Feb. 9—Case assigned to Judge Philip Sullivan and on motion of defense continued to March 1;

March 1—Motion defense, continued to March 29;

March 22—By order of court, bail reduced from $10,000 to $7,500 as to Capasso;

March 29—Severance of trial granted to Daum; motion defense, case continued to April 19;

April 19—Change of venue; case assigned to Judge Thomas J. Lynch;

May 17—Severance of trial granted to Capasso; case ordered held on call;

May 19—Order of court, continued to June 20 as to Cozzi; continued to June 29 as to Laino; continued to July 3 as to Capasso; continued to June 20 as to Daum.

SON OF SLAIN FLINT WOMAN SEIZED IN SOUTH

Nashville, Tenn., June 8.—(AP)—Chief of Detectives Elkin Lewis announced late today that a youth under arrest here on a federal charge of mailing extortion notes admitted that he is Balfe Macdonald, 17, sought by Flint, Mich., police in connection with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Grace B. Macdonald, wealthy widow, about two weeks ago.

Lewis said MacDonald denied killing his mother.

PRESIDENT KEEPS WORD TO HOOVER; GIVES JOB TO AID

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Walter H. Newton of Minnesota, former secretary to President Hoover, as a member of the federal home loan bank board—keeping a promise he made to Mr. Hoover on inauguration day.

Mr. Roosevelt nominated Robert P. Skinner of Ohio to be ambassador to Turkey.

You'll take more pride in driving the STYLE LEADER

There is sound reason for believing that most people would be better pleased with an Oldsmobile than with almost any other car they could buy. . . . Why do we say this? Well, in the first place, people take more pride in driving the Style Leader—and that is exactly what Oldsmobile is. No other car in America is so smart, so beautiful or so generally attractive. . . . It pleases most people when they feel that they are enjoying something at a bargain cost—and no other car has ever offered Style Leadership at Oldsmobile's low price. . . . It makes most people happy when their cars perform to their highest expectations—without a single shortcoming on any point. And here again, Oldsmobile more than measures up to the requirement. In fact, many people insist that Oldsmobile performance is the most satisfactory they have ever experienced in any car. . . . So we say again, in all sincerity, we think you would drive an Oldsmobile with more pride and greater satisfaction than almost any other car you could buy. We should like to prove this with a complete demonstration, at any time you say.

Chicago Motorists Choose Favorite Standard Servismen

THE motorists of Chicago and vicinity have sent in their ballots by thousands in the contest to elect the most popular Standard Oil servismen. Final count has been made and printed above are pictures of the 12 winners. Four first prizes were awarded, one in each section of the city, and there were also four second and third prizes.

It was a close contest. That is pleasant for everybody because it means that Standard's Servismen in Chicago are well thought of by the public they serve.

All Standard Servismen aim to go beyond the expected in service. Cleaning windshields, checking air, oil and water, and similar services are routine at Standard Stations.

The comments made by voters in this contest show that what pleases motorists particularly is a real interest in their needs, a genuine knowledge of such matters as fueling, lubrication and care of the car, together with cheerfulness and courtesy.

And in all these points that drivers value most, the men whose pictures we print above have been voted leaders among Chicago's Standard Servismen, and in recognition, first prize winners have each been awarded a cash prize of $100, prizes of $75 and $50 going to winners of second and third places.

Standard Oil Company gratefully acknowledges the generally high rating given by the public to its servismen in Chicago and also thanks the motoring public for the interest which it has taken in this contest. Standard Oil Company is proud of its men who play such an important part in making its products of most service to motorists.

ANOTHER TAX CRISIS.

The Supreme court of Illinois has decided that the board of tax appeals in Cook county was within its rights when it ordered a horizontal reduction of 15 per cent in the assessment of small homes and small apartments. The decision may or may not be sound in law and it may or may not be in the interest of essential justice as between taxpayers. Those points, for the moment, are secondary. The outstanding fact is that the decision has introduced a new confusion into the revenue situation in this county. The collection of taxes, which alone can restore the governments to solvency, seems destined again to be delayed by many months. Accordingly the credit of the local governments, which was on the way to restoration, has again been undermined. Accordingly, too, there is every reason to expect that the local governments will fall still farther behind in their payments to employés and others to whom they are indebted.

The order of the board of appeals which the court has confirmed applied to the 1931 assessments which are now in collection. One installment has already come due. The amount still owing by each taxpayer on the second installment cannot be determined until the assessor can once again go through his immense accumulation of 1,100,000 separate records, select those properties who are affected by the court's decision, recalculate the assessments to include the 15 per cent reduction, and pass the books on to other departments for further calculations and the issuance of bills. Under the most favorable circumstances, according to the assessor, his work alone cannot be completed in less than three months, if that soon, and that assumes a modification of the order by the board of appeals in the interest of simplification. If the order is not modified the delay can hardly be less than six months.

Meanwhile there can be little progress on the 1932 assessment. The collection of taxes which is already more than a full year behind the normal schedule will, under the most favorable circumstances, fall still farther behind.

The tax strike was, at length, broken, but the situation which now confronts this community is as grave as if not graver than it has been at any time since the revenue crisis became manifest in 1929 and 1930. Years spent in legislating reform of the tax collecting machinery have served only to reduce confusion to chaos. The record of the failure of this community to assess and collect its public revenues is pretty convincing evidence that the efforts of citizens to correct the faults of administration were largely misdirected. If only a small portion of the time spent in appeals to the legislature had been devoted to putting pressure on assessors to assess and the reviewers to review promptly and honestly we might be out of the woods.

The new emergency, it is to be hoped, will be faced with more intelligence. The first thing to be done is to appeal, on behalf of the local governments, for a rehearing of the case by the Supreme court. For some reason which has never been entirely clear the governments which had originally announced their intention to join in the litigation withdrew before the case was argued. It is late, but perhaps not too late, particularly in view of the changes in the personnel of the court, to present their arguments.

Meanwhile there must be no delay in carrying out the court's decision, for until a review is granted it must be assumed that the decision will stand. The board of appeals should therefore lose no time in simplifying the 15 per cent order to permit the maximum of speed in the reassessment consistent with its notions of justice. At the same time the board of appeals should make any additional orders affecting other classes of property which it deems necessary, so that the whole work will not have to be done over again. Now and in future the assessor and the board of appeals must agree in advance upon broad principles of valuation, so that the board of appeals will be concerned only with errors in particular assessments rather than with general errors of method.

At the same time the governments must lose no time in revising their expenditures downward. The court's action will reduce the expected income of the governments by something less than 3 per cent, which itself is of no great importance. The genuinely important effect will be the delay in collection, which will restrict the borrowing power of all the governments. None of the important governments is on a cash basis. The continuance of their operations, therefore, depends largely upon their credit, which is to say upon the willingness of investors to take their tax anticipation warrants. Uncertainty of the time of redemption serves to destroy the market for this paper.

Some of the damage can be canceled, also, if the efforts to collect back taxes are redoubled. With the September installment almost certain to be delayed, taxpayers who are in arrears can have less excuse than ever for not paying what they owe on previous bills. It has long been apparent that delinquents should be forced to face the consequences of nonpayment. If pressure on delinquents was justified before the decision, it is imperative that it be applied now.

RACKETEERING AND THE LAW.

In his fight on racketeering State's Attorney Courtney has the approval and strong support of the people of Cook county and deserves that of every community of the state which has felt the scourge of this evil. Racketeering is not confined to Chicago, but is a scheme workable and extending to many communities.

Mr. Courtney's appeal to the legislature for legislation which will strengthen the processes of justice where they have been demonstrated to be weak in the struggle to deal swiftly and surely with the gangster and the racketeer should be effectual with every conscientious member of the assembly. There is no excuse for delay. The measures should be enacted at once, for the battle against organized criminality is being vigorously fought, and our legislators, unless they are willing to be accounted allies of the enemies of society, should be quick to give aid. Our procedure is in many respects obsolete and has been proved to be obstructive of prompt justice. It has entangled prosecution, and in some of its rules is a defense of crime rather than of society. This is so notorious that no legislator can pretend doubt or ignorance of it, and refusal to give relief will not be condoned. State's Attorney Courtney's appeal has the backing of all citizens acquainted with conditions of crime and of the public which seeks efficient protection.

COURTESY TO THE VISITORS.

A license plate from another state nearly always obtains for the driver of a car in the state in which he is visiting or through which he is passing special consideration from the local police. It is a rule not only of common sense but of fairness and courtesy. Violations of traffic regulations for which a resident would expect to be brought to book are viewed in the light of several possibilities. The visiting driver may have been confused by the unfamiliar surroundings. He may have been ignorant of the traffic rules. He may have been looking, all at once, for stop lights, route directions, turn signs, and have had a half dozen distractions on his mind.

Police the country over take these things into consideration. They are not excuses for recklessness and disregard for common rules of safety, but they do entitle the visitor to the benefit of doubts which may not be given the local driver. In cities in which the police have been well trained in courtesy the visitor is apt to pick up many long remembered instances of politeness, helpfulness, and good nature which give him a good opinion of the entire community in which he encountered such decent treatment.

If Chicago's hopes and expectations for the Fair are realized there will be more visiting automobiles in town this summer than any city has seen in ten years. Already some of the visiting drivers have had trouble with police regulations. One was unfortunate enough to commit a very serious offense, but, however serious, it is an offense which every driver knows he may commit on an unfamiliar street of a strange city. This driver ran through a red light. He was in a cell two hours before his companion could obtain his release. The error was serious, but the license plate should have been some excuse for more considerate police treatment.

Chicago cannot afford to make itself the reputation which its police will give it if they do not use good judgment, common sense, and courtesy in handling the guests whom the city has invited to see the Fair. There is probably no city in the country today which needs more to be upon good official behavior. Chicago says it has suffered in general opinion because of prejudiced report. How foolish it would be to give visitors from all parts of the world reason to believe that the worst had not been told. The man in uniform who misbehaves himself in his treatment of guests has done his city a bad turn.

A TAXI RATE FOR THE LOOP.

While we have no intention of going into the taxicab business to test our theory we have a strong suspicion that a 25 cent fare in the loop zone would be not only popular but profitable. We think the present rates are higher than the traffic will bear and that reduction would result in enough new patronage to more than make up for the cut in rates. Taxi service is substantially cheaper in many cities in which traffic conditions are no more favorable than in Chicago and some experimentation is justifiable. It is especially desirable for the period of the Fair when Chicago is and is to be host to hundreds of thousands of visitors who we all wish will carry home only pleasant memories of their visit. But for our own people in normal times we think taxi service should be brought within the means of a greater number and think it can be without reducing the compensation of drivers or the legitimate returns of invested capital. At any rate, the business district rate plan seems to us worth giving a fair trial.

Editorial of the Day

[New York News.]

Telling us how we can finance the $3,300,000,000 public works program, Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas offers four different plans.

Three of these call for income tax increases from the already high federal income tax levels, plus assorted nuisance taxes—tea, coffee, cocoa, telephone calls, theater admissions, dividends.

The fourth plan carries figures showing that we can raise the necessary $220,000,000 plus by means of a 1 1-5 per cent general manufacturers' sales tax.

We're in favor of the sales tax. We believe it is the most equitable and most evenly spread of the kinds of taxes the government can still levy.

Many states, as well as the federal government, are now biting into people's incomes; we've just about reached the point where higher income tax rates will frighten capital out of productive business. That will merely increase the unemployment which we hope to raise this $220,000,000 to combat. There's no point in drinking more poison along with the antidote that may cure you unless you really want to kill yourself.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

GREAT THINGS are expected from the new silent street car they're going to try out in Chicago this fall because it has rubber wheels. And we keep saying that it isn't so much whether wheels are of iron or rubber; it's whether they are round or square. Rubber wheels won't help much if they're not round. We rode back from the Fair on a bus the other night that had rubber wheels, of course, but they were square, and we bounced around in the bus as though it were a wrecked schooner pounding on a lee shore. And whenever we stopped it was a grave question if we would ever start again, as it was hard to make the square wheels turn over. Now, round wheels would have moved right along. So again we insist that it's the shape of wheels, not the material they're made of, that makes a thing silent. Even oval wheels, while much better than the square or octagonal kind, are far inferior, if you want silence, to round wheels. Much, of course, can be said pro and con on this question, but we still think we are right.

If I were a Prince Charming,

A-seeking for a consort

Nor would I fare to France,
Nor sail away to far Cathay
In search of rare romance.

I would not visit Broadway,
Nor even Hollywood,
Nor would I call at Poughkeepsie,
Nor Wellesley, if I could;
But I would go incognito—
And hope to find a queen—
To the tasty little Tea Rooms—
The Tea Rooms of Racine.

We would suggest books for this purpose that had more to do with trees, such as "Treelawney of the Wells" or the "Life of Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree" or "Family Tree of the Stuart Kings," or something like that. It should be a good sized book in strong binding and with sharp edges, because books are mighty handy in camp to throw at the cook when he brings in the potatoes burned black or soup that tastes like dishwater.

THE POISE OF THE NEGRO.

A MAN had occasion to go down an alley in order to reach the loading platform of an express company. The place was a large city and the time late spring. Near the express platform was the rear door of a large restaurant, and not far from the door was the outlet of a ventilating duct leading from the kitchen of the restaurant.

This man noticed about a dozen Negroes keeping warm by standing before the outlet of the ventilating fan. However, they were not dependent on kitchen odors for food. This they obtained by raiding garbage cans. Before them was piled an accumulation of second hand food.

A beer wagon went down the alley collecting empty kegs. The driver called: "There is a lot of beer in a few of these kegs. Get a can and come for it."

One of the number rustled a five gallon empty can, hastily and superficially washed it, and went for the supply while his associates scattered to look for something to drink from. Presently the boys were back at their supply of second hand foods and second hand beer, as happy and as carefree as birds of the air.

The Negro practically never commits suicide. He has always seemed quite immune to insanity, although in recent years he is losing ground in that particular. There are those who think the Negro has a better philosophy than the white man, and that is the reason he has less insanity and is less given to suicide.

The same claim has been made for the philosophy and the religions of the far east. These eastern peoples also have less insanity and less emotional disturbance.

Archibald Rutledge, whose name implies practical knowledge of the subject, writes:

"The more I know the Negro the more I am impressed with his spiritual sagacity. To him the end of existence is not the accumulation of wealth; it is enjoyment of life. He takes the shocks of existence as he takes the storm, the rain, the cold. He prefers to be rather than to achieve. He knows there are other ways of enjoying life than by incessant toil and pursuing the mirage of wealth. Despite the material hardships of his situation he gets out of life more satisfaction than the white man. His religion is effective, not because it keeps him from what we term sin, but because it reconciles him to the twin enigmas of life and death. On the contrary, after years of ceaseless labor and self-denial some [white] business men retire and begin to look about at life and wonder what it is for."

Mr. Rutledge's statements about business men can be broadened to include white men and women in many fields. Ambition and rivalry have their values, but they do lead to unhappiness and often to mental disturbance. There are some advantages in thrills and over-emotionalism, but the disadvantages often outweigh them. Their products are often disastrous.

There is nothing the white man needs more than he does training from infancy onward in poise and equanimity.

MARRIAGE OF COUSINS.

Mrs. H. B. writes: Is it safe for first cousins to get married, even if there is cancer on one side of the family?

REPLY.

In many states it is illegal for first cousins to marry. Laws of this kind are not based on a study of the genetics questions with which they deal. If the stock is good the marriage of cousins improves it. If it is poor, such marriages make it worse. Cancer is not exactly an inheritable taint. At the worst this proposed marriage would not be very hazardous, since cancer is not inheritable in the usual sense.

1. Nobody can answer that question.
2. Moderately so.
3. It can be cured by operation.

DEEDING PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What would be the status of a home deeded by a husband to his wife some nine years ago and now discovered not recorded by the lawyer making out the deed? Said lawyer died recently. Aforesaid husband has been paying taxes on this home property by check signed by himself. 2. Would this invalidate the wife's title to the property? 3. In other words, if the home is deeded to her and is legal, should the tax checks also bear her signature? The bank account is joint. A. F.

1. If it can be proved that the deed was validly delivered during the lifetime of the grantor this would be enough.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES.

Alpena, Mich., June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What power have correspondence schools to collect by law? Would they be considered same as any other school or college? I. D. L.

The mere fact that a pupil becomes dissatisfied or unable to take a course does not free him from liability on the tuition contract nor entitle him to recover payments that he has made. He must show some additional defense, such as minority, breach of contract by the school, or fraud. The written contract legally supersedes terms that may have been discussed but were not incorporated in the writing. The school is ordinarily entitled to recover the agreed tuition. [51 L. R. A. N. S. 975.] While the pupil is theoretically entitled to credit for the saving that the schools enjoy by having one pupil less to serve, it is difficult to prove that such saving is appreciable.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 9, 1917.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR.—San Salvador, the capital of the republic of Salvador, has been almost completely destroyed by the eruption of the nearby volcanoes. A late dispatch says only 100 houses were left standing in the city, which has a population of nearly 75,000. Heavy quakes, this message adds, were followed by a rain of ashes, lava, and boiling water which flooded the city. Despite the wholesale destruction the casualties are reported to have been small.

WAR NEWS.—Gen. Pershing and his staff arrived in London and started the work of preparing the way for the United States army in France. Gen. George W. Goethals ousted two aids from the shipping board after they had charged him with holding up work on ships. London reports gains in Flanders have been organized and German counter attacks repulsed. More than 6,400 prisoners taken by the British have been counted to date. Berlin admits a retreat to prepared lines between Hollebeke and Warneton, and says the British advance has been checked. Paris reports the smashing of German preparations for an attack southeast of St. Quentin. Artillery was active north of Moulin-de-Laffeux. Rome reports repulse of the Austrian attacks on the Vodice and on the Carso.

LONDON.—Detailed stories of the landing of Gen. Pershing and his party at Liverpool and the arrival in London fill a large part of the leading news columns in the morning papers. The editorials, while welcoming Gen. Pershing personally, dwell particularly upon the significance of the arrival of the American advance guard as a symbol of "perhaps the greatest of all the great events in the midst of which we are living—so visibly great that none can pretend to foresee what the full harvest will be for the English speaking world and the sacred doctrines it accepts."

CHICAGO.—It was reported last night that E. J. Murphy, the former warden and ex-congressman, has been named by Gov. Lowden to take charge of the Joliet penitentiary at once and restore discipline to the place. The report is that Mr. Murphy, who served many years at the head of the institution, was reluctant to return to the post and consented only after strong pressure was brought to bear on him.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three reserve officers from Chicago were commissioned by the war department today. They are: Charles F. Clyton, 358 East 115th street, captain; Dr. Bert I. Wyatt, 52 Wabash avenue, and Dr. Russell M. Wilder, first lieutenants, medical corps.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—Is it not a fact that a large percentage of the employés of the World's Fair are also employés of the concessions on the grounds and are working seven days a week?

ANSWER — In every concession there is a representative of the Fair, as a percentage of the receipts in most concessions is paid the Fair. However, they are not paid by both. Every employé is given a day off.

QUESTION—Is the Columbian half dollar issued for the World's Fair of 1893 worth any more than its face value?

ANSWER—No such premiums are being paid by A Century of Progress Exposition. Further information may be obtained from any dealer in coins.

QUESTION—Will a dollar be paid by the Fair for every Indian head penny?

ANSWER—No.

SHE ALWAYS WAS A GOOD SHOT!

THE ELEVATED HIGHWAY.

Chicago, June 5.—Frequently in the last year or two THE TRIBUNE has printed editorials advocating an elevated superhighway for Chicago's west side.

That the west side needs additional arterial highways no one can deny, but whether they should take the form of elevated structures requires some consideration. If the determination to build an elevated superhighway is based on the fact that such a structure has solved a traffic problem for New York City, it would be well to compare the conditions to be overcome.

New York's elevated highway is built skirting the Hudson, not through the center of the city. Their problem was to conduct motor traffic quickly across [perpendicular to] streets heavily loaded with trucks attempting to reach the shipping docks. Our problem is to conduct motor traffic quickly along or parallel to streets which are now overcrowded—not perpendicular to overcrowded streets. New York's elevated highway extends through an industrial district which is in no manner damaged by an unsightly structure down the middle of the street. Property in this district has practically no need for access to an arterial highway and property values were accordingly enhanced by the relief of congestion at street intersections. Our superhighway would extend through commercial and residential districts where an elevated structure would reduce property values and damage commercial businesses. In support of this contention I might cite Lake street, Wabash avenue, Van Buren street, Wells street, or any other streets containing elevated structures.

The districts through which our superhighway would extend have need of access to an arterial highway, and the highway should be built to serve them, not Chicago's suburbs.

PRESERVING OUR HERITAGE.

Chicago, June 5.—For some months past, and more specifically the last few weeks, I have been pleased to note the patriotic and thoroughly American sentiment and thought expressed editorially by your paper.

In yesterday's SUNDAY TRIBUNE I read your editorial "Revolutionaries in Washington," and it certainly provides food for thought for those people who do not let others do all their thinking. Things are surely happening nowadays in Washington as elsewhere, and most of us won't know what it is all about until years after the mischief has been done.

May the World's Greatest Newspaper continue leading the way in clear thinking when questions of national policy are involved. I hope that the United States of America, though the "melting pot of the world," may preserve its identity for future generations by preserving today, during this generation, that form of government and those institutions that have brought us as a country thus far.

R. H. BRADLEY,

WILD PIGEONS.

Peoria, Ill., June 6.—"Wild pigeons Prove Pest to Orchardists in Oregon" is the headline to a news item appearing in the June 5 issue of THE TRIBUNE. The writer hunted wild pigeons in the woods in Illinois 65 years ago and some time back read a magazine article which stated in effect that some department of the United States government had a standing offer of $1,000 for a single live specimen of the wild pigeon. The wild pigeons I refer to were the color of the common turtle dove and the woods were full of them. They became extinct—or at least so it was supposed—many years ago and I am unable to reconcile the government's proposition with the information that wild pigeons are playing havoc with Oregon orchards. It is possible, of course, that the Oregon pigeons and the ones which darkened the sun by their numbers in the early days of Illinois are of a different species altogether.

THE SHRINE OF CIVIC DUTY.

Chicago, June 6.—Yesterday when my husband and I entered the polling place we were met with a volley of talk. After entering the booth I made out just what the excitement was. The judges and clerks were discussing various ways and means of cooking sauerkraut.

"After I eat sauerkraut," said the judge of election, "I belch for a week."

I can only hope she continues to do so until she learns to better conduct the polling place for which she is responsible.

PROVOKED CITIZEN.

GROUND RULES.

Chicago, June 2.—Now that Comiskey park has been selected for the game between the stars of both the American and National league ball players, and no doubt this affair will draw more than the capacity of the park—fifty-seven thousand—I wish to suggest that there be no one allowed on the playing field, so as to avoid ground rules.

I attended the Frank Chance day game between the Yankees and the Sox some years ago and the overflow in attendance made it necessary to adopt ground rules, with the outfielders playing just beyond the infield. Ordinary fly balls went for two base hits.

I am in favor of getting all the money possible for the disabled players' fund, and would also suggest the plan of auctioning the best seats in the park, but still live up to the world series rules—no one allowed on the field.

BILL KLOSE.

A BOUQUET FOR J. O'D. B.

Chicago, June 5.—Permit me to congratulate THE TRIBUNE and commend Mr. Bennett for his splendid article in yesterday's paper comparing the present World's Fair with the Columbian Exposition. Mr. Bennett's writing expresses exactly what I have had in mind but was unable to formulate, and I want to add my praise to others who have doubtless expressed themselves.

PAUL W. BAYLESS.

HOUSE TODAY TO TRY TO LIGHTEN DEBTS OF CITIES

Bill Proposes Chiseling of Their Bonds.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—An eleventh hour effort to relieve debt burdened municipalities at this session of congress is to be made by the house tomorrow.

The so-called Wilcox bill, bringing cities and counties within the purview of the recently liberalized bankruptcy law, is to be called up by the house leaders under a special rule granted late today. It is expected to pass the lower body without serious opposition, but may not get through the senate if present plans for adjournment by the middle of next week are carried out.

Agreement with Creditors.

The judiciary committee, in reporting the measure to the house, called attention to "the necessity of making it possible for cities, by agreement with their creditors, so to adjust existing indebtedness as to carry forward the increased burden incident to caring for those who must seek public assistance in order to live."

Under the terms of the bill, cities and counties which have defaulted on their obligations may seek consent of two-thirds of the bondholders in each class of debtor, for a downward revision of the debt.

1,000 Cities in Default.

The committee reported that considerably more than 1,000 municipalities throughout the country are now in default. A majority of the bondholders in these cases, the committee said, are in favor of the proposed legislation.

A minority report, signed by nine members of the judiciary committee in opposition to the bill, declared:

"If this bill passes it is natural to expect that the incentive to continue budget reductions will be considerably lessened in many communities."

Display of U. S. Tax Burdens Stirs Officials at Washington

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Publication in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of an article and table prepared by Reuben Cahn, in which the depletion of American wealth by excessive taxation was shown, evoked much interest among officials in Washington today.

There was nowhere any hope held out for relief in the near future, nor even for relief anywhere in sight.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin obtained a copy of the article and table, and studied it, but he declined to make any comment. Similarly the other leaders in the Roosevelt administration found much food for thought in the situation sketched by Mr. Cahn, but the subject is such a touchy one in this national capital that none of them cared to stretch out his neck with direct comment.

Two Views of Future.

From some of these officials talking privately the impression was given that there are two schools of thought in the Roosevelt administration.

One school stands upon the theory that heavy taxation is the best means of redistributing wealth. Those holding this view believe that America can be made a happy sinecure for all classes by putting the government at the helm of business, at the control of finance, arbiter of wages, fixing prices—in short, managing or supervising all American commerce.

In such a setup, if it would work, profits would be assured at a definite rate, and even though taxes continued high, as high as Mr. Cahn's chart showed, prices would be fixed at a rate high enough to provide surplus capital for business expansion, equipment replacements and other growth requirements.

Basis for Regulation.

It is upon such a theory that the present Roosevelt program of industry control, large expenditures for public works, large direct grants of doles, and a czaristic direction over agriculture, is based. The President has held his professoriat, which has promoted the "control" theory of prosperity, within bounds to some extent.

Some of the administration advisers believe that if business does recover under the spur of the confidence imparted by the President's inflationary measures, high taxes will continue, and these taxes will be used to promote still farther the socialistic schemes of the brain trust. Unemployment insurance and old age pensions are among the proposals being held in abeyance pending a hoped for trade revival.

What Opponents Think.

The other school of thought, which is not heard on the national broadcasts of the radio nor in issuance of statements or delivery of after dinner speeches, is that a load of taxation is being built up under which recovery may come but temporarily. These sober thinkers fear that the life pumped into business will be too heavy for the structure to bear, strained as it has been and will continue to be by heavy taxes.

One treasury under-official, viewing the Cahn chart, pointed to the business with a million dollar income, taxed 77.1 per cent, and asked "What more does he want to spend than $225,000?"

Another, seeing not enough left after the normal expenses of running the business are paid, inquired how long a form of government could last which prevented normal growth of commercial activity.

G. J. Chiles of the Tribune Heads Typographical Union

George J. Chiles, employé of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was elected president of Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 at the run-off election June 7, results of which were announced yesterday. He received 1,737 votes, against 1,339 for his opponent, James McKeown. The other officers elected follow: Vice president, George H. Johnston, 1,619, against C. G. Robinson, 1,443; secretary treasurer, Harry B. Schaudt, 1,592, against Edwin R. Wright, 1,496; recording secretary and organizer, H. W. 37 DEFY ORDER OF ROOSEVELT TO GIVE UP GOLD

219 Chicagoans Listed as Hoarders by U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Thirty-seven hoarders of gold, holding $283,064 worth of the precious metal, are defying President Roosevelt's anti-hoarding order and refusing to surrender their gold, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced today.

Out of more than 6,500 hoarders reported to him in the first installment of the treasury department's survey, the attorney general has already had 931 cases investigated. Of those investigated, only 37 admitted having the gold and defied the government to get it.

Plans to Prosecute.

No prosecutions have been started yet, the attorney general said, but he added "that there will be prosecutions of those who defy the government is certain."

Names of hoarders may be made public unless they relent and turn in their gold, he said. Violation of the anti-hoarding order is punishable by 10 years in prison, fines up to $10,000 or both.

Among the cases reported to the attorney general for investigation, 219 were in Chicago. More than $1,500,000 in gold was said to be in the hands of these Chicago persons and associations.

Many Turn In Metal.

New York led the list of cities with 5,505 cases reported, involving $29,452,000. Chicago was second. Portland, Ore., reported 167 cases for third place. The attorney general emphasized that the list was merely the first installment of others still to come from the treasury.

Out of the cases already investigated up to the close of business yesterday, 249 had turned out to be fictitious names, 42 persons holding $43,469 in gold had been persuaded to give it up, 408 claimed that they already turned in their gold, amounting to more than 6 million dollars and 44 others claimed that they had surrendered the gold or had never had it.

Department of Justice agents have checked up on the 408 persons who claimed to have surrendered their gold, Cummings said. He said he imagined the 249 fictitious names had been given by persons willfully concealing theis identity at the time they withdrew the gold.

Investigations will continue on the lists of purported hoarders already turned over to him by the treasury department, Cummings said, and further lists will be submitted when the treasury finishes checking them.

600 Million Still Outstanding.

More than 600 million dollars in gold is still outstanding, federal reserve board reports made public today show. Only $2,000,000 worth was returned during the last week despite the attorney general's announcement on Monday that the investigation of hoarders had begun. Previously the return had been going on at the rate of about 28 millions a week.

Only four middle western cities beside Chicago were included on the list of suspected hoarders which Cummings made public. They were Detroit, where 13 persons were reported to have $34,565; St. Louis, where nine persons were said to have $16,140; Kansas City, where 48 persons were reported to hold $119,500, and St. Paul, where six cases involving $13,400 were reported.

Cummings explained that this was not a full account of all the suspects on the treasury's first list, but that it covered the most important cities.

PEACE BETWEEN PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS NEAR

Report Compromise on Veterans' Payments.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Hopes for peace in the struggle between congress and the President over payments to war veterans were held forth on both sides tonight.

But according to reports the great share of the victory goes to congress, for it is said that the concessions demanded of the President will be costly to the taxpayers and perilous to his plans for a balanced budget.

Regulation on Payments.

Having given in to the extent of adding $41,000,000 to his original economy regulations on veterans' payments, the President has now proposed, it was reported, to have the government continue to pay compensation to widows and children of veterans who have died of disabilities, whether or not that disability was incurred in war service.

In his first regulations, the President had held against veterans or their dependents receiving pay under the clause in the law which "presumed" that veterans injured or diseased years after the war was over owed their misfortune to the war service.

This "presumptive" clause applying to veterans of any war, was annulled in the Roosevelt regulations.

Veterans' Lobby Opposes Plan.

The veterans' lobby has opposed this regulation, and induced the senate to approve the Connally amendment limiting the President to a maximum reduction in any case of 25 per cent.

The President has stood firm against restoring the presumptive clause, but today it was reported he might agree that veterans in this class will be permitted to stay on the rolls until the government could prove their cases had no service connection.

Another point of extreme difference, in which the President is expected to recede, is in the lot of Spanish-American war veterans. They have pleaded that they cannot, thirty-five years after a war, produce proof of the connection of their disability with that war. Some 190,000 veterans of '98 are on the presumptive disability rolls.

To meet this difficulty it has been suggested by the veterans' lobbyists, but not yet accepted by the President, that any war veteran over 55 years of age and more than 50 per cent disabled should be given a pension. At present, the minimum age is 62 in nonservice cases.

The cost of such changes from the original Roosevelt regulations has not been definitely estimated. The President estimated his orders would result in a saving of 460 million dollars. The Connally amendment would have sliced 170 millions off this saving.

But Budget Director Douglas, sitting with the President today in conferences with the house members, declared that under no circumstances could the administration accept any plan costing as much as 100 million dollars above the original estimate unless additional taxes are voted.

Conference at White House.

The conference at the White House, attended by the President, Mr. Douglas, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, and half a dozen members of the special house committee on veterans' payments, lasted two hours.

Douglas and Hines were to study the various proposals and convey the President's last word to the house committee this evening, but they did not complete their study and will meet with the representatives tomorrow morning.

Mr. Roosevelt had prepared a letter, it was learned, containing what was supposed to be his final ultimatum to the rebellious congress. The letter was not given out when the President, in the conference, saw a chance for an amicable settlement.

Vote Expected by Saturday.

When the meeting broke up, Representative Edward W. Pou [Dem., N. C.], spokesman for the group, declared he felt the "thing could be worked out."

If a settlement is agreed upon tomorrow, the issue will be brought to a vote in the house on Saturday. Leaders plan to submit a special rule, limiting debate and requiring a vote on the compromise proposal excluding consideration of more drastic proposals by the radicals.

WASHING MACHINE MANUFACTURERS O. K. INDUSTRY CONTROL

The American Washing Machine Manufacturers' association yesterday passed a resolution approving the administration's industrial recovery bill and discussed plans for formulating a code of standards in accordance with the bill's provisions.

Edward N. Hurley Jr. of Chicago presided at the meeting in the Morrison hotel, which was attended by seventy-five washing machine makers or their representatives. Mr. Hurley said that all the washing machine factories are operating full time.

Sixty manufacturers of school supplies, gathered yesterday at the Palmer house as members of the manufacturers' division of the National School Supply association, endorsed the plan of working out a code of fair competition under the administration bill. Details will be left to the executive committee of the association.

BOY IS SENT BACK TO JAIL IN AUTO DAMAGE CASE

William Weber, 15 year old high school boy who was unable to pay a judgment obtained by a woman who was injured by his automobile, went back to the county jail yesterday to finish serving a six months term for debt. He is imprisoned because the verdict of the jury in the damage suit contained a count finding him guilty of legal malice in the accident.

Young Weber served three weeks in jail after he had failed to gain his release by filing a petition as an insolvent debtor. He was released when Attorney Simon Sutton filed a petition for habeas corpus before Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court. Judge David dismissed the petition yesterday, finding that there were no legal grounds on which he could release the youth.

Attorney Sutton on Monday will ask the Supreme court for permission to file a habeas corpus petition before that tribunal, contending that imprisonment of the boy violates the constitutional prohibition of imprisonment for debt. The court has decided in a number of cases, however, that imprisonment for failure to pay damages under a verdict containing a malice count does not violate this constitutional guarantee. The judgment against young Weber, for $2,500, was obtained by Mrs. Lucille Saliba of Berwyn.

SENATE SPEEDS INDUSTRY RULE MEASURE, 57-31

struck from the bill in a moment of revolt, but which the committee later restored to the bill in answer to a White House command.

Confident that they have safely gathered enough votes to put through the bill and its various features, the Democratic managers did not bother to reply. The vote justified their assurance. Only eight Democrats for the Reed amendment and these were more than counter balanced by radical Republicans who voted in the negative.

Long Continues Tirade.

The passage at arms between Senators Robinson and Long was the sequel to another attack on the bill by the Louisiana radical. Continuing the tirade he began yesterday, Senator Long accused President Roosevelt of having come under the domination of Wall street and of Bernard M. Baruch in particular.

Hugh S. Johnson, economic adviser to Mr. Baruch is to be administrator of the act which he helped write, said Senator Long.

"There is no such thing as the planting o stalk of corn or the hacking of a cross tie, or the soling of a pair of shoes that is not to be within the power of these gentlemen who come from Baruch," the Louisianan shouted. He blamed Mr. Baruch for "wrecking" Woodrow Wilson and President Hoover. Finally Senator Robinson intervened.

Kingfish Target for Attack.

"I say the senator is in poor business attacking private citizens on the floor of this senate and refusing to permit any answer to be made," Senator Robinson declared. Then he went on:

"The senator can come down here on the floor of the senate and attack private citizens and declare he is not afraid, as he did in a certain case when his hand was called by the senator from North Carolina and when he is sued for making slanderous or libelous statements he can hide behind his immunity. The senator from Louisiana will never see the day when he can stand in a class with gentlemen like B. M. Baruch."

By the way of counter retort, Senator Long reminded Senator Robinson of his [Long's] invasion of Arkansas at the last election when he put over the election of Senator Hattie W. Caraway to whose cause Senator Robinson had been lukewarm.

Threatens to Invade Arkansas.

"I will go with the senator to the people of Arkansas and we will see who gets the votes of the people and who comes back to the senate," he challenged. "He is not going to make me a party to this blood stained betrayal of the people of the country by putting Barney Baruch in a place where he can revoke a license of a tie hacker or of the woman at the wash pots. There may be found some who are afraid to do it, but no one will ever find me afraid to do it."

Hopping mad, Senator Robinson declared that if Senator Long invaded Arkansas he would invade Louisiana. "And I think he'll be repudiated in both states," Robinson cried.

Senator Robinson defended Mr. Baruch, denied that there had ever been a "downfall" of Woodrow Wilson.

"The senator has the habit of abusing most every one with whom he comes in contact who happens to differ from him," he went on. "Perhaps it is out of place for me to lecture the senator on good manners and ethics, but I want to say to him that his statements are not to be taken as proved merely because some senator does not arise here and waste the time of the senate in pointing out that the senator from Louisiana, as usual, does not know what he is talking about.

"The President of the United States is entitled to some consideration, particularly from men who sit on this side of the chamber and call themselves Democrats. It is perfectly apparent from the remarks that my friend, the senator from Louisiana, is simply mad because Roosevelt will not let him run the administration."

Long replied that Robinson was satisfied with the President because "the senator is a better soldier than I am."

DISTRICT BOND BILL SURVIVES ATTACK IN HOUSE

Even Remove 18½ Million Proposed Limitation.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Battling in the stifling heat of the house chamber today the Democratic majority defeated a Republican attack upon the Chicago sanitary district bond issue bill and kept the measure alive. The bill was handled by Representative David McClugage [Dem., Peoria].

Moreover, an amendment passed removing the $18,500,000 limitation from the proposed issue, leaving the sum at "such an amount as may be required" for completion of sewage treatment works ordered by the United States Supreme court.

But this carte blanche is to be short lived, according to word received in the house after the controversy. It was said that Gov. Horner intends addressing a special message to the assembly suggesting that the amount be fixed at $100,000,000 and urging passage of the bill in that form.

Would Aid U. S. Loan.

While setting the limit at such a figure is bound to raise another uproar similar to that of today, the district trustees are prepared to argue, it was said, that this authority would allow them to go before the Reconstruction Finance corporation, or its successor, and present their bonds as security for enough federal funds to complete the $139,000,000 job.

Justification of the figure is to be backed by the court's mandate plus the theory that if states continue to make large demands upon the R. F. C. the congressional grant will be exhausted before many months. Thus the trustees will contend that if only a part of the sum were allowed now, there might be no more money available for future loans when the first loan was exhausted.

Today's combat grew from the motion of Minority Leader Schnackenberg of Chicago to strike the enacting clause of the bill on the ground that there was no necessity for a bond issue. The money could be obtained from the R. F. C. notwithstanding, said Schnackenberg, because the project "comes clearly within the status of works defined by President Roosevelt as worthy of federal aid."

"No Necessity for Such Power."

"We have a right to ask our senators and congressmen to provide us that aid," said the minority leader. "And if they are upstanding men—which, of course, they are—they can get us the money. There is no necessity for giving the district the tremendous bond issue power granted by this bill."

This started the debate, a high spot in which was the assertion, by Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], that "Schnackenberg doesn't want this bill because if it passes the people in his district, who are completely within the sanitary district, might have to bear more of the cost of constructing the treatment works than other residents.

"If the bill is defeated," he continued, "all the people in the state would be liable. We don't ask you downstaters to pay our bills, but we do want to remind you that the Supreme court order commands a report on what progress the state is making toward compliance with the decision by Oct. 2."

40 Million Unsold Bonds.

Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] called attention to the fact that there are at present $40,000,000 in unsold bonds held by the district. "Let them take those bonds to the R. F. C.," he counseled.

The roll call was interrupted a number of times while members prolonged the result by explaining their votes. The final count was 79 to 61 against striking out the enacting clause.

Robert M. Woodward [Rep., Chicago] drew fire from the Democratic side, and particularly from M. E. Bray [Dem., Litchfield], when he charged that a meeting of Democratic legislators with officers of the district a week ago was "really for the purpose of defeating my bill to reduce the membership of the district rather than its announced purpose of discussing this bond issue bill."

Committee in Row Over Bill.

Charges and countercharges concerning a bill backed by the state tax commission flew back and forth in the house revenue committee today. The participants were Schaefer O'Neill [Dem., Alton], chairman of the committee, and Tax Commissioners Scott W. Lucas [Havana] and Barnet Hodes [Chicago].

Passed in the senate and sent to the house on May 11, the bills would allow the tax commission to assess the capital stock of all manufacturing, mercantile, mining, publishing and banking corporations.

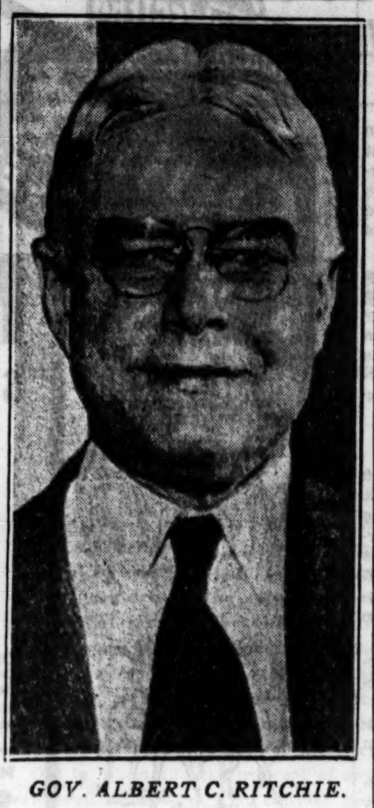
A subcommittee reported favorably on the bill, but Mr. O'Neill has delayed a hearing by the full committee until opponents, including industrial representatives, have appeared.

When the committee met today only 8 of its 34 members were present—less than a forum. When Mr. O'Neill made ready to dismiss the committee, for this reason, Commissioner Lucas declared that the chairman was 'unfair" and that "sinister influences were trying to prevent passage of this bill." He was joined in the protest by Hodes.

"If there are sinister influences, I don't know where they are," O'Neill replied. "We have a right, however, to hear the protests of legitimate industry before we decide upon this bill. I am personally opposed to any change in the taxing system, for I fear that if this bill passes, the same sort of tax debacle may be created downstate as occurred in Chicago."

Hodes has been active on the floor of the house in behalf of the bill. It was reported tonight that a movement was on foot to take the bill from the committee, but this has not yet materialized.

RITCHIE HERE



GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and his secretary of state, D. C. Winebrenner, yesterday attended funeral services in St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston for the late William Ritchie, Chicago attorney and Democratic leader who died in Madison, Wis., on Monday. William Ritchie was the uncle of Gov. Ritchie and the greatuncle of Winebrenner.

Following the services the governor and Winebrenner took their places in the funeral cortège, proceeding to Graceland cemetery where burial took place. After the ceremonies both left for Annapolis.

SENATE ACTS TO END STATE RELIEF TO CITIES DEC. 30

Amends Sales Tax Bill on Downstate Demand.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—The Illinois senate today indicated its intention to make the cities of the state stand on their own feet in relief matters after the close of this year.

An agreed amendment terminating on Dec. 30, the period during which the proceeds will go to the emergency relief commission was inserted in the sales tax program by general consent and almost without discussion. Beginning on Jan. 1 the receipts from this source, if the set of bills get through both houses, will be devoted exclusively to the replacement of general property taxes.

Amend Cities, Villages Act.

The second chapter of the plan is presented in the Lantz bill which would authorize Chicago to levy a new and additional tax for the purpose of feeding, clothing, and housing its own poor. This legislation has not been sought by the Chicago or Cook county authorities, nor by the semipublic organizations of that community, but it has been pressed aggressively by downstaters who oppose state-wide relief measures which they say are chiefly for the benefit of the metropolis.

The Lantz bill would amend the cities and villages act to exempt from the tax limitation of cities of over 500,000 any tax—regardless of the amount—levied "for the relief and support" of its poor residents. It also would authorize Chicago—where the assessment for 1932 has not been completed—to make supplemental tax levies for 1932 and 1933 for relief. The proceeds of such taxes must be held in special funds and may not be used for anything except relief.

Barr Comments on Program.

The changes in the main bill of the sales tax program and some of the companion measures were approved by the senate without roll call on the motion of Senator Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago] who is handling the bills for the administration. He had yielded ground, supposedly with the consent of Gov. Horner, after Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] threatened yesterday to offer an amendment to eliminate completely all reference to the emergency relief commission and providing that all of the retail impost receipts be used to replace existing taxes.

Barr was the only one to comment at any length on the change of program.

"Those on relief should have time to adjust themselves if the state is to withdraw from this work," he said, "and they should be able to do so by the end of the year.

"And the counties which do not need relief funds should be willing to contribute to the general welfare of the state for six months, as what they will receive in the lowering of general property taxes for the ensuing eighteen months provided for by this legislation will more than compensate them for what they give up for relief.

Urged to Care for Their Own.

"I believe the local communities should take care of their own and that we should adopt this 2 per cent sales tax bill at this session so that they may be able to make their preparations to do so. But I think no other new tax should be established at this session. Let's see first how this one works out."

The only exception to these suggestions came from James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], who is backing his own bill to create a 1 per cent tax on personal service occupations.

"I dislike this attempt to adopt new taxes by tying them to the tail of some relief program," he said, but he did not object to the new time limitation on relief funds from the sales tax.

The subject of special taxes was not brought up again during the day and inquiry revealed that Senator Loughran has determined he will not call up the sales measure "until the votes are in sight." This means he will not bring it up before next Tuesday at the earliest.

One of two efforts to wrest bills from committees apparently hostile to them succeeded. On the motion of Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin], the senate took from the committee on judiciary the real estate mortgage moratorium bill. This would allow courts to extend mortgages for periods not beyond July 1, 1935. The motion was passed 27 to 11 showing the bill has a good chance of passage. But a motion of Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago], to place the Chicago permanent registration bill on the calendar lost by 14 to 16.

Y. M. C. A. Hotel Property Subject to Tax Is Ruling

Y. M. C. A. properties, when used for hotel purposes, are taxable, County Assessor J. L. Jacobs was informed yesterday in a legal opinion given by County Attorney Hayden Bell. All Y. M. C. A. properties, valued at millions of dollars in Chicago alone, have been exempt from taxation for more than 70 years.

As a result of the opinion, the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue will be placed upon the assessment rolls for 1932 and a survey will be made of the 30 other Y. M. C. A. properties in the city to determine if they are being operated as hotels.

Claims Exemption Under Charter.

The Y. M. C. A. has depended for its tax exemptions upon a state charter it obtained in 1861 which provided that it might hold real estate "for the purpose of establishing and maintaining free libraries and reading rooms and for benevolent and religious purposes."

"The burden is upon those claiming the exemption to show facts which justify it," said Mr. Bell. "The exemption of hotels is against common right, public policy, and the express provisions of the present constitution.

"Hotels are not within the uses defined in the charter of the Young Men's Christian association and, in my opinion, are not exempt from taxation."

There is a possibility also, Mr. Bell said, that back taxes may be assessed against any Y. M. C. A. property which is proved to have been used for hotel purposes for a number of years.

Act On Hotel Men's Protest.

The North Shore Hotel association recently adopted a resolution calling upon Assessor Jacobs to tax the extensive property holdings of the Y. M. C. A. It was pointed out that the Y. M. C. A. had launched an advertising campaign to induce World's Fair visitors to stop in the various buildings it owns, listing sixteen buildings with 6,000 rooms for the accommodation of all comers, membership requirements having been waived for the summer.

The hotel association argued that the Y. M. C. A. thus was in direct competition with regular hotels which are subject to taxation and that the Y. M. C. A. had deviated widely from the educational and benevolent purposes for which it was organized three quarters of a century ago.

CHICAGO SAVED BLIND TAX GOUGE BY DOWNSTATERS

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Cook county representatives were joined by a few members from downstate cities today in defeating the Parker bill which would have saddled larger taxes upon municipalities by transferring blind relief responsibility from counties to the state. The bill would also raise the state tax levy for that purpose from one-tenth to one-fifth of a mill.

Representative Sidney Parker [Dem., Texico], had relied upon the downstate majority to help him pass the bill. Chicagoans, led by Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem.], pronounced the measure just "one more pry on Chicago's pocketbook and the pocketbooks of other large cities which pay more to the state than they receive."

On roll call it looked for a time as if the downstaters would stick together, but here and there, members voted "no," and at the finish Parker could count only 52 affirmative votes. Since it required 77 for passage, Speaker Roe declared the bill lost.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy, or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

Thousands who have piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite you to try HEM-ROID tablets with guarantee of money refunded if they do not end your Pile misery.

WATER PAGEANT TO MARK OFFICIAL SEAWAY OPENING

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A historical pageant depicting the work of the early French explorers and a great parade of water craft will be features of the dedication of the Illinois waterway on June 22. Plans for the dedication were started yesterday by Mayor Kelly's committee of civic leaders.

In the midst of skyscrapers near the Michigan avenue bridge a flotilla of Indian war canoes paddled by Indians will bring up the river actors impersonating Joliet, Tonti, and Father Marquette, who, passing this way more than two and a half centuries ago, discovered the water outlet over the Chicago divide into the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

Just east of the bridge the training ship Wilmette is to be docked, with Secretary of War Dern and other Washington dignitaries aboard, to whom "Joliet" will give a message congratulating the middle west upon the realization of a vision more than 250 years ago—a water route from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico. Secretary Dern is expected to make the address dedicating the waterway, which is already being used commercially.

New Orleans to Join in Fête.

New Orleans is to join with Chicago in the celebration. At yesterday's meeting in the city council chamber, which was opened by Mayor Kelly and presided over by Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman, a deputation was present from the Louisiana city.

The first through cargo from New Orleans will reach Chicago on the morning of June 22. It is a barge tow, which was started on its way with a gala fête in New Orleans a few days ago. With it the port of New Orleans is sending its yacht, the Hugh McCloskey, owned by the state of Louisiana, for a symbolic wedding of the waters of Lake Michigan and salt water of the Gulf of Mexico. W. T. Craig, Chicago general agent; Monte Ahrons, assistant agent, and J. Olin Chamberlain represented New Orleans at yesterday's meeting.

125 Congressmen to Attend.

In addition to Secretary Dern, some 125 members of congress, headed by Speaker Henry T. Rainey, are expected to be present. On suggestion of George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the dedication committee sent an invitation to Speaker Rainey and his congressional committee on the dedication of the lakes to gulf waterway to join with the city of Chicago in the official celebration of the opening of the new transportation link.

After the ceremonials the congressional committee is to leave on an inspection voyage down the waterway to New Orleans.

Capt. E. A. Evers of the naval reserve unit was made chairman of a committee on program and arrangements. Plans are under way for the greatest water show Chicago has ever seen. Boat clubs up and down Lake Michigan will be invited to participate. Others on Capt. Evers' committee, which will meet today, are:

Maj. R. W. Putnam	E. M. Antrim
Dr. Otto Schmidt	A. J. Sabath
Gen. Frank Parker	R. W. Worden
Roy Keehn	W. J. Bogan
Admiral W. T. Cluverius	W. T. Craig

R. A. Woodhull	Stanley Field
A. D. Lasker	A. A. Sprague
John Hertz	Byron V. Kanaley
B. J. Fallon	S. E. Thomason
T. J. Webb	T. J. Houston

M. W. Ottershagen	Floyd Bateman
W. J. Riley	P. V. Collani
Congressman Fred A. Britten	J. F. Cushing
R. I. Randolph	Col. D. S. Sultan
	Congressman H. P. Beam

Congressman P. H. Moynihan told the mayor's meeting that Speaker Rainey's congressional committee would work with Mayor Kelly's committee.

On the suggestion of Ald. John Coughlin, who sported on his vest the medal he got as alderman during the old World's Columbian Exposition of 1893, the secretary of the navy was invited to participate.

"Let this," Ald. Coughlin said, "be a rededication of the Chicago river, which made the old coal, lumber, and grain markets in the development of the middle west, and let it be a triumphal processional to celebrate the achievement of a vision of two and a half centuries."

ROOSEVELT ASKS ST. LAWRENCE WATER ROUTE O.K.

Writes La Follette His Reasons.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, in a letter to Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], today reiterated his desire for early ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treay with Canada. Although the President suggested that construction on the seaway project could be made an integral part of the public works program to be undertaken, he did not press for ratification of the pact at the present session.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter, addressed to Senator La Follette in response to an inquiry as to his position regarding the treaty, was as follows:

"I do not hesitate to tell you—and I do so with complete consistency—that I favor the resolution relating to the St. Lawrence power development passed by the house. I also favor the ratification of the great lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway treaty.

"The joint resolution protects the people of the state of New York who own the land under water in the St. Lawrence river as far out as the international boundary. The resolution means, in effect, that the congress will see to it that the state of New York, in paying for the power part of the development, will pay only for that part and will thus be able to insure cheap electricity for the consuming public.

"The treaty itself has been indorsed by both major political parties. The beginning of the work of construction at an early date can be made an essential part of the national public works program and will furnish employment to thousands of people.

"The above are simple facts and I have no objection to your use of this letter if you desire."

Senator La Follette stated that he has offered the substance of the joint resolution allocating New York power rights and construction obligations under the treaty as an amendment to the public works-industrial control bill now before the senate. The resolution already has been approved by the house.

INDIANA COURT PETITIONED TO FREE KIRKLAND

Anderson, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus seeking the release of Virgil Kirkland, who is serving one to ten years in the Pendleton reformatory, was filed yesterday in the Superior court of Madison county. Kirkland was sentenced in Valparaiso for assault to commit rape after a party that resulted in the death of Arlene Draves, 18 year old Gary girl.

Attorney Oscar B. Thiel of Gary, who filed the writ, based his plea on an Indiana law passed in 1929 that holds that a person canont be sentenced for a lesser offense than the crime for which he is indicted. Kirkland, the attorney pointed out, was indicted on a charge of first degree murder. The petition cited three Supreme court cases upholding the law.

Judge B. H. Campbell, who ordered Attorney Thiel to file a brief on Monday, said that he doubted that he had jurisdiction.

SALARY BOOST FOR MITCHELL BARED AT TRIAL

Former Banker Testifies in Tax Case.

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—At a time when many institutions were chopping expenses to the bone Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, received $100,000 salary increase, it was brought out today at his trial in the federal court for income tax evasion. That was in January, 1931.

By persistent hammering away on his cross-examination, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie showed how the former banker, after losing heavily in the market crash of 1929, received a $75,000 salary increase from the bank and one of $25,000 from its securities affiliate, the National City company, which he also headed.

Mitchell is charged before Judge Henry W. Goddard with evading payment of $850,000 taxes on an estimated net income of $4,000,000 for 1929 and 1930.

Shortly after 2:30 o'clock Mitchell was excused from the witness stand.

The prosecutor's point in bringing out the details of this salary increase was to show that Mitchell, far from being the "threadbare" market victim his counsel, Max D. Steuer, had described him, was faring nicely and might have made a payment on the $666,666.67 he received from the management fund of the National City company in the bull market days of 1929.

Mr. Medalie set about today to show that this $666,666.67 was never intended as an advance and that Mitchell himself never regarded it as such. Mitchell admitted that he had applied no portion of his salary increase toward its repayment, and, in fact, had used no money at all for that purpose.

Quizzed About Stocks.

In the closing hour of his cross-examination Mr. Medalie questioned the defendant concerning the transactions through which he sold to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene-Cananea Copper company, 8,500 shares of Anaconda stock in 1930 and then repurchased it at the same figure. Mitchell insisted that the transactions involved a series of coincidences of which he had no previous knowledge.

Mr. Medalie contends that he sought to defraud the government by three "sham" transactions. These were the sale of 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock to his wife in 1929 to establish a tax loss of $2,800,000 and the failure to declare as income the $666,666.67 received in the same year from the management fund of the National City company, and, in December, 1929, the sale of 8,500 shares of Anaconda stock to Mr. Thornton to establish a tax loss of $758,000.

Cases of Officers Cited.

In his efforts to show that Mitchell and the other ranking officers of the National City company considered their portions of the 1929 management fund as bonuses and not advances, Mr. Medalie cited the cases of two officers who have since resigned.

Mitchell admitted that George K. Weeks, one of the directors, resigned without paying back the $110,000 which he had received. He also admitted that when L. E. Olwell, a vice president, resigned, owing the company $393,000, a resolution was adopted by the directors reducing this indebtedness to $200,000, and that the sum of $70,000 which Mr. Olwell had received from the 1929 management fund was not considered a part of his indebtedness.

Senate Votes $100,000 More for Private Banks Inquiry

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—More power and money for investigating private banks and bankers today were voted unanimously by the senate for investigators who were striving, even as the vote was taken, to demonstrate a dominating J. P. Morgan & Co. influence over the Van Sweringen railroad interests.

Stock sales affecting the taxable income of Thomas S. Lamont and other Morgan partners were the immediate objective of Chairman Fletcher's quickly approved resolution. Simultaneously $100,000 was voted for carrying the private bank inquiry through another session of congress.

Amends His Statement.

Immediately he sought to amend this designation, introduced voluntarily while he was saying business showed improvement "all the way through" and needed "confidence instead of frightening."

"Perhaps I shouldn't have said what I did," explained Van Sweringen as he leaned back in one chair, a foot propped on another.

"I didn't mean investigations, but—of course, to investigate and know is desirable—but through the press the public gets the idea that something is wrong. That drift is there.

"I realize that all you are trying to do is to see and know and be helpful."

Morgan and his partners who have been attending the hearings for nearly three weeks seemed more interested in Van Sweringen's unexpected statement about investigations than in the laborious questions and answers about the intricate Van Sweringen corporate business and huge loans by the Morgan firm.

Asked About Alleghany.

He showed that in the formation of this corporation the O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen interests made a paper profit of over $90,000,000. But the witness denied this figure represented actual profit, saying it was based rather on assumption.

Van Sweringen agreed, though, that his interests received $36,313,952 in cash and securities with a market value of $110,000,000 in return for securities tht cost them $52,000,000. He said the Alleghany corporation also assumed a $1,029,000 debt against the Van Sweringen group.

These figures summarized a series of involved corporation transactions leading to formation of the Alleghany corporation. At one point the witness again said that to avail themselves of income tax exemptions special corporations had been formed to transfer large blocks of stock.

Agrees Taxes Avoided.

In the case of a transfer of 255,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio stock from the Vaness corporation to the Chesapeake corporation, Van Sweringen agreed the $13,000,000 increase in value over the cost price would have been taxable had not the General Securities corporation been formed to handle the transfer.

After emphasizing a number of Morgan loans to the Van Sweringens, Pecora suddenly asked:

"Do bankers who finance and invest in railroad systems exercise an appreciable influence?"

"No, I expect they would investigate to find out whether they thought the policy was unfit, but that would be so far as the financial policy was concerned.

"The banker buys securities and feels a responsibility, no doubt, but our experience has been that all he's interested in is that the property in which he put his dollars is properly administered from the point of view of investment."

Buys Railway Stock.

Pecora spent some time on acquisition of stock in the Missouri Pacific by the Alleghany corporation. Van Sweringen said that between March, 1929, and May, 1930, when he became a Missouri Pacific director, the Alleghany acquired a majority of the outstanding stock and over $46,000,000 in debenture notes.

"Why did the Alleghany buy Missouri Pacific?" Pecora asked.

"We had a belief in the development of the southwest and desired diversity," Van Sweringen said. "For instance, the Missouri Pacific carries a lot of oil and the Chesapeake and Ohio coal."

This can be your Bank —for the time being

We know that there are hundreds of men and women in this community—and in responsible positions—who in the past have been in the habit of going to other banks for a few hundred dollars or a thousand or so—for perfectly proper and constructive reasons. Right now so much of that kind of credit is not available, on account of the size, the collateral, the time required, or some other equally good reason.

For the time being we are able to take care of such loans. The range of amounts is from $500 to $5,000 or more; the time may be up to one year; security may be collateral, or the signatures of two of your friends; the charge is 6% per annum discount, and a moderate fee for credit expense unless you offer collateral; you pay back by saving—a little each month creates the sinking fund to meet the note when it falls due.

We have been of real service in this community in making loans of this type—for the time being, as we said above—understanding perfectly that such borrowers may want to be considered as temporary customers.

Mae Tinee Reviews New Films as They Reach Chicago Screens

Author Shows War Rampant in World of Peace

Records Speak in Volume of George Seldes.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"World Panorama, 1918-1933," by George Seldes. (Little Brown.) Published today.

Never before in the history of the world—as Joseph Ward Swain says in his recently published "Beginning of the Twentieth Century"—have historical scholars been able to "use materials for which they would have formerly been forced to wait for fifty years." Never before has it been possible so accurately to portray the immediate past. History is not only being made before our eyes, but it is being written before them.

GEORGE SELDES.

One of the most fascinating of the many thrilling records of recent times is "World Panorama" by George Seldes. Mr. Seldes does not pretend to be a historian in the sense that the professors of history so profess to be. He is a journalist, a brilliant one, and one of those who look upon their work as a trust to the public, not as a chance for their own personal aggrandizement and public acclaim. To such men history is a panorama of human reactions to fate, to facts, even to the fancies of dreamers rather than vast cycles of economics inevitably turning upon themselves. As men and women make it, history is made; as man's inhumanity to man makes or unmakes them are wars, armistices and peaces made. History written in that fashion is as enthralling as any book.

"World Panorama" is done exactly thus. Mr. Seldes was himself present at many of the great international moments which are recorded in his book, as foreign correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE among other journalistic appointments. He has a fearless pen which has already intrigued the world with "You Can't Print That." He has a sense of irony and of satire which is (sadly, but obviously) needed for the presentation of his sad, but ironic tale of the fifteen years after the war that was to end all war.

To the lay reader the story which he tells is a tremendous blast made up of the minutest human details—like the shouts of a mob in the heat of passion. The cry from each throat is scarcely loud enough to be heard a city block away. Joined one with another, mingled in unison, the tiny single cries become deafening.

Mr. Seldes is no gently-spoken optimist. A man with a sense of humor rarely is, and there is scarcely a paragraph which is not made more vivid by his wit. He opens his book with the cessation of war and the armistice terms. The book ends after a survey of the years with his declaration: "On all fronts, military, economic, spiritual, there was not a day of peace." The book is literally a world panorama of those days of war, ironically called the peace.

"World Panorama" is the story of the failure of idealism, of the sense of human brotherhood, even of efforts to avert another war, in a period which was to have been marked with democracy, decency, spiritual and social betterment. The world (of 1914) was a "World Well Lost," according to Mr. Seldes' heading for his first chapter, and it was "Towards a New World" that man was looking.

But Armistice day merely proclaimed a cessation of battle of one kind. During the "years of peace" he shows that wars have gone on in every country, in every language, in every phase of human activity. Country against country, economically, politically, diplomatically, engendering hatreds of the early days of the war when atrocities were furnished by propaganda as hypodermic injections to the public consciousness. There have been battles of the most violent intent and implications in the field of morals—over short skirts, over beer, over bathing suits, over (believe it or not) drinking coffee. Dictators have arisen, according to Mr. Seldes, who have imposed upon their subjects rules no less czaristic than the czars reveled in.

Mr. Seldes feels that Lenin was a great social leader, a man of intelligence and foresight, and, one gathers, although he never directly states it as a fact, that Mr. Seldes looks upon bolshevism as greatly misunderstood and maligned.

One of the chief delights of the book, is that it is in no sense the statement of the beliefs of the author. It is a journalistic record, in most cases without comment, of events. The piecing together of the record, the choice of the pattern in which the record is made permanent, is what gives the book its peculiar hold upon the reader. From newspapers and magazines and books and whatever permanent sources there are, Mr. Seldes has assembled a sentence here, another there, and, placing them in juxtaposition, given each sentence an added, a vivified significance. His rare comments further shed the light of irony on the facts.

Between each chapter there is an "Interlude" of a year—beginning with 1918 and ending with "Prelude 1933." In those short chapters, in staccato sentences he has set down the events of that year which most characteristically illumine the year's "progress." He uses the same method in the long chapters—his material mosaic-like records from human events. Such writing has a strangely exciting quality to it, a thrill that the veriest landlubber on the sea of history can feel.

One of the most interesting among the countless interesting facts which here are told for the first time is the story of "how the negotiations began which brought peace to Ireland and Britain." Mr. Seldes says, "Behind the marching and countermarching of Lloyd George, De Valera, Sir James Craig, Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and Gen. Smuts, there walked quietly an American journalist who unassumingly had a large hand in the treaty. He is John Steele, London correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Although a Dubliner by birth, he is one of the few Irishmen dead or alive who has ever been able to see both sides of the Irish question."

When everything was over and the treaty signed and Mr. Steele asked Arthur Griffith why he had been chosen, Mr. Seldes quotes Griffith's reply: "I knew it had to be started by a neutral, preferably a journalist closely in touch with Lloyd George and preferably an American . . . I had many friends among American journalists. They came frequently to interview me. I asked all of them if they thought we could obtain complete independence if we continued our war. Every one but you told me we could. You were the only pessimist. You were the only one honest enough to tell me the truth . . . I knew you were right. I chose you."

Don't pick up "World Panorama" unless you are prepared to spend your days and nights with it until you finish it, for it has something about it that makes one desert wife, lover, or child until it is finished. And sentence by sentence it is to be read, for each sentence is a news flash from some far corner or near. And besides, like life itself, it is amusing and ironic beneath and above its tragedy.

Talkies Made as You Watch at Fair Studios

Good Morning!
Come to "Hollywood-at-the-Fair!"
All the folks whom you know'll be there!
Learn the tricks of the trade—
Just how movies are made—
"Some experience!" you'll declare.

Guess I'd better tell you about "Hollywood-at-the-Fair" this morning. It opens tonight, you know.

The other day I moseyed out to A Century of Progress, just to peek about and find out what is what about this motion picture exhibit everybody's been doing so much talking about. Really, as Jimmie "Schnozzle" Durante would say, "It's tree-men-dous!"

The concession covers three acres and includes three open air [roofed] theaters with glassed in stages where sound pictures will be made before your very eyes. One of these stages is 40 feet deep—large enough to produce any old sort of production. The smallest of the three features television and radio.

THEN—built out to the water's edge—Hollywood has the grandest location right between the lake and the lagoon—is a reproduction of the famous Malibou Beach club, than which there is no more restful place to relax and sip a cooling drink. About the grounds are sets—painted by Donnegan, formerly scene painter for the Civic Opera company—with views of London, Algiers and the French quarter of old New Orleans. Atmospheric as the dickens.

Apropos of these—the management wishes to encourage amateur groups to make pictures at Hollywood-at-the-Fair. They're welcome to backgrounds, costumes—everything except film—free. "Silent," of course, these films will be. BUT—should they prove extraordinary in any way, why—sound facilities will be offered and they can be transformed into talkies!

Visitors will see a "western" in the making—directed by Bob Curwood. Featured in this will be the outfits from the 101 and 49 ranches. The story is built about A Century of Progress. Also there for the eye to behold are Leo, the famous Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lion, a statue of Marlene Dietrich, interesting displays of costumes and jewels that have been worn by famous stars—properties of all descriptions. There are shops that replica Hollywood emporiums, AND, heavens! I almost forgot—the famous Brown Derby restaurant is reproduced. On its rim, twice a day, will be a fashion show.

Tonight's colorful program starts at 9 o'clock. Admission, $1—for tonight only. Thereafter it will be 40 cents. Rin Tin Tin Jr. is guest of honor.

See you—tonight? If not—tomorrow!

Movie Closeup

There's to be a new Sunday matinée price at the Palace theater. Hitherto the 55c tariff on Sundays has been in effect only until 2 p. m. Starting this Sunday, the Palace pushes back the hour from 2 until 5 p. m. Idea is that A Century of Progress visitors will have time to tour the Fair and get to the theater before the higher Sunday price is posted.

Winnetka Folk Push Gads Hill Benefit Dance

Mexican Strolling Players to Entertain.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE is so much happening at A Century of Progress all the time, day and night, that sometimes we in the city begin to think that nothing is going on anywhere else, but that is far from the truth, for, especially in the suburbs, the Fair is something to be visited occasionally and life goes on much the same as usual at this time of the year.

Out in Winnetka the interest of several well known younger couples just now is centered on the dance to be given for the benefit of the nursery school of the Gad Hills settlement on Friday, June 16. The party is to be at the Skokie Country club and one of the many interesting features will be the presence of the Mexican Aztec strolling players from the Mexican village at the Fair, who will sing and play between the dances.

Five pretty girls who will sell cigarets and flowers are Betty Gillies, Mira Lee Benoist, Lucy Trumbull, Frances Bell, and Betty Edmonds. Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Hough of Winnetka are co-chairmen of the ticket committee in charge of the dance, and among other couples interested in making it a success are Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Buckingham, Mr. and Mrs. Lon C. Hill Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gillies, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. McKisson, Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Senear. The nursery school was started in 1927 at the settlement which for 34 years has been located at 1919 West 20th street.

600 Garden Enthusiasts Visit Lake Forest Again.

There was scarcely a doorway in Lake Forest yesterday noon without at least one large blue bus stopped before it. The members of the Garden Club of America—600 of them—were luncheon guests at 23 Lake Forest houses.

Mrs. Lester Armour entertained two dozen visitors at her house which is near the Shoreacres club. Mrs. Philip D. Armour had another two dozen in her lovely gardens on Green Bay road and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed gave eighteen visitors luncheon at her stunning Georgian house on the lake.

Other hostesses yesterday were Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Alfred T. Carton, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, Mrs. William E. Clow, Mrs. John Coleman Jr., Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., Mrs. James H. Douglas, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. John Andrews King, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Edward DeWitt Shumway, Mrs. Roy E. Sturtevant, Mrs. Donald P. Welles, and Mrs. Lawrence Williams.

The four day visit of the gardeners to Chicago climaxed yesterday with a lovely tea [iced] at Covin Tree, the Walter S. Brewsters' estate on North Green Bay road. There is so much to enjoy in the Brewster gardens. . . . Little Triton, the fountain done by Carl Milles . . . other fountains, the Kneeling Girl and Duck Baby . . . and Sylvia Shaw Judson's figure in the terrace wall, "Saint Brigid" . . . as well as the big house that was designed by Mrs. Judson's father, the late Howard Van Doren Shaw.

All of the 600 gardeners were at the tea party saying farewells and agreeing that their 1933 meeting had been a genuine success with delightful hospitality its keynote.

Many Garden Club Delegates Depart.

With the Garden Club of America's four day annual meeting a thing of the past, most of the delegates are on their way home, although quite a few are remaining for longer visits to be able to have a more comprehensive view of the Fair than they were able to get during the busy days of the meeting. Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne, the honorary president of the organization, who was with the Potter Palmers during her stay, left yesterday morning for her home in Millbrook, N. Y., accompanied by her grandson's wife, Mrs. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne, the former Bertha Palmer, who had been visiting her parents. Both were anxious to reach Millbrook to see Baby Oakleigh Thorne III., who will have his first birthday cake on Aug. 11. The Palmers are going to their Bar Harbor residence later.

The young Palmers, however, with their wee daughter, Rose, are planning to leave next week for a visit with Mrs. Palmer's mother, Mrs. West Movius, in Boston, before joining the senior Palmers in Bar Harbor for the summer.

Miss Jean Schweppe, who is looking prettier than ever with the gorgeous sun tan that she acquired playing tennis at the Virginia Hot Springs, will be going to California next month, for she is to be maid of honor for her cousin, Miss Nona Schweppe, when she is married to Peter Lewis of Atherton, Cal., on July 15. The wedding is to take place in Santa Monica at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Schweppe, in the garden with only members of the families and a few friends present.

R. C. Dawes Family to Split Up for Commencements.

With the commencement exercises at Vassar and Marietta colleges falling on the same date, next Monday, the Rufus C. Dawes family is having to split up to be able to attend both. Mrs. Dawes is leaving tomorrow for Vassar, where Helen Dawes will be graduated Monday, and Mr. Dawes is going to his alma mater, which also is the alma mater of his brothers. His father, too, and his uncles, went to this little college, which is one of the oldest west of the Alleghenies.

Mr. Dawes was invited to make an address at Helen's commencement at Attraction and Response Augur Success for Orchestra Series

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Chicago Symphony orchestra in an all-Tschaikowsky program at the Auditorium, Thursday, June 8; Frederick Stock, conductor; Rudolph Ganz, piano soloist. The program:

Polonaise from "Eugene Onegin."

If things continue to go as they have started, the Chicago Friends of Music are running some likelihood of finding that the orchestra series of their sponsorship at the Auditorium will be a great popular success of the season.

Last night's concert was the second of the series, running the risks of following up a brilliant first night. The program was all by Tschaikowsky, who is not rated today as one of the most popular of composers. The weather was, not to put too fine a point on it, by no means ideal to get an audience to turn out.

Three things were against the Friends of Music. Yet the lure of a magnificent orchestra and its greatly gifted conductor, the brilliant solo playing of Mr. Ganz, and in addition the opportunity of hearing a concert in the grand old Auditorium were enough to overcome all handicaps. The attendance was not as great as it had been the night before, but from the gossip I picked up during the intermission it was about 50 per cent better than its most optimistic supporters had expected.

Two elements are necessary to make a concert series a success, and the Friends of Music would seem to have acquired both of them. The first is a fine attraction on the stage. The second is a responsive audience. Neither can put it over alone, but when the two confront each other they work together with most convincing and admirable results.

Not in months has there been such spontaneity of applause in a concert. For that matter, not in months has there appeared to be such good reason for applause. Mr. Stock and his men would seem to be letting out an extra link of glow and suavity and fine tone in their performances. Mr. Ganz also fell into the spirit. He was the brilliant virtuoso of a famous old concerto; he was also the broad, appealing, sympathetic interpreter.

If it should come to a vote there is one ballot ready for casting in favor of making this series of concerts at least twice as long as was originally planned.

Commercialism Perils Drama in U.S., Speaker Tells Art Federation

A charge that commercialism is stifling the drama of this country was made last night by Maurice Gnesin, head of the drama school of the Goodman theater. He spoke at a meeting of the American Federation of Arts at the Palmer house.

"If the theater is going to fail in America," said Mr. Gnesin, "it will do so because the money-changers have invaded the temple and there is no one to drive them out. Tremendous sums are spent on shows to keep them going for a long run when they are devoid of merit and are not art."

Delegates to the convention, members of the Hoosier Salon Patrons' association and the Daughters of Indiana will be guests this afternoon at a tea in the Indiana hall of the Court of States at the Fair. Thomas Hart Benton, a mural artist, will speak.

Persian Excavations to Be Shown in Movie at U. of C. This Evening

Three reels of "The New Past," a motion picture depicting the excavations of the University of Chicago's Oriental institute expedition in Egypt and Asia Minor, will be shown for the first time tonight in Mandel hall on the campus. When completed the picture will be much more extensive, the three reels dealing almost exclusively with the palace of the Persian kings at Persepolis.

Viewing the picture will be the alumni who have gathered for the fortieth annual reunion. Today and tomorrow there will be several alumni meetings and tomorrow evening the entire body of alumni will gather in Hutchinson court to sing fraternity songs.

Public Schools Start Summer Vacation Today

Total of 34,198 Pupils to Be Graduated.

Chicago's half million school children will put aside their books and start summer vacations today. Graduations, with the awarding of diplomas and honors, have been carried on in the schools for the past week and will end this afternoon. A total of 34,198 pupils will be graduated from various grades in the system.

The cry that "School is out!" met with favor among the children, but was not taken so joyously by the teachers for whom it means a pay cut of 5 per cent. The board of education voted recently to close the schools two weeks early in order to save $2,000,000 in salaries and expenses.

A fight against the board's measure has been started by various teacher organizations. The Chicago High School Teachers' association, acting upon the advice of its legal counsel, Wiley W. Mills, former alderman, sent out a bulletin telling all school teachers to report at school Monday.

The move presages a breach of contract suit against the school board. The teachers claim that they were not consulted about the early closing of schools and did not give their consent. They claim that they should be paid their salaries for the two weeks period.

The teachers' bulletin also urged that public funds be withdrawn from Chicago banks because they have invested in securities of other cities and have not purchased enough school board tax anticipation warrants to finance back pay rolls for teachers and other school employés.

Graduation exercises were held in the senior high schools last night and in the afternoon in the elementary schools and junior high schools. Exercises will be held today at the Chicago Normal and Crane Junior colleges.

Yesterday was class day for the 202 graduates of the Normal college. The setting of ivy at the base of the college building wall, a traditional ceremony, was held in the morning followed by an address by Miss Mary Lichtenfels, president of the senior class.

MANY SO-CALLED WEEDS REALLY PUNGENT GREENS

Their Distinctive Flavors Never Forgotten.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a regular weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Where I grew up everybody "had" dandelions. All up and down the street the saucy yellow heads of the youngsters and the great white tops of the old ones spotted the lawns. Everybody fumed and dug and burrowed—trying to uproot them as fast as they grew up. But occasionally someone would give up and go vacationing. And then, after a week or so of healthy and undiscouraged growing, that vacationer's lawn had a salad growing on every square foot of it!

Which makes me wonder. How many of you are familiar with dandelion soups, salads, and buttered steamed greens? City folk can't exactly pick them off pent house roofs. But back lots are more or less available and trips out into the country are growing more and more frequent these days. Which means that not only tender, succulent dandelion leaves, but a dozen or so other wild plants may be gathered free-for-nothing if we only are reminded of just which they are.

Most of these greens that we find out in the pastures and in vacant lots may be cooked and used much as we do spinach—and for many choosey diners they have an even more desirable flavor. Or some have especially nippy flavors that make them perfect additions to soups, sauces, and combination dishes. Still others ask for merely a dashing of well seasoned French dressing to make them perfectly happy in salads. Our one commandment is—wash and wash all greens. Grit is discouraging to even the most adventuresome diner.

The pestiforeous dandelion is number one. It's most tender and juicy in the spring and early summer—just following rains. Cook it in a little water without a cover—only till tender. Butter it and serve up with seasoning. Or cut cooked dandelion leaves fine and serve blended with seasoned cream sauce. Wild lettuce is another green often growing right under our noses in the gardens, roadsides, or meadows. It sends up lush leaves and stems, beginning in the spring. It has a seed stalk topped with small yellow flowers. The leaves are deeply cut at the edges—sometimes are a bit sharp and prickly—while under the stem it has a row of fine yellow bristles.

Mustard flowers—the yellow [sometimes white] four petal blossoms which burst into bloom all over the countryside in midsummer give their leaves for use in cooking and sometimes for soup and salads. There's a distinctive, rather unusual flavor which once tasted is never forgotten. One of the most common of this family is the horseradish plant. We've eaten its grown roots mixed with vinegar as a relish. Now, if you meet horseradish out in the pasture some day—preferably in spring—gather the leaves and bring them home for dinner.

The next family due a visit is the dock tribe. You may be familiar with the high standing curled or yellow dock sometimes called sour dock. The leaves [the edible part] of this plant are dark green and longish with wavy edges. And just so we'll feel more familiar, it's good to know that our garden rhubarb, French and garden sorrel and buckwheat also come from this same family—but have gone high-brow and got themselves under cultivation.

Another possibility in the line of greens is the cowslip or marsh marigold plant. Our grandmothers made use of it as a pot herb before we were born, and it is still as able to give flavor to soups and stews or to be used as a green as ever it was.

Lamb's quarters is another common back-door green. Pick the leaves when young. The older ones may be rather tough about it.

"Meaner 'an pusley" was an old phrase of our grandparents time, and that "pusley" was none other than the persistent little plant "purslane," which grows and grows all over lawns, gardens, and cultivated fields, branching flatly all over the ground and keeping its stems and leaves tender and edible until blossoming time.

Not very many folks make use of the common milkweed, but nevertheless the broad leaves may be used for greens and are quite palatable.

Have you ever watched a householder mow a lawn—and when the job was done see the many thin, defiant spikes which stood, still uncut, bloody yet unbowed? Likely those were stems of the common plantain plant. But though the stems are obstinate, the broad leaves themselves, during the early season especially, are tender and good for use as greens.

Finally, you can't have forgotten the puckery, nippy taste of wood sorrel with its low-growing, triple leaves and funny ridged seed pods. Because of the acid snap of these leaves they are still much courted for flavoring in salads and soups.

LIST FOODS THAT HELP KEEP TEETH IN GOOD CONDITION

Five suggestions for guarding good teeth include the usual regular dental inspection and general physical fitness and cleaning the teeth. Two other principal points include a well balanced diet and exercise for teeth and gums by eating firm textured foods.

Minerals and vitamins, important for good teeth, can be found in lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, apples, oranges and pears. Milk and dairy products furnish another important source.

Praise for the old fashioned "Dutch oven" results from experiments conducted to determine efficiency in baking meats and other products. The work was completed recently by Esther Latzke, research worker at North Dakota agricultural college.

Flavor and color and shrinkage in the meats varied little as a result of varying the type of roasting. The only noticeable difference was that the meat roasted in the regulation oven had a more crisp surface, and slightly less time was required. This did not offset the economy in using a lesser number of heat units with the Dutch oven.

Smaller families can use this information on economy, Miss Latzke reports, although larger families might find that the regular oven can be filled with extra dishes utilizing the available space.

"GROCERY ANAGRAMS"

What Is an ANAGRAM?

An anagram is merely a rearrangement of the letters of a word. For example, EFFOCE is an anagram of COFFEE; again, CORREG is an anagram of GROCER. Note that the anagram contains exactly the same letters of the regular word, the only difference being that the letters are placed in different order.

What well known food and grocery store items can you spell with the letters in the accompanying anagrams? Today the Chicago Tribune presents another fascinating game of "Grocery Anagrams." It's loads of fun. You'll find it instructive. There's no hard work to do—and there's $100.00 in groceries and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets to reward successful contestants. Read the simple rules and start now!

THE RULES:

1. The letters in each of the accompanying ten anagrams when arranged properly will spell the names of ten well-known food and grocery items. You are invited to solve the anagrams and try for the $100.00 in grocery prizes and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets which the Tribune will award.
2. To the persons who submit the best entries in accordance with these rules, the Chicago Tribune will pay $100.00 in grocery orders and 100 Mary Meade Recipe Cabinets. First prize, $25.00 in groceries; second prize, $15.00 in groceries; third prize, $10.00 in groceries; next ten prizes, $5.00 each in groceries; next 100 prizes, one Mary Meade Recipe Cabinet each.
3. This offer is open to all—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just send in an entry.
4. Awards will be made to the persons who send in the best entries. Simply rearrange the letters in each of the ten anagrams to spell the name of a food or grocery item. After you have solved the anagrams, check the food and grocery store ads in today's Tribune and place a crossmark in the square if you find the item advertised in any of today's Tribune food and grocery ads. If the item is NOT advertised, make NO mark.
5. All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by the Tribune. Contestants agree to accept the decision of the committee as final. Judgment will be based upon accuracy in solving the anagrams and in checking the ads, and neatness. No special consideration will be given to elaborate entries. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants. Only one entry may be submitted by any one contestant. Note: You do not necessarily have to solve all the anagrams correctly to win. The prizes will be awarded to the contestants whose entries rank highest.
6. Address your entry to "GROCERY ANAGRAMS No. 6," the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice box 1720, Chicago, Ill. All entries to today's game must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday, June 14, 1933. No entries will be returned.
7. You need NOT purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. The Tribune may be examined at the Tribune offices or at public libraries free of charge. You may use the handy blank supplied here or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be announced as soon as possible in the Tribune.

WARM WEATHER FOODS PREVAIL IN MARKETS HERE

BY PAUL POTTER.

Warm weather foods are expected to have their inning in Chicago and suburbs this week-end, as purchases are adjusted to changed apetites and menus in keeping with the temperature.

Fruits, vegetables, dairy products, cold meats, uncooked breakfast cereals, crackers, and light pastries are combined with a wide selection of beverages in today's food stores to meet just such a change in demand. And they are reasonable in price, with but few exceptions.

Carloads of Lemons Here.

Citrus fruits arrived in Chicago this week in larger quantities, especially lemons, oranges, and grapefruit. The lemons advanced in price somewhat in some stores, but today no housewife should pay more than she did a year ago for them. Eleven carloads came in Wednesday and more yesterday, direct from California, to keep the wholesale prices lower than a year ago, in spite of heightened demands from parched throats. They are graded for fine quality, too.

Carloads of cherries also arrived from the west coast orchards for today's trading, and have brought prices down somewhat in retail stores. By next week, when the sweet cherry season is at its peak, they should be priced within reach of any one's pocketbook.

Lettuce Sales Heavy.

The first shipments of fresh plums and apricots from California are expected in Chicago next week. Eggplants are coming from Cuba and Florida. Head lettuce has reached a low price range and is selling in quantities for salads and sandwiches at the rate of 30 carloads a day.

Strawberries are coming from Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois gardens in large quantities, and are low priced in today's markets. A few blackberries are available from Arkansas, blueberries from Alabama, while some stores carry early sweet potatoes from Tennessee and the first white squashes from Louisiana. Avocado pears also are attractive in price and tastiness for warm weather meals.

Cantaloupes Abundant.

These foods are being matched from nearby Illinois gardens by green onions, tender rhubarb, hothouse tomatoes, radishes, and mushrooms which are wholesaling as low as 10 cents a pound. First grapes will arrive about mid-July, while honeydew melons will come into Chicago stores in the next few weeks. Cantaloupes of fine flesh and favor are abundant and cheap here this week-end.

Reports from local dairymen indicate that sales of fresh milk and buttermilk are mounting with the mercury. Beer and many other beverages also enjoy increased demand in local stores.

Cream such as is being supplied by most Chicago dairies at 15 to 20 cents a half pint is outside the realm of wise purchases.

Cream Prices Too High.

Recent investigations by the Illinois legislature's milk committee show that the companies are overcharging for both coffee and whipping cream, considering prices they pay farmers for the raw product, and the abundance of cheap, yet fine quality cream available for the Chicago market.

nI the butcher shops, fresh and smoked fish, cold meats, and pork loins are among the economical and timely purchases suggested by meat authorities. Since fewer care to prepare roasts during hot weather, they are usually lower priced than steaks and chops.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Firm custard may be made without heating the oven. Place the cups in a shallow pan and surround them with water. Then cover the pan tightly and set it over a flame so low that the water does not boil.

Ever Try Cheese as Dessert? You'll Find It's Delightful

BY DOROTHY MASTERS.

A great many women who wouldn't think of serving the soup course after the dessert, display a surprising lack of finesse—or so connoisseurs claim in their use of cheeses.

Perhaps the proper taste for cheese, as for caviar, must be acquired, but to the knowing palate, this interesting food presents a wide variety of pleasures, and when one considers that there are abount 20 cheeses of distinct economic and dietary importance in this country, it follows that rather great care should be taken in the selection of cheeses for various uses.

It so happens, because of its price and nature, doubtless, that American cheese, or Cheddar, leads the field as a cooking cheese. It is admirably suited for use in fondues, omelettes, souffles, sauces for vegetables, for casserole dishes, with macaroni rice, and au gratin dishes of all types. But this doesn't mean that it should be the only cheese in the icebox.

Roquefort Still King.

For instance, particularly neglected by Americans is that delightful delicacy of cheese as a dessert. In Europe it has long been the custom to put the finishing touches on the meal with a bit of cheese and cracker. Camembert, with its rich mellow flavor, is among the favorites, and Roquefort, too, that "King of Cheeses" makes an ideal last touch. The round and ruddy Edam, which lends itself so beautifully to decoration for table use, and its littler kin, the baby Gouda, are often found with their silver scoops, ready to provide that sweet, nut like quality particularily pleasing to cheese lovers.

Swiss cheese, Gruyere, the wine-aged Trauben Swiss, slices of aged American, Brie—these are all correct adjuncts to the perfect dinner. For the final course, the universally liked cream cheese offered with Bar-le-Duc and crackers or served with any tart jelly is both simple and smart.

Limburger with Beer!

Limburger properly belongs with the flowing stein. The buffet supper is its forte, and it forms an ideal compliment to the hearty luncheon. Along with Swiss, thoroughly aged American, and the sharper old English types, it goes with beer as naturally as the foam collar.

For use in sandwiches, any cheese which pleases the individual palate is suitable. American cheese is probably the most popular in this field, but Swiss is a great national favorite, as is Limburger, and the delicately mild cream cheese among the soft cheeses. But even for sandwich use, there is a right and wrong way to serve cheese. It is the theory of true cheese-lovers that Swiss should never be cut to paper thin pieces, but should be served in generously thick slices. Only then, they say, can the sweet nutlike flavor which is the distinguishing characteristic be properly appreciated.

Camembert and Brie.

American cheese, on the other hand, may be cut either thin or thick. Roquefort, Camembert, Limburger, and Brie, are best served in individual portions with crackers. All of the Roquefort is eaten of course, for the green veins give the cheese its flavor, but connoisseurs do differ as to the proper consumption of Camembert. Many of them insist that the choicest portion of this cheese lies just inside the crusty rind, and therefore consume the entire portion with great zest. Others will have only the semiliquid, creamy-like pungency which constitutes the center, and fully ripened heart of the Camembert.

Edam and Gouda should have generous mouthfuls scooped from their pale yellow centers, and cream cheese should be spread to a toothsome thickness and combined with a tart jelly. One of the most delectable uses for cream cheese is as a spread for hot breads. On hot biscuits for example, with cherry preserves, this cheese is scarcely to be equalled as a breakfast or tea-time delicacy. Used as a stuffing for baked apples, or as a topping for hot cereal, it proves its versatility.

Because of its high-body building values, and 90 to 99 per cent digestibility, cheese has come into great importance in late years as a valuable food for children.

RHUBARB SAUCE, STRAWBERRIES IN THIS SHORTCAKE

A combination of fruit and vegetable for a shortcake suggests a variation for a dessert now in its seasonal popularity in Chicago. The shortcake calls for equal portions of strawberries and rhubarb sauce.

The shortcake is made in the usual way, such as in the following recipe:

- 2 cups flour.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 6 tablespoons shortening.
- 1 tablespoon sugar.
- ¾ cup milk.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Work in the shortening with a fork, a pastry mixer, or the fingers. Add the milk gradually. Toss the mixture on a floured board and pat or roll it into a one-half inch thickness. Cut into shapes with a biscuit cutter and bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] for twelve minutes.

The filling consists of two cups of strawberries slightly crushed and sweetened, and two cups of rhubarb sauce, baked or stewed to keep its shape.

HERE'S WAY TO COMBAT HEAT! TRY GRAPEFRUIT

Juice Makes Healthful Summer Drink.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

There was a time when the practical housewife always provided for sweltering days by having various flavors of fruit juices stored away until needed. The juices of grapes, currants, and red raspberries were the old reliables used along with iced tea, coffee, and chocolate.

But—the 20th century housewife no longer need slave for hours in the kitchen staining her hands with the work demanded by these fruits. She need only to order a case of grapefruit juice and by keeping several cans in her refrigerator she is assured of having a satisfactory drink on hand after she has had a busy day entertaining her guests at the Fair.

Citrus fruit drinks have come to the front in the last few years. Scientists have shown us the benefits to be derived from their juices.

Rich in Minerals.

Grapefruit, the youngest of our popular fruits, possesses several points of merit. The grapefruit tang is elusive in flavor, and the word elusive advisedly used. Thus far chemists specializing in the production of synthetic flavors have been unable to duplicate the true grapefruit flavor of the fresh fruit. It is recognized today as one of the most important health fruits available. Grapefruit is rich in the minerals most essential to the growing child, and its refreshing flavor makes the juice acceptable to all tastes.

An idea of the growth of grapefruit will be obtained by those who visit the Florida State exhibits at the Century of Progress this summer. A grove of mature trees has been transplanted to the Exposition grounds.

Here's Salad Recipe.

Grapefruit hearts, as well as the juice, seem to fill the bill as an appetizer. The following salad recipe, we are sure, will be popular with your family and guests:

One large can of chilled grapefruit hearts drained [save the juice] and two large oranges peeled and skinned. Keep the segments of each fruit as whole as possible. Arrange salad plates with lettuce leaves and then alternate one segment of grapefruit and one of orange. Eight segments are enough in one serving. Cut a sweet green pepper into thread like strips. Blanch the strips with boiling water for two or three minutes. Drain these and place them between the segments of grapefruit and orange. The green pepper must be cut fine or the effect will be spoiled. Use well chilled French dressing, and before pouring it over the prepared salad blend with one teaspoonful of grated onion.

In place of combining orange with grapefruit, a solid tomato or avocado pear cut into segments will be found a satisfactory blend with the same dressing. This yields four generous servings.

STUDENTS EAT ON 50% SAVING AT WISCONSIN

Food costs for students at the University of Wisconsin have been reduced by half in the last decade and are now on a par with the weekly boarding rates of the 1890's.

For 53 cents a day, or $3.70 a week, hundreds of students are receiving three meals a day in the Memorial Union cafeteria, while in 1892, two generations ago, when Charles Kendall Adams became president of the university, the average charge for board was $4.00. One has to go back 50 years in the university announcements to 1883 to find a cheaper rate, $3.50 per week, than students are now receiving, the article reveals.

In 1916, when fraternities and commercial restaurants had largely supplanted the old boarding houses, weekly rates were running $5.50 and up, and at the peak in 1925 to 1929, $9.00 a week was a common charge.

Each successive class of freshmen after 1929 has found that it cost them substantially less to eat than their predecessors. The rapidity with which prices have dropped is shown by the fact that in 1931-'32, students received 482,487 meals in the Union cafeteria at an average cost of 29 cents. This year the average cost is running 24 cents.

Here's WHY, Miss Bennett! SCIENTISTS now Explain...

"Nature puts certain precious elements into every type of skin to keep it smooth and young. But these elements are gradually lost with the years; then skin grows dull, rough, old-looking.

"This beauty soap," scientists go on to say, "actually contains precious elements skin itself has and must have, to stay youthful. It checks the loss of these precious elements."

JOAN BENNETT
Lovely Fox star. Scientists now tell her why this soap is such a wonderful aid in keeping her skin young-looking.

MARIAN NIXON

This soap contains precious elements Nature puts in skin itself

THINK OF IT! Scientists find this beauty soap actually contains precious elements skin itself has—and must have to stay youthful!

Here's news of vital importance to every woman who ever has said to herself: "I wish I could keep my skin radiant, smooth, YOUNG-LOOKING."

The Secret of Youthful Skin

Nature, you know, puts certain precious elements in every type of skin. These elements are present in abundance in youthful skin, keeping it radiantly smooth and young-looking. But as the years go by, these elements are gradually lost, making skin rough... dry... old-looking.

But here is good news: Scientists now say, you can check the loss of these precious elements!

Scientists attest the fact that Lux Toilet Soap, with its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility, and its content of precious elements, is an unquestionable aid in keeping skin smooth... young-looking.

No wonder screen stars, whose complexions must always be at the peak of perfection, are so devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. 686 out of the 694 important Hollywood actresses use it. And it's the official soap in all the big film studios.

A Lovelier YOU

Hollywood has found, through years of experience, that this fragrant, white soap actually keeps skin younger-looking. Millions of men and women everywhere are proving it to their own satisfaction every day.

Why don't you let this scientific care keep your skin exquisitely young-looking? Get two or three cakes of Lux Toilet Soap—start today to use it regularly and watch your skin grow lovelier.

says Miss Barbara Foltz, of Indianapolis, Ind. "It works miracles in keeping the skin youthful-looking and smooth. Naturally, now that I've found out about Lux Toilet Soap, I just wouldn't use any other."

WOMAN WILLS $50,000 PEARLS TO A HOSPITAL

Friend Will Select the Institution.

The will of Mrs. Josie Hamburger, 60 years old, disposing of a $500,000 estate, was admitted to probate yesterday. Mrs. Hamburger, whose first husband was the late Albert Stein, manufacturer of Paris garters, lived at the Belden Stratford hotel. She died April 30.

The will directs that Mrs. Hamburger's pearl necklace should be sold for not less than $50,000, and that the money should be used for a maternity ward in a hospital selected by her friend, Dr. Lester E. Frankenthal, 4825 Woodlawn avenue. If the choice is not made within five years, the fund will go to the Michael Reese hospital. Any amount in excess of $50,000 from the sale is willed to the Jewish charities as a trust fund.

A trust fund of $100,000 is established for her husband, Aladar Hamburger. Another $50,000 is distributed among four nephews and nieces and $3,000 is willed to friends. The income from the balance of the estate is left in trust to Mrs. Hamburger's mother, Mrs. Rosa Liebenstein of the Belden Stratford hotel. On her death, the principal will be divided equally among Mrs. Hamburger's brothers, Sigmund Lawton and Harold Liebenstein, and a sister, Mrs. Florence L. Hickman.

Five other wills filed yesterday were admitted to probate. The wills are those of:

WILLIAM SCHRAEDER, died Jan. 10. Estate, $1,000; 10 shares of stock to brother, Frank Schraeder; residue to sister, Martha Peterman. Frank Schraeder is the executor.

EMILY CAMPBELL, died April 29. Estate, $1,500; one-half to son, Harry Campbell; residue equally to daughters, Lillian Richards and Irene Wang. Harry Campbell is the executor.

FUNERAL TODAY OF DR. EFFINGER AT ANN ARBOR

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 8.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held here at 2 o'clock tomorrow for Dr. John Robert Effinger, dean of the college of literature, science and arts of the University of Michigan since 1915. Dean Effinger, who was 63 years old, died at his home here yesterday evening.

JOHN R. EFFINGER.

He joined the Michigan faculty in 1892 as an instructor in French, was advanced to the rank of professor in 1912, and the same year became acting dean of his college. He was given permanent appointment as dean in 1915.

His wife, who was Miss Margaret Thian of Oak Park, Ill., prior to their marriage in 1903, died last November. Two children, Margaret Knowles Effinger and John Robert Effinger Jr., survive.

EX-JUDGE LEWIS OF SALINE COUNTY DIES IN OAK PARK

Alfred W. Lewis, 76 years old, of Harrisburg, Ill., formerly a Circuit court judge of Saline county, died at the home of his son, A. C. Lewis, 332 South East avenue, Oak Park, last evening. Fatigue resulting from a visit to A Century of Progress on Wednesday and a chronic heart ailment from which he suffered caused his death.

Following a career as state's attorney of Saline county, state representative and county judge, Mr. Lewis was elected to the bench in the First Illinois circuit in 1906. He was reëlected for three succeeding terms, retiring in 1921 because of ill health. He had come to Chicago to visit the Fair.

BODY OF FRENCH BEAUTY STARTS JOURNEY HOME

In the Canadian city the remains will be placed aboard the liner Empress of Britain, which brought the young Parisienne to this country two weeks ago to join the court of honor of fifty-one girls at A Century of Progress.

At the station were the French consul general, M. Rene Weiller, and Mme. Weiller; the vice consul, Jean Strauss; Miss Lillian Anderson, queen of A Century of Progress; the second maid of honor, Miss Ruth Joyce Hardie; an escort of honor from the French organization, Les Diable Bleu; TRIBUNE officials, and a bevy of uniformed guards of the 1933 World's Fair.

IRVING OSBORNE FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for W. Irving Osborne, lawyer, financier and manufacturer, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home at 1326 Ridge avenue, Evanston. Mr. Osborne died early yesterday in the Billings Memorial hospital, where he had been ill since May 18. He was 73 years old.

W. IRVING OSBORNE.

Mr. Osborne, who was president of the Cornell Wood Products company, 230 North Michigan avenue, was born in Windham, N. Y., and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He came to Chicago in 1893 and for a time was associated with the predecessor to the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt.

He became vice president of the Central Trust company on its organization in 1902, and in 1910 became president of the Commercial Trust and Savings bank. He was one of the organizers and first president of the Calumet Insurance company, which operated until the San Francisco fire. He was arbitrator and appraiser on a board of three of the Deering interests prior to the organization of the International Harvester company.

Mr. Osborne was a member of the Chicago club, the Chicago Athletic association, and the Evanston Old Elm and Glen View Country clubs. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

Vassar, but he coudn't spare the time to go so far away from home during this busy summer, when, as president of A Century of Progress, he has so many duties to keep him in Chicago. He will spend this week-end in Marietta with his sister, Mrs. Arthur G. Beach. Next week he will go to Madison to receive the honorary degree of LL. D. at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Dawes will return from Poughkeepsie immediately after commencement on Monday, but Miss Dawes is not returning with her mother. She is remaining in the east to pay a round of visits before joining her parents and her brother, Palmer Dawes, in Chicago for the summer.

Although Miss Janet Leesley is in Hanover, N. H., for the annual commencement festivities at Dartmouth, her mother, Mrs. Robert F. Leesley of Riverside, is this morning announcing her engagement to Gustavus Babson Jr. of Oak Park.

Mr. Babson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Babson, is being graduated from Dartmouth. Miss Leesley left for the east last Saturday in company with Mrs. Babson. After the sheepskins have been awarded the three of them will motor through the Green and White mountains, returning to Chicago late this month.

Miss Leesley was graduated from the Fairmount School for Girls in Washington, D. C. No date has been set for the wedding.

It was on very short notice that Mrs. James F. Oates Jr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cummings sent out invitations to a luncheon for the Mary C. Wheeler school alumnæ, which takes place at 1 o'clock today in Mrs. Oates' home at 881 Church road, Lake Forest. The luncheon, which is being served buffet style, is being given also for Mrs. Wallace Campbell of Providence, R. I., head of the alumnæ in Providence, who is visiting Mrs. Harold C. Smith in Lake Forest while here for the Garden club meeting. Mrs. Campbell, sister-in-law of Miss Eliza Campbell, returns tomorrow to her home at Peace Dale, R. I.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham Gives Dinner Tonight.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is giving a dinner party at the Century club tonight for Mr. and Mrs. Woodward Keeling Greene of New York, who are here visiting Mrs. Upham. They return to New York tomorrow. Mrs. Upham's nephew, Philo Hall Higley, who lives in New York, will stop a day or two in Chicago with her when he passes through on his way to California.

From Nirvana in Lake Forest, the estate of the Henry Stanhope Buntings, comes word that Mr. and Mrs. Bunting have motored down to Memphis this week, where Mr. Bunting is attending his class reunion at Southwestern university. Before coming home they will go on for a few days' visit at Summertrees, the delightful old plantation of Mr. Bunting's former tutor, John B. Ferguson, near Clarksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Clark have moved to Barrington for the summer. Their daughter, Bonnie-Jean, is at home from Dobbs Ferry long enough to get ready to return east to go to camp in Vermont and to visit friends. She is leaving shortly, and when she returns next month she will bring several young friends with her to see A Century of Progress.

Miss Margaret Emily Lynde is going east in time to see her younger brother, Samuel Adams Lynde II., receive his diploma from Lawrenceville school on June 15.

John Spoor Broome Visits His Family.

Young John Spoor Broome is at present visiting his father and his grandmother, Mrs. John A. Spoor, in her North State parkway home. Late this month he and Mrs. Spoor will go east to her cottage on Cape Cod to spend the summer. His mother and sisters, Mrs. Thornhill Broome and little Betty and Caryl, who are still in their Mississippi home, are going directly from there to the Cape, leaving shortly, and will not be in Chicago to see A Century of Progress until next fall.

As soon as Miss Ethel De Forest Johnston finishes the year at Concord academy she and her brother, Hugh, who is a junior at Harvard, are starting off on a grand European trip which will last the whole summer. Miss Mary Mitchell is accompanying them, and they sail next Wednesday. Miss Johnston's older brother, Hulburd, will remain in town for the summer.

As John De Koven Bowen, son of the late John De Koven Bowen and Mrs. Jack Q. H. Smith of New York, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Carr Lewis of Albemarle county, Va., are being married tomorrow in Washington, the young man's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen, will not be present at the ceremony, but she will see them shortly, for she is going east Monday to open her house at Bar Harbor, where she has invited Mr. Bowen and his bride to spend the summer with her.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas are returning from Washington Monday or Tuesday and will be in Lake Forest with Mrs. Douglas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. McGann, for several weeks.

Mme. Chanel Lines an Almond Green Evening Coat with Rose Pink Velvet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The long evening coat is getting a rather raw deal in most of the big dressmaking houses this summer. The majority have gone in heavily for frivolous little wraps and romantic capes and swagger jackets.

However, long evening coats have one or two champions that count in the world of fashion. Mme. Chanel is one, and when she puts the long coat in her collection you can be sure that it isn't going to be fired from fashions at once. Another is Madame Schiaparelli, a woman whose say-so about clothes is accepted these days by the most difficult and distinguished women. So, with this indomitable backing the long velvet evening coat still counts among the well dressed, and those who can afford one are still having it, thank you.

Chanel's long velvet evening cloak deserves the distinguished service medal, because it has her own special informality and unpretentiousness about it. Look at our sketch and see. When it isn't being clutched, as in the picture, this wrap hangs loose from its romantic neckline, and its sleeves can be either rolled up à la shirt sleeves, or worn long and loose, as shown.

The coat is made of almond green velvet and lined throughout with pink velvet, which shows where the high collar flares around the face and when the sleeves are rolled up. The high collar, which is gored, buttons on three small velvet covered buttons above a padded roll, and all the seams of the coat are notched.

Colonial Wars Society Opens Assembly Here

Mayflower Descendants to See World's Fair.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The Florentine room at the Congress hotel was redolent yesterday of Mayflower atmosphere. Boston accents and aristocratic names abounded as the General Society of Colonial Wars met in its thirteenth triennial assembly.

For no one gets into this restricted circle, devoted to the propagation of colonial history, who cannot prove lineal descent from an ancestor who arrived in America between the settlement of Jamestown, in 1607, and the battle of Lexington, in 1775.

Governor General George de Benneville Keim of Edgewater Park, N. J., wielded a gavel made of the wood of the Charter Oak as he called the gathering to attention. Secretary General Thomas Hart of Philadelphia held up a metal copy of the Louisburg cross commemorating the battle of Louisburg, as he introduced the new type of grave markers adopted by the organization. There was discussion about the financial possibility of printing an up-to-date list of members' ancestry. But nobody could do anything about the Chicago temperature.

So in a welter of midwestern heat, with the mercury hovering near the 100 mark, the effete easterners and the occasional Illinoisians sat in their shirt sleeves and approved minutes and adopted resolutions and applauded welcome addresses until 4 p. m. Then a trip by bus through the city was announced, and the 100 streamed out to the waiting cars. Dinner was served at the South Shore Country club.

The object of the organization, to perpetuate that period of American history indicated, between 1607 and 1775, is achieved by lectures, by the purchase of manuscripts and volumes, by marking historic sites, and by ceremonies held on the anniversary of events prominent in that period.

Since the last general assembly, held in 1930, the two major undertakings of the society have been the gift to the government of a copy of the Peale portrait of George Washington, showing him as a colonel of colonial Virginia militia during the French and Indian war, which is to be hung in the restored Arlington mansion, and the placing of a tablet at Fort Anne, Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, commemorating its capture by New England expeditions in 1654 and 1710.

The assembly will last three days, with visits to A Century of Progress included in the program.

Miss Ethel Preston is the new president of the University of Chicago Alumnae club, which is holding its annual reunion breakfast at 11:30 Saturday at Ida Noyes hall. Prof. Bernard Fay, who holds the chair of American civilization at the College de France, and who is visiting professor in the department of history at the University of Chicago this summer, will be the speaker. This is the first time in the history of the organization that a man has been the speaker at one of its meetings. Miss May R. Freedman, 5413 Cornell avenue, is in charge of arrangements.

Nothing Cooler Than a Chiffon Street Outfit

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If anything can start a spurt of enthusiasm during these torrid times, it is the new chiffon street outfits. If anything could be cooler to look at, cooler to buy, and cooler to wear, it hasn't been discovered by weary stragglers that try to be weather conscious when they buy clothes.

For instance, the white chiffon suits will make the most heated shopper look like a tall high glass of something delectably frosty and cool to drink, and with jade accessories, such as a bag, costume jewelry, and even green shoes, any one can be as refreshing as a whiff of spicy clean cologne or geranium toilet water.

Most of the chiffon suits are made with a simple short or sleeveless dress with a long jacket. Some of the black and blue models just unpacked are featuring puffed sleeves lined with a crisp white material that keeps them inflated and looking even cooler than they are. Airy wisps of white organdy, bows, outlines as to cuff, neckline, and sometimes belt, flutter effectively with navy, brown and black.

Some fragilly feminine gray creations show plenty of circular ruffles around the shoulder seams, frilly jabots cascading down the center of the chest, and generally achieve that delightful romantic atmosphere that has been rather missing for years.

If you want a color change, try the raspberry red chiffons, accented with white—and for the girl who likes a sleeveless street dress, there are some knockout tailored black and navy chiffon frocks made with wide lapels of white organdy, a belt, and a double row of decorative buttons. These filmy new "sheers," made either with frills and ruffles or tailored with cuffs and tucks, are the immediate answer for the daily struggle to keep cool, snappy, as well as fashionably comfortable.

Bishop and Mrs. Waldorf to Be Deaconesses' Guests

Shopping Notes of Celanese

Look in the stores for tennis, golf and spectator sport frocks in the new textures and clear colors that only Celanese Fabrics possess. Insist on Celanese, because Celanese is pure dye, without loading, dry cleans perfectly, and does not stretch. Smart women all say:

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition with Kellogg's All-Bran

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious disease.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines — so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. It not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together. Jane admits to Dinah that she knew Philip Divine before and that she also shot him. Dinah has a caller. He introduces himself as Pierre Baron. He is the tall, dark man with the mustache. Baron tells Dinah that Divine was secretly married to Jane. Dinah resents his hatred of Jane and doesn't trust Baron. She tells him it was she who shot Divine. Jane confesses to Fiske that she shot Divine and that she'd brought Dinah to his home. Jane's efforts to shield Dinah win Jack's admiration. Jane leaves not telling Dinah or Jack where she is going. Baron's sister, Jerry, a dancer, calls in search of Jane. She claims to have been married to Divine. She expects to frighten Jane into supporting her claim. Divine's widow will collect an inheritance. She moves in with Dinah. Jerry and her dancing partner, José Chavel, conduct a little blackmailing plot against Dinah and Fiske. Jerry and José cause so much trouble that Jack and Dinah are put out of their boarding house. Dinah meets Baron who takes her to his apartment where Jane is.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

THE QUESTION OF THE TWO GUNS.

"Darling, sit down, and we'll talk this over. You see——" Jane stopped abruptly, and Dinah saw her looking at Fiske, who stood in the doorway.

"I hope you've been taking care of Dinah," she said, with a smile.

"He has!" said Dinah, vehemently. "I couldn't ever tell you how wonderful he's been!"

Fiske's haggard young face flushed and he tried to smile, but it was a poor attempt.

"I'm afraid," Jane went on, "that I didn't do much good by my disappearing act . . . But I had such good intentions . . ."

"Anyhow, now you're back!" said Dinah, holding her friend's hand. "I don't care what happens as long as we can face it together."

"And what's more, that automatic of yours wasn't, I know . . . I went into your room when you were out and had a look!"

Jane pushed her into a big chair and, sitting down on the arm, brought out her cigaret case. Fiske sprang forward to give her a light and Dinah saw their eyes meet in a strange glance, Jane's half smiling and very gentle, his level and stern.

Baron seated himself on a sofa facing the two girls, Fiske remained standing.

"When I read in the newspapers that our marriage wasn't a secret any more," Jane began, "I knew the rest of it was sure to be found out. And it's really better for me to go to the police than to wait until they find me."

"I don't think that the consequence of your — bravery will be very serious for you," said Baron.

And from that moment it was as if he and Jane were alone in the room, two adversaries, two duelists, both cool and smiling, both filled with a mortal antagonism.

"I'll do the best I can for myself," said Jane. "And I dare say I'll manage well enough. I've learnt how to look after myself fairly well. I needed to learn that."

"It's—an instinct—with some people," said Baron. "I could give you some advice, Jane—but probably you don't need it."

"I'd like to hear your advice, Pierre."

"Well," he said, "the best line for you to take, of course, is to—give your own version of Divine's character. That ought to be effective. You could paint a nice little picture of him, with all his faults. He drank. There were other women. He had a hot temper. He was extravagant, reckless——"

"But you'll intervene, won't you? You can come forward, you know, and point out what an evil influence I was. You can testify that I was responsible for everything that ever happened.

"No," said Baron. "I'll hold my tongue."

"That's very generous. . . . But when you're called as a witness, Pierre . . .? When you're on oath . . .? You'll have to say that you saw me come out of that house. You'll have to say that you knew of our marriage. And you'll have to admit you knew about the letter—that never got posted."

"Even at that," said Baron. "I'm only a man. And you're a woman, and a young and pretty one. You get the sympathy of the public from the very beginning. A young girl, alone in the world, a girl who'd had everything and suddenly had nothing. You meet Divine, the handsome villain with plenty of money. You agree to a secret marriage, and you try to reform him. But it's useless. He's too bad. Then you go to his house . . . But how's that to be? What's going to be your ethical reason for that?"

"I wanted to see him—once more," said Jane. "You see, I'd filed a petition for a divorce."

"That's a damned good point," said Baron. "I didn't know that."

"Philip did, though. And I wanted—I wanted to talk to him—once more. I hoped that perhaps we needn't part—with so much bitterness . . ."

"I suppose . . ." Baron went on, "that Divine insisted upon—remaining 'bitter' . . . Wouldn't listen to your—friendly reasons for deserting him . . . I suppose he was so unreasonable that you—had to kill him?"

"That's how it was," said Jane, almost flippantly.

"But about the letter?"

"The letter was lying on the hall table. I just picked it up."

"O, you'll have to make it better than that!" said Baron, reproachfully. "I'm afraid there are—discrepancies, here and there, Jane. But, nevertheless, I think you'll get away with it. You'll be acquitted——"

"No," said Fiske suddenly. "She won't."

"Jack!" cried Dinah, in horror.

"If you'll let me use your telephone for a moment?" he said to Baron.

"In there," said Baron.

"What are you going to do?" she cried. "Who are you going to telephone to? You can't know anything I don't know! I was there! I shot him——"

Jane had risen, and now unclasped Dinah's desperate, clutching fingers. "You didn't shoot him, Dinah," she said. "There were only blank cartridges in that little automatic. Dinah . . . Don't be so frantic, darling. I'll come through this all right."

Fiske had disappeared into the next room, closing the door after him, and once more Baron and Jane faced each other.

"You knew she couldn't have been the one," Baron said to Jane. "Yet you let her think . . . you let her endure all this . . ."

"Well, I'm here now," said she, "to set it right."

"There's one thing you'll never set right," he said. "You've lost something you're never likely to get again. You had a devotion and friendship from this poor little kid that doesn't come twice in a lifetime."

"You've still got it, Jane!" cried Dinah. "I don't care what you've done . . . I'm just—sorry, Jane . . . just terribly sorry. . . ."

Jane put her arm about the other girl's shoulders, but her eyes were on Baron's face.

"I never heard you speak so much like a human being before," she said. "If you're really able to appreciate Dinah, you're not such a martinet as I thought you were."

"I haven't——" he began, when Fiske reëntered.

"All right!" he said. "Now we'll have this out. I've listened—and now I'm going to do some of the talking."

"You're—a traitor!" said Dinah. "After the way you talked to me. . . . You dare to say Jane won't be acquitted——"

"She'll never stand trial," said Fiske, and turned to Baron. "If you weren't so blinded by your damned, cowardly hatred for——"

"Don't, Jack!" said Jane.

"Go on!" said Baron. "I feel I can bear it. Why d'you think she won't be tried?"

"You've made her suffer enough," said Fiske. "Now it's your turn. Now you're going to listen to what you—won't like to hear."

"Go on!" said Baron, again.

"In the first place," said Fiske, "you don't suppose that Jane went around with two guns, do you? Dinah had one that belonged to Jane. Where did the other one come from, the one that killed Divine?"

"It was Philip's," Jane interposed quickly. "I told you. . . . We had—a struggle—and I got it away from him."

"Then what did you do with it?" asked Fiske.

"I hid it," said Jane, "in—my bag."

"You didn't," said Fiske, flatly. "And, what's more, that automatic of yours wasn't loaded with blanks. I know, because I saw it. I went in your room when you were out and had a look."

GASOLINE ALLEY—FARM HAND HIRED

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—[Special.]—Cecil De Mille has an extraordinarily pretentious set built on stage 8 at Paramount. It's a whole brickyard, built under roof. Watching them shoot scenes of "This Day and Age" in the brickyard today, it was amazing to see more than 200 boys—some of them from local colleges, but most of them Los Angeles high school boys—working as extras.

They were making a scene where the high school youngsters of a town join the warfare against racketeers and hold kangaroo court with a gangster who had been seen murdering a man, but who has secured sufficient perjured testimony to get off in court. Under the pressure of the high school boys the gangster confesses. It is a dramatic scene.

Th gangster is Charlie Bickford, and some of the high school kids were enacted by Wallace Reid Jr., Frank Tinney Jr., Bryant Washburn Jr., Carlyle Blackwell Jr., Erich von Stroheim Jr., and Neal Hart Jr. Quinten Regar, editor of the student daily at the University of Southern California, also bobbed up on the De Mille set as an actor, earning his $15 a day.

Most of the boy extras got only $5 a day, for they had nothing to do except act as atmosphere.

There were so many boys leaking out of the De Mille set that, instead of posting the customary sign reading: "No one allowed on this set," De Mille had a sign placed reading: "No boys allowed off this set." And recruited a force of policemen to round the strays off the other sets where De Mille's boys were getting in Gary Cooper's hair; directing remarks at George Raft, and bothering Wynne Gibson by their intent stares.

Jack Oakie has bestowed a couple more nicknames that stuck. He calls Bing Crosby "Spooks"—"because he haunts radios." Gary Cooper he calls "Cowhand."

Julianne Johnstone, former leading woman for Douglas Fairbanks, Harold Lloyd, and others, who has become the most popular night club dancer in Hollywood, got her most recent film engagement not as an actress but to do a dance. It's in scenes for Wynne Gibson and George Raft's "Midnight Club" at Paramount.

The cast which Radio is assembling for "The Doctor" includes Lionel Barrymore as the knowing old physician, Joel McCrea as the impatient, ambitious young doctor; Buster Phelps, who plays McCrea at the age of 4; May Robson, Frances Dee, David Landau, and Ellen Lowe, just acquired from the Broadway stage. Baby May Dormer, 10 days old, is playing in this film, and is the youngest movie actress so far as I know ever to be signed. The law permits a baby so young to face the camera only 20 seconds at a time, only 20 minutes out of two hours, and only two hours in a day.

The first film which Joe Schenck and Darryl Zanuck's new corporation, Twentieth Century Pictures, Inc., will make, will be called "The Bowery," starring Wallace Beery and George Raft.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday, talking to you young women in the early teens, I advised a cleansing cream as your only cosmetic need except for a bit of powder. I concede the latter only because I know that's no use trying to keep you away from mother's or sister's powder box. I wish, however, you would not feel you had to use powder. I love that fresh, moist [may be shiny to you] look of the skin.

And what your mothers and your older sisters wouldn't give for it! If you use powder I do wish you would get the habit of putting on the tiniest film of cream first. This is so that the powder comes off without leaving a speck to clog the pores.

But if your skin is quite oily, please don't use a cleansing cream. Just soap and water, a complexion brush, and cold water rinses. You can wash your face a half dozen times a day if you'll only use cold water each time. An this treatment will help wonderfully to correct the oiliness. You see, if your skin is oily you are a potential blackhead and enlarged pore sufferer. And there's nothing better known to regulate the oil glands than the simple cure I'm giving you—cold water.

I wish you girls would all get the cold shower habit. When you're twice as old as you are now you'll have lovely skin as a consequence.

Don't bother about eye makeup for a couple of years yet. It looks horrid on a young girl, anyway. Besides your eye beauty is far more appealing if you provide it with the brilliance that comes from a good diet, proper elimination [terribly important to eye beauty], exercising, and sleep.

Now, I'm going to harp again on posture. Here's where most of you young girls fall down. And, as I said the other day, your movie favorite [girl] should be a lesson to you in what a beautiful carriage means.

Give yourself a severe once over today before a full length mirror. Turn sidewise and look at the back line. Is your spine straight or not? Now, watch the way you step off with your feet. Is it straight ahead or do you turn the feet out awkwardly? You want to get an air, a style that'll make the boys sit up and take notice? All right! Then, get some one to tell you what's wrong with your silhouette—and correct it!

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—Lady Thornton and Mrs. Charles Delavan Wetmore were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte for luncheon yesterday in the Japanese garden of the Ritz-Carlton. Mrs. John W. Mackay gave a luncheon for Mrs. Clifford V. Brokaw Jr. Maj. and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer had as their guest Mrs. Skirvin Adams. Mrs. Walton Livingston Oakley was with Mrs. Stephen Bonsol Jr.

According to the announcements of the opening of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field's gardens at Huntington on Friday afternoon, June 16, the admission paid by each visitor is to provide a day in the country for some child of the lower west side. The entire proceeds will be devoted to the fresh air work of Greenwich house, of which Mr. Field is treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. P. Thatcher are occupying their country place at Glen Head for the season.

Nine Chicago Players Win Solo Honors.

Twenty-eight high school bands paraded before the judges yesterday to open the competition in Class B of the seventh national high school band contest in Evanston. They were the first of the 5,000 boys and girls, members of 75 bands, to participate in the three day tournament on the Northwestern university campus.

Nine Chicago youths and one from Cicero were among those who won mention yesterday in the national solo contests.

Rated in the first division of drummer were Stewart Brown of Austin and Benedict Chepaitis of Harrison High. In the second division of the marimba-xylophone contest were Elwood Leverenz and Edward Nachel, both of Calumet High. In the first division of the base clarinetists was Jack Frost of Senn and in the third division of alto clarinetists was Daniel Hora of Harrison.

Among the bassoon players, Elmer Ziemann of Harrison was placed in the second division and Carl Gottfried of Marshall in the third. A first division rating in the E flat clarinet was won by Joseph Kosek of Cicero and third division rating by Brandon Hauck of Lake View High.

The large number of girls in the different bands drew the major portion of attention from spectators as the band members, attired in uniforms of varied colors, crowded the streets of Evanston. The 64 piece band from Dover, O., boasted a girl bass horn player, and girls were found bearing trombones, trumpets, flutes, and drums in other organizations.

The Sand Springs, Okla., band appeared a bit wilted after 36 hours on a bus that traveled across the prairie states in the 100 degree heat. The bands arrived by train and by bus, and some of the soloists, who are competing in the individual contests, hitch-hiked from their homes.

The Class B bands, drawn from schools with more than 250 students and fewer than 750, played throughout the day. This contest will be followed today by the bands in Class A, schools of more than 750, and the Class C bands, from schools of fewer than 250 students, will be held tomorrow morning. The contest will draw to a close with a parade to Dyche stadium tomorrow afternoon and a massed concert of all the bands.

Four of Chicago's championship bands will compete today in the Class A section. Senn, Austin, Harrison Technical and Lane Technical bands will seek to displace the present title holder, the Joliet High school band.

Other schools in today's contest are: Urbana, Quincy, Morton of Cicero, and East High of Aurora, Ill.; Manitowoc, Appleton and Oshkosh, Wis.; Cleveland Heights and Portsmouth, O.; Mason City, Dubuque, and Des Moines, Ia.; Parkersburg and Oak Park of Wheeling, W. Va.; Hammond, Marion, and Hammond Tech of Indiana; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Price, Utah.; Berwick, Pa.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; New Orleans, La., and Sioux Falls, S. D.

Famous bandmasters are sitting as judges of the various classes. The judges of playing are Arthur Pryor, conductor of Pryor's band, New York; Lieut. C. J. Benter, director of the United States navy band, Washington, D. C.; Capt. Charles O'Neill, director Royal 22d regiment band of Quebec. The judges of sight reading are James R. Gillette, director of the Carleton Symphony band, Northfield, Minn., and Harold Bachman, head of the Educational Music bureau, Chicago.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT? BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

DEATH IN THE FLOUR MILL.

The gleam from the flashlight rested first on the highly polished patent leather oxfords then slowly moved upward over the immaculate and expensively groomed body of Thurston Gable, owner of the Gable flour mills. Prof. Fordney's search was ended—it was 2 a. m.

Moving the circle of light over the sacks stacked in the storeroom, he again brought it to rest on the body hanging from a rafter in the center of the room. The floor was covered with white dust and an overturned sack of flour near the dangling feet of the corpse bore two deep foot impressions.

In all probability Gable had an engagement that evening, otherwise—why the dress clothes? Now if he could only find out where—— His thoughts were interrupted by the voice of Charles Sheridan, vice president of the mills, "My, God, he's committed suicide! I can't believe it. We were both in the office an hour ago!"

"Did he say where he'd been?" inquired Fordney.

"Why, we attended the theater and dropped in here on the way home to discuss this deal." He handed the professor a telegram received at 7:40 p. m. "I left him shortly afterward."

"Was any one else here?"

"Yes—when we arrived—but Gable sent the watchman to his home for some important papers. He wouldn't have had time to return.

"Well, Sheridan, in that event I'll have to hold you for murder."

WHY?

Child's Rapid Growth Affects School Work

Has Little Strength Left for His Studies.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Some evenings ago I had an interesting talk with a teacher. She has for years taught boys and girls in their teens. She likes them and seems to understand them. Some of her conversation will interest you, I think, whether your babies are adolescents, or your adolescents are babies. They are or will be one or the other—if you can understand that complicated remark. Well, to go on:

"One mother has been dreadfully worried all winter because her boy who is in second year high school, is not working well. She frets and frets about it and thinks he is going to go all through High school like that—in fact through life like that," said this teacher.

"I've tried to tell her the boy is so over-big and strong for his age and growing so fast that he hasn't enough energy left over from his rapid growth to do vigorous mental work, and to concentrate. He'll be all right later on.

"He's as different as can be from Jim, for instance, who is in first year high school. He comes, to be sure, of a race that is avid for intellectual achievement. But aside from that he is mature, works uniformly and well. Jim is almost small for his age, probably will be a small man, and is growing at a slow pace.

"These adolescents grow at such different rates—a fact which is marked in a class of twenty-five children. In my first year high school class I have children who weigh from 165 down to some who weigh 90."

She stopped a minute and we got talking about ways of handling these boys and girls in their teens.

"I have one boy who likes to draw and dream in his study periods. I tried to get him down to work yesterday and he said, 'I don't feel like it—I don't want to.' A teacher might some year ago have called it rudeness or impudence. But he doesn't mean it that way, so I don't take it that way. So I just try to convince him that he wants to clean up on his year's work and have less to do at home and that the way to do it is to use his study periods to advantage. And we keep on good terms.

"These first two years of high school are hard physically and in other ways on the boys and girls. We have to just 'see them through' for a time. Then they steady and are all right."

Ideas like this from a teacher not only show a sympathetic viewpoint, but are helpful to parents.

FEDERAL CHAIN.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Federal Chain" has an interesting background. It was designed during the civil war by a little old southern lady, who from her wheel chair watched the marching federal troops go by day after day. The plain white block represents the cotton plantation surrounded by the marching troops. This same pattern is sometimes called "Love Chain."

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shukas of West Lake street announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Rita, to Charles Moschos of Chicago, on Sunday at 7 p. m. at St. James church, 2727 Winona avenue, the Greek Bishop Kallestos of San Francisco, Cal., officiating. Mr. Moschos and his bride will spend their honeymoon at the Charles H. Lenske estate at Lauderdale Lakes, Wis.

Joseph W. Serhant Jr., 6826 Riverside avenue, Berwyn, obtained a license yesterday to marry Miss Vera E. Kolar, daughter of Gustav S. Kolar, 6817 West 34th street. Mr. Serhant's father, Joseph W. Serhant Sr., is a prominent real estate dealer, with whom the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak was in partnership. Mr. Serhant Jr. is a law student graduated from the University of Illinois. The wedding is planned for June 24 at the Methodist Episcopal church, Oak Park, with a reception following at the Butterfield Country club.

Engaged Pair Often Battle Both Families

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Winning over the families—

How to do it troubles many a young, engaged pair! Funny how the announcement of intent to wed sets up armed camps, inhabited by kin, forgetful of the problem as it confronted them years back!

"Gene" tells of the former friendliness of her sweetheart's mother until the engagement was announced. And "Gene's" own mother takes up the girl's cause, discontinuing a former pleasant friendship with the young man's mother.

That's one phase of the problem met with here. Often the mother on one side and the mother on the other are unknown to each other, but there starts the age-old antagonism between the two camps. On the other hand, the announcement of a troth frequently is the happy culmination of the two-family hopes.

It would seem in this day and age with the social bars down so that the dancing girl and the duke's son may marry without any social complexities that our modern mothers would have a broader view of their son's intended wives and their daughter's intended husbands. The breaches to which we refer usually develop over the idea that the young man is not good enough or the girl is not good enough.

If the young people think they are good enough for each other that's really all that is going to matter, in the long run. Unless, of course, there are discrepancies other than social to which parents have a right to object. But with this we're not concerned today. It is the silly prejudice sometimes based on nothing at all that makes the way of the young couple just a little harder.

The young pair can't isolate themselves from their kin. Nor is it desirable that they should. The last people in the world who would want to see the young couple act independently of them are those very parents who make it difficult for them. So long as they're going to marry, isn't it better to give the pair a great big welcoming hand and forget the petty prejudices?

Legislative Committee to Hold Hearings.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Governmental agencies are at work this week in an effort to solve the problems in connection with the move to outlaw the sale of unpasteurized milk and cream, which is being shipped largely from Wisconsin and sold in increasing amounts in the Chicago metropolitan area at wayside stands or cream depots.

Nearly one hundred of these small stations, selling milk, cream, and other farm products without regulation from city or state health agencies, are scattered along the fringe of Chicago from Wilmette to Gary. Illinois farmers charge that the Wisconsin dairymen are undermining the local market by supplying the products at prices which undersell even the so-called "cut rate" Chicago milk companies.

Legislators to Investigate.

Two hearings will be held by committees appointed by the Illinois legislature to delve into the problem and seek remedies. A subcommittee headed by State Representative M. F. Hennebry [Rep., Wilmington] will conduct hearings in the county building tomorrow in an effort to determine why Chicago dairy companies pay farmers so small a percentage of the prices that they charge consumers for cream.

Another legislative committee is to hold a hearing in Springfield next Tuesday on house bill 403, which would require that all milk and cream sold within five miles of the boundary of an incorporated city in Illinois must meet health requirements of that city. A similar measure has already been adopted by the state senate.

Village Boards Take Action.

Several village boards and city councils in suburbs of Chicago have already acted to safeguard their milk supplies. Ordinances requiring that milk and cream be pasteurized and sold in sealed containers filled at the pasteurizing plants have been enacted in Tessville, Elmwood Park, Riverside, Argo, and Lyons. Similar measures are being considered in Oak Park, River Grove, Calumet, Blue Island, and Evergreen Park.

Bulk milk stands in No Man's Land, between Wilmette and Kenilworth, as well as on farms and other places outside town limits are included in an area which the federal department of agriculture has been asked to regulate. The area, extending from Waukegan on the north to Beecher, in Will county, on the south, and west to a point five miles east of Elgin, embraces about 40 towns. This area, designated as the Chicago metropolitan region in a trade agreement between most of the Chicago milk companies and the Pure Milk association, would be obliged to meet Chicago board of health requirements in milk and cream sales, if the new federal farm adjustment act becomes operative in Chicago's milk marketing.

Cut Price Sellers to Fight.

The operators of 62 of the bulk milk and cream stands in this territory have joined to fight for the right to sell their products at low prices and without governmental regulation. Richard F. Ott, 4034 North Lavergne avenue, Chicago, is leading this fight. He operates a bulk station in Broadview, where he was found yesterday, doing a thriving business, as were several other stand owners.

Ott said he had peddled milk in Chicago since a boy, and that he and his associates were "quite familiar with the tactics of the organized milk trust in Chicago." He said the stand operators were represented at the milk hearings in Washington early this week and would be at Springfield next Tuesday.

It is the contention of Ott and similar milk dispensers that milk and cream prices in Chicago are exorbitant.

Valdemar Gormsen, 21 years old, and Robert Myers, 23 years old, of Ostego, Mich., were arrested yesterday by William J. Gerrin, health department inspector, when he found them peddling milk in the Fillmore street police district which they had brought to Chicago in a truck. They were charged with bringing milk into Chicago without having it inspected and with selling milk from a truck which did not bear the name and address of the dealer.

SORORITY FIRST CONTRIBUTOR TO FREE ICE FUND

To the Zeta Sigma Psi sorority goes the honor of being the first contributor this year to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund.

Right on the heels of the announcement on Wednesday that the fund must be opened ahead of schedule this year due to the early heat wave, came the sorority's check for $50. This will prove a tidy little sum to start the fund on its long journey through the summer in behalf of tiny babies whose lives in many cases will depend upon the fund's free ice to keep their milk sweet.

Two Other Groups Help.

Two other organizations also were donors. A gift of $3 came from the Junior Goodfellow club, whose members are Elaine Ullman, Jerry Lou Cohn, Muriel Cohen, Mildred Epstein, Claire Friedman, Leona Marcus, Phyllis Perlstein, and Helen Inlander. Another $3 check came from Beta of Gamma Alpha Lambda, giving the fund a grand total of $56.

Each summer the ice wagons call at the doors of families to whom the fund's ice tickets have been distributed by the United Charities, official administrator of the fund. Always there is more real need for ice than money to buy it.

Opportunity for Readers.

If TRIBUNE readers are unusually generous this year, they will receive the heartfelt thanks of hundreds of families who otherwise would be without ice during the whole summer.

Gifts should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Acknowledgement of contributors' gifts will be made in this newspaper.

MEDINAH PRO BREAKS PAR BY FOUR STROKES

Six Tie at 73 for Second Place.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Thomas Donaldson Armour, professional at Medinah Country club, yesterday whipped the slender fairways and fickle greens of the North Shore Golf club with a record score of 68 to take the lead at the end of the first 18 holes of the 37th annual United States open tournament.

Armour's journey over North Shore's 6,927 yards of real estate not only lowered the course record but also set up a couple of new figures for the books. His card, four strokes under par 72, lowered the record of 69 made by Abe Espinosa in the western open of 1928. It was also the greatest lead ever held by a competitor in the open at the end of the first round. Armour is now five strokes ahead of the nearest contenders, a sextet of 73 scorers headed by Walter Hagen and Craig Wood. Incidentally, it was the first time Armour himself had broken 70 in the open tournament.

Practice Makes Him Perfect.

That 68 proves that it pays to work on your day off, for Armour, free on Mondays, has been taking busman's holidays each week to study and test the North Shore course. His card was all the more remarkable for two reasons—the fact that the stars of the game have practiced more diligently than ever for this particular tournament and the fact that Tommy encountered the wind at its strongest yesterday. A breeze which started out as a fairly amiable southwest cross wind, shifted hither and yon toward the end of the day.

Whether Armour will continue to outfoot the field of 147 of the ablest professionals and amateurs of this republic in today's second round of eighteen holes remains to be seen, but at his present gait it's quite possible. The low 60 scorers and ties tonight will enter tomorrow's final round of 36 holes.

Six Tie at 73.

Running back of Armour at the end of the first lap of golf's greatest race were four professionals and two amateurs. The pros included Walter Hagen, champion in 1914 and 1919; Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., who led the money winners in the recent winter campaign; Henry Ciuci, the little man with the big hands from Fresh Meadow, N. Y., and Johnny Revolta, the curly headed Menominee, Mich., prodigy. Maurice McCarthy, former intercollegiate and metropolitan title holder from New York, and Neil White, 21 year old California state champion, were the amateurs.

Heading the players in third place was Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, who was out in 38, but matched par coming home for a 74. Other 74 shooters included Carl Gustafson, 22 year old assistant to George Knox at Calumet, who turned in a great round of 35 on the first nine, but had hard luck with his putts going home; Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., former professional champion; Joe Kirkwood, trick shot expert; Ky Laffoon, the Denver pro, who has been hailed as a dark horse; C. H. Mayo of Long Beach, N. Y.; Al Watrous, Detroit veteran, and L. J. Willcox, Norfolk, Neb.

A battery of 75's included a number of players whom Armour will have reason to fear if they approach par any more closely. The group is composed of the two Dutra brothers, Olin and Mortie; Bobby Cruickshank, long time pal of Armour; Johnny Goodman, national amateur runner-up; Horton Smith, Chicago's representative on the 1933 Ryder cup team; Johnny Fischer, Big Ten and national intercollegiate champion; Don Armstrong, Aurora amateur star; Johnny Farrell, 1928 open champion, and Paul Runyan.

There are also those who will be forced to hustle today and tomorrow to stay in the picture. Among them are Denny Shute, 76; Abe Espinosa, 76; Phil Perkins, 76; Lester Bolstad, 76; Gus Moreland, 76; MacDonald Smith, 77; Leo Diegel, 78; Harry Cooper, 78; George Dawson, 78; John Golden, 79; Bill Burke, 79; Harry Hampton, 79; Joe Turnesa, 79; Whiffy Cox, 79, and George Von Elm and Al Espinosa with 80's.

Sinks 35 Yard Approach.

Armour was over par on only one hole—the 167 yard third, and got birdies on the second, 489 yards long; the fourth, 447 yards; the fifth, 353 yards; the 12th and longest on the course, 552 yards, and the 17th, one of the most difficult on the lot, 423 yards.

Armour, in writing a series of articles for THE TRIBUNE last month, had occasion to recall a number of great shots made by others, but none of them could outdo his approach to the 17th, one which momentarily stunned the gallery. He had a fine drive, and his second was short of the edge of the green by more than 25 yard. Tommy called for his mashie niblick, and the ball bounded

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I went out to the national open golf tourney at North Shore as you said I should do and everything was very convenient. There was a big press tent with lots of typewriters, and telegraph operators, ice water, and a big board on which scores were put down after being received by telephone from out on the course.

WALTER HAGEN.

O yes, there were lots of reporter experts, too, from all over the country in this tent. In fact, some of them were so expert they just stayed in the tent all afternoon and could describe all the good shots in detail just by looking at the scoreboard.

But, of course, you know I always work hard when you ask me to do anything and am very conscientious, so I didn't stay in the tent. I went over to that 13th hole of 185 yards that I told you about making in two, one time by mistake. It's a real long walk over there from the press tent, too, and I felt unusually conscientious.

After all, Arch, I was keenly disappointed. You see I figured there wouldn't be many pros who'd make a two, so about every gallery that came along I'd talk to some chap as one does in golf galleries and say loud enough so that quite a few could hear, "Why, I made this hole in two once."

But it didn't work out exactly that way, Arch. The first pair that came up after I arrived was Bill Swartz of St. Louis and Frank Gelhot of Cincinnati, and Swartz shot as pretty a two as I did several years ago and he didn't seem to be excited about it and I never even heard of him before. Then Tom Greavy of Albany had a deuce and Charlie McAndrew of Quincy, Mass., had another. I had some satisfaction because Gene Sarazen took three, but Johnny Goodman of Omaha soon after registered another two, so I decided that was no place for me and I went back to the grandstand.

Still the urge was with me, Arch, to do some experting. You see when I used to play North Shore regularly I once shot the course in 111 with twelve four-putt greens and five out of bounds, so if I'd only taken two putts to a green and hadn't been out of bounds it would have been pretty good.

So I thought up a great idea. I tried it first on Walter Hagen who had just come in with a 73, which at the time was tied for low score of the day. The Haig didn't look a bit warm. He had on white shoes, neatly creased full length white trousers, white silk shirt, and vivid yellow neck scarf. So I stepped up to him and said quite businesslike "What's the matter with your game, Walter, taking a 73?"

I really don't know him well enough to call him Walter and he looked kind of surprised at my question, but he must have thought I was a pretty big expert he just hadn't happened to meet, for he said:

"Well, these fairways are narrow for a course with prevailing winds as they tell me this one has. Abroad where there are prevailing winds the traps are set farther from the greens, so sometimes you float over them if the wind carries your ball. Here you're in traps. I was pretty good off the tees and got out of my trouble well on the average. Of course I had several bits of tough luck. Every golfer does, but I was satisfied."

"Thank you," we said, "I hope you do better tomorrow."

Now, possibly, that wasn't the right thing to say, Arch, for the Haig looked at me sort of surprised like and then I remembered he said he was satisfied, but I meant all right at that.

Just then Johnny Fischer, Big Ten and national collegiate champion, finished his first nine in 37, paired with Leo Diegel who had 42. I've met Fischer over at Ann Arbor where he's in the same fraternity with Bud Haskins who was down in Florida when I was, so I watched Johnny drive from the tenth tee.

I was still experting and wanted to be helpful so I said "I think, Johnny, you're going back too fast on your backswing." You see his ball had gone next the edge of the rough.

Well, anyway, I don't think my sug-

TIGERS DEFEAT SOX, 3-2, IN 11TH; ERROR DOES IT

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox can't get away from that Detroit Tiger jinx. They tried to throttle it again yesterday and were successful until two were out in the ninth. Then the jinx popped up in the shape of Jonathan Stone's homer, which tied the count, whereupon the Tigers went on their merry way to a 3 to 2 eleven inning triumph that put an end to the handsome six game winning streak built up by the south siders. Along with the winning streak went the Chicagoans' possession of second place.

If Stone hadn't broken loose with his lengthy drive in the ninth, the day would have been another success for old Sam Jones, who was just beginning to believe himself a Tiger specialist. He had whipped them twice since the race opened and missed a third victory just as he did yesterday—two out in the ninth.

Yesterday he yielded only four hits in eight innings but the Tigers made amends by bunching three in the ninth. The threat was checked by a fast double play, engineered by Red Kress, but then the Stone homer came along.

One Sox Run Is Earned.

Although the Sox weren't particularly active in the collection of runs, three pitchers were required to keep them in a suppressed state. The first of the trio was tiny Art [Sandy] Herring, who a week ago developed unexpected skill against them. That's why he was back yesterday and he proved at least good enough to stop the Hose on one earned run.

The need of pinch hitters toward the finish made necessary his removal, the remaining bits of effective pitching being furnished by two lefties—Carl Fischer and Elam Hogsett. The pair allowed only three hits in the last five innings.

Besides doing his bit defensively, Hogsett contributed to the incident that promoted the winning run and a victory for his personal record. He led off in the eleventh with a bunt and neither Jones nor Dykes was prepared. The ball rolled to short for a hit. White followed with a single that shoved Hogsett to third.

He darted home on Owen's grounder to Appling and the latter threw perfectly to the plate but Frank Grube dropped the ball when the big pitcher charged into him. Then Jack Hayes made a lucky one handed stab of a drive for a double play and that's all that prevented more scoring.

First Pitch Produces Triple.

From the way Jones' first pitch of the game was handled it looked as if he might be in for a bad start, which with him is not an uncommon occurrence. White took hold of it and it sailed over the head of Haas, who didn't make proper allowance for the wind. White went all the way to third. Any kind of a fly ball would have scored him, but the fly didn't appear.

Owen did his part by fanning. Gehringer hoisted a foul to Grube. Jones had a purpose in walking Stone. The latter started to steal after Jones had pitched three wild ones to Walker and Grube made a rifle peg to conclude the inning.

The Sox got to Herring for a couple of hits in the first two innings but made no headway. They did better as soon as the Tigers cracked defensively. Dykes led off in the third with a high fly to right and Stone, after considerable hopping around, finally got under the ball. But he let it trickle through his hands, so Dykes took second. Grube banged a low liner to center and White reached for the ball but it got away from him for a hit, Dykes going to third. He scored on Jones' fly, after which Hayes fanned.

Another for Chicago.

Simmons made three futile swings in the fourth but this didn't prevent the Sox from increasing their advantage to 2 to 0. Haas was put out of the way on a fly to Walker, whereupon Swanson pumped a single into

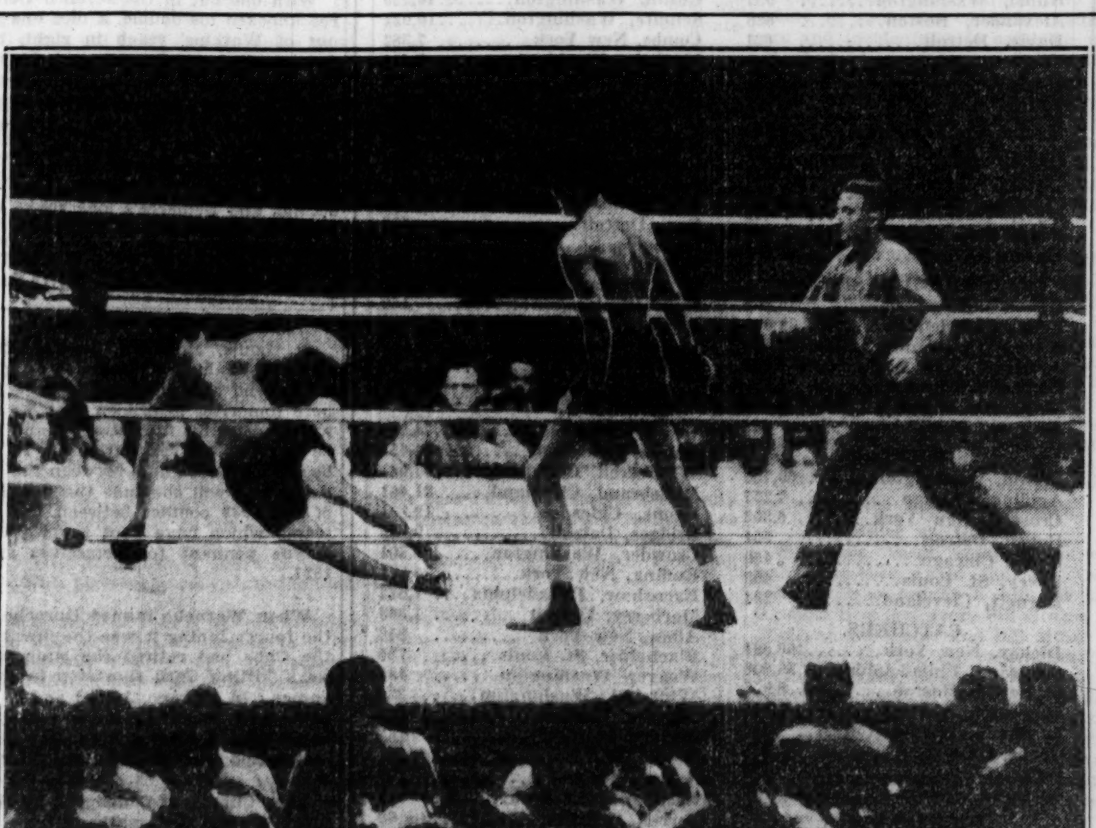
SMACK! DOWN GOES SCHMELING



Max Schmeling crashes to the canvas after catching a right to the jaw in the tenth round of last night's fight in the New York Yankee stadium. The German heavyweight reeled to his feet after a count of nine, whereupon Max Baer swarmed all over him. A few seconds later Referee Donovan stopped the fight and awarded Baer a technical knockout.

Warneke and Cubs Lose 2-1 Duel to Dean

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 8.—Dizzy Dean this afternoon turned in a three hit performance to give the Cubs a 2 to 1 defeat and Lon Warneke his fourth setback of the year.

By knocking off Warneke the Cardinals became the first team other than the Cincinnati Reds to defeat him this year. The reversal ended Warneke's winning streak at five straight and put him far in arrear of his 1933 schedule. Warneke did not lose his fourth last year until he had won 17 games. Last year defeat No. 4 was registered by Brooklyn on July 31.

The Cards made only six hits off Warneke and used only three of these in producing their two runs. The first hit off Dean was made by Bill Herman with two out in the sixth and drove in Gabby Hartnett with the lone Chicago marker. The second Cub hit was a wasted double by Demaree with one down in the seventh, and the third and last hit was Bill Herman's second single which led off the ninth inning.

Sixth Loss to Cardinals.

It was the sixth Cub loss to the Cardinals in ten games played and the second time this month that Dean has held the Cubs to one run. In taking the licking the Cubs missed a chance to take third place from the Pirates.

The Cards made their first run in a big hurry. Martin walked on four pitches, stole second, and scored on Frisch's single to center. The next three men were easy.

The winning run was put over in the fourth, the only inning in which the Cards got more than one hit off Warneke. Collins led off with a freak single when the ball hit his bat and bounced into left as he was trying to get away from a wide one. Jurges misjudged Watkins' popup in short left, but Stephenson recovered in time to force Collins with a throw to Bill Herman. Medwick singled to center, putting Watkins on third, whence he scored on Wilson's long fly to Stephenson. Medwick stole second, but Durocher fanned.

Cubs Break Through.

The Cubs made their only run in the sixth and came pretty close to tying the score. Only 15 men faced Dean in the first five innings, but Hartnett broke the routine by walking to start the sixth. He reached second on a wild pitch, but had to stay there while Martin threw out

PECKINPAUGH TO LOSE JOB TODAY AS INDIAN PILOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 8.—Roger Peckinpaugh is to be ousted as manager of the Cleveland Indians tomorrow at a special meeting of the directors, it was learned tonight.

Directors of the club, disappointed by the listless playing of the Indians who have dropped from second place into the second division, are determined to have a winner even if they have to shake up the club.

Averill, Ferrell, Vosmik, Cissell, Brown, Morgan and other stars have been a liability to the team rather than an asset, the directors assert, and trade talk has been buzzing for weeks. Billy Evans, general manager has been trying to line up new material.

Tris Speaker, Bib Falk, Willie Kamm, and Steve O'Neill, the latter manager of Toledo, are now being considered as Peckinpaugh's successor. A strong possibility is believed to be Larry Gilbert, manager of the New Orleans team of the Southern association. Gilbert has made a great record with New Orleans, where he developed many of the present Indians.

Leagues Spar for Advantage in Big Game

BY ARCH WARD.

When the strongest lineup the National league can present meets the American league all-stars at Comiskey Park July 6, it will be more than an exhibition. It will be a contest that will give supporters of the winning club something to crow about until the world series at least.

The presidents of the leagues, the managers, and players realize their responsibilities. Since the organization of the American league there has been an unending argument about the relative class of the two groups. There was no way of proving your stand because it was considered impossible ever to bring about an actual test.

Disagree Over Ins and Outs.

THE TRIBUNE, with the coöperation of the sixteen club owners and the league presidents, has arranged the game. If you think the participants are not taking it seriously, you haven't sat in on conferences where details have been discussed.

Two weeks ago President William Harridge of the American league, Leslie O'Connor, representing President John Heydler of the National league, and the writer met in Commissioner Landis' office to pick a site for the game. Both Wrigley Field and Comiskey Park were available. Harridge called the toss of the coin and chose Comiskey Park.

The American league executive felt that the winner would be entitled to whatever advantages went with the coin. Accordingly he wrote Mr. Heydler advising him that the American league team would use the home uniform and occupy the third base dugout in as much as the game was to be played in an American league park.

To give you an idea how interested each league is in obtaining all possible advantages, we print Mr. Heydler's reply to Mr. Harridge's letter.

Dear Mr. Harridge:

I have your letter of June 2 stating that the American league club will be the home club for the game of July 6. I cannot agree to this. We decided by lot where the game was to be played and the choice fell to the Chicago American league park. This was solely to decide the question of whether the game would be played at Cubs' park or at White Sox park.

It did not determine the choice of innings as between the National league team and the American league team, which is a very im-

Helpless as Referee Halts Bout.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—A wild right swing for the head, an alley fighter's sort of punch, clipped Max Schmeling on the chin in the tenth round of his fight with Max Baer at the Yankee stadium this evening and stunned him so badly that he lost his bearings, ran into a lot more swings to the head, went down, got up and presently was led to his corner by a referee who had good reason to fear that another blow might take his life.

A crowd of about 60,000 customers stretching away from the glare of the ring lights into the darkness of the grand stands and bleachers saw the German fighter who once held the heavyweight championship beaten almost to annihilation by the huge, rangy California Hebrew boy who used to bang his skull on an iron pipe to toughen it.

Baer was far behind in the scoring when his right swing, a punch which all the boxing instructors decry as the sucker's wallop, suddenly arched through atmosphere made milky by tobacco smoke and resin dust, and hit Schmeling on the jaw with a squashy sound and a spray of moisture. Schmeling's neck seemed to snap. His body went limp, his legs spread and his arms fell as he swayed against the ropes near Baer's corner.

Baer's seconds, Ancil Hoffman and Mike Cantwell, hopped up on the little green ladder in the corner, howling insanely at him to go on punching. Baer saw that Schmeling was gone and tore into him, slugging him on the head with both hands. Schmeling tried to drop his head and bring up his arms, but Baer beat him along the ropes with tremendous slams to the jaw.

Takes Nine Count.

After maybe ten seconds of this torture Schmeling wiggled out into the open ring with Baer after him and there another big right smash took Schmeling on the side of the head. He fell on his right side with a thump that brought up a puff of dust from the canvas, and Baer, remembering his manners after many fouls which had cost him four rounds in the scoring, withdrew to the farthest corner to see if the German would get up.

Schmeling sat up stiffly, like a man doing calisthenics in the morning, eying his surroundings with a blank expression and trying to pick up the numerals. They must have registered somehow, for he rolled to his feet at the count of nine and tried to wrap himself up in his arms and bounce around on limber legs. Baer was all over him, throwing heavy punches at his head. Schmeling was going into a swoon on the ropes when Arthur Donovan, the referee, stepped in and shoved the winner away.

No Protests, Even From Jacobs.

This was not at all squeamish of him, considering that Baer killed a fighter named Frankie Campbell with a punch from behind in a fight in California a few years ago. Schmeling's back was half turned toward Baer and the Californian was just winding up another right swing and squinting at a spot on the back of Schmeling's head when Donovan raised his head and took the responsibility which was quite a load for a man to shoulder.

However, even Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, one of the loudest free style squawkers in the prize fight profession, had no protest. The little manager was through the ropes and crossing the ring to take charge of his German as soon as the fight was stopped. He realized that the final punch which Donovan forestalled might have killed his man and his face was white and horrified as he led his fighter to the angle of the ropes and put the stool beneath him.

Recovers, Offers Congratulations.

You Can Still Buy Good Seats

Thousands of grandstand seats for the Game of the Century at Comiskey Park July 6 are still available. All are reserved. The price is $1.10, tax included, the daily admission price to Chicago's major league games.

There never has been a ball game like you will see when the strongest team from the American league meets the best from the National. Ruth, Simmons, Gehrig, Averill, Dickey, and Grove all on the same club against Klein, Waner, O'Doul, Traynor, Hartnett, and Terry.

Mail ticket applications to All Star Baseball Department, Comiskey Park, 35th and Shields avenue, Chicago. Orders must be accompanied by cashier's check or money order.

FOXX CRACKS 3 HOME RUNS AS A'S WIN, 14 TO 10

Gehrig, Ruth of Yanks Also Hit for Circuit.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—[Special.]—Home runs were pounded out all over Shibe park this afternoon as the Philadelphia Athletics scored a 14 to 10 victory over the New York Yankees. Leading the home run hitters was Jimmy Foxx, who hit three. Babe Ruth scored his 12th of the season in the ninth, while Lou Gehrig hit his 11th.

SMITTY—AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1933, by The Chicago Tribune

How They're Voting on American League Stars

The baseball fans of the nation will decide who will play in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6. Fifty-five newspapers in all sections of the United States have invited fans to help pick the National and American leagues' greatest players.

The Tribune is offering $500 in cash prizes to the fans who come closest to naming the teams. The first award of $250 will go to the person who comes closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selects the National league's starting lineup with starting pitcher will receive $100. A similar prize will be presented for the American league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who can name the six pitchers.

In case more than the allotted number qualify for the awards, the prizes will go to those whose selections reach The Tribune first.

portant matter and one which I am sure Manager McGraw of the National league team will not waive.

I would suggest, therefore, that the question of which team has the choice of innings be decided by lot. After this is done we can determine what uniforms are to be worn. The fact is that in this game there is no home team. It is a game between star players from all parts of the country, and each team should have an even break for choice of innings.

As both Mr. Mack, the American league manager, and Mr. McGraw are in the east, possibly we could have them toss a coin and decide this question at an early date. I have sent a copy of this letter to Mr. Arch Ward and I trust you will see the fairness of the position I have taken.

Yours truly,
JOHN HEYDLER.

My dear Mr. Heydler:

When it was determined that the toss of a coin must decide whether or not the all-star game of July 6 would be played in the National league park or American league park it was assumed that what privileges might go with the ball park would go to whichever league won the toss. If the National league had won, I do not believe there would have been any question by anyone connected with the American league that our team would naturally be the visiting team. Since the American league won the toss we were of the same opinion that the National league players would be the visiting players.

While it may be true that there is no home club, at the same time, since the game is to be played in an American league park, I believe everyone naturally would consider the American league team as the home club. This understanding would also assist us in settling a number of other arguments that might be advanced in the handling of the game. For example, the dugout to be used at Comiskey park by each team, the umpire to start behind the plate, the ball to be used to start the game and other questions that no doubt will arise from time to time. Are we to settle all of these questions by the tossing of a coin?

All of the ticket arrangements have been made on the basis that the American league would be the home team and occupy the third base dugout.

I do not wish to appear arbitrary in the matter, but since the American league won the toss, I cannot see how we could consider any other team the home club.

The matter of the choice of innings I will leave entirely to Mr. Connie Mack, the American league manager. With kind regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM HARRIDGE.

DODGERS TRADE BISSONETTE FOR ORIOLE FIELDER

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—As a step toward bolstering the offense and defense of the Dodger outfield, the Brooklyn directors today announced the purchase of Ralph Boyle, left-handed outfielder, from the Baltimore Orioles. In exchange, the Dodgers gave $12,500 in cash and Del Bissonette, regular first baseman from 1928 to 1932.

15, 30 Lap Races Arranged for Evanston Speedway

Two events at 15 laps and a wind-up at 30 laps are the distances set for the auto races on the weekly Evanston motor speedway program Sunday afternoon. Events for race cars feature this week's meet, a departure from the usual stock car races carded each Sunday at the Lincoln and Devon avenues dirt track. Among the pilots entered are: Paul Russo of Kenosha, Wis.; Glen Fites of Calumet City, and Gus Rhue of River Forest.

Warneke and Cubs Lose 2-1 Duel to Dean

Babe Herman then bounced a high one to Durocher. It looked like a scratch hit, but by alert behavior Durocher grabbed the ball and slammed it to Frisch to force Bill Herman as English dashed across with a run that didn't count.

Demaree's Double Wasted.

With one out in the seventh Demaree knocked his double, a nice one far out of Watkins' reach in right, but Grimm flied to Orsatti and Martin threw out Hartnett.

Bill Herman's second hit was a line single to center in the ninth. It was followed by Babe Herman's fly to Medwick, Stephenson's grounder to Frisch, which put Bill Herman on second, and Demaree's long fly to Orsatti, which ended the ball game.

MALONE PITCHES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 8.—The Cubs and Cardinals are scheduled to play the second of their three game series here tomorrow afternoon. Pat Malone will go after his fifth straight and will be opposed by Tex Carleton. It will be the eleventh game between the two teams and will conclude the first half of the 1933 conflict between the two teams which have kept the National league pennant to themselves since 1927.

When Warneke fanned Durocher in the fourth inning it was the first time the Cubs had retired the supposedly weak hitting Card shortstop in three games. In Chicago, June 1 and 3, [illegible] made four singles, a double and drew two walks in seven trips to the plate. He singled the first time up today.

The Cubs were delightfully surprised to find the weather here [illegible]ch cooler than it was in Chicago yesterday. A nice breeze was in evidence all day. It was the first time in the memory [illegible] the oldest Cubs [illegible] the team ever came to St. Louis from Chicago in the course of a heat wave and got relief.

When the first 15 Cubs to face Dean failed to make a base hit in the first five innings statisticians started to browse in the books—to learn that the last no hit game pitched in the National league was the 11 to 0 masterpiece which Carl Hubbell turned in against the Pirates on May 8, 1929. Bob Burke pitched the last one in the majors, a 5 to 0 affair against the Red Sox on Aug. 8, 1931.

The statisticians, who were getting ready to set down that the Cubs had been shut out for the third straight time in Sportsman's park, laid down their pencils when Bill Herman drove home Gabby Hartnett with the first hit off Dean. Two fine bales of statistics went in the ash can with that one single.

INTERNATIONAL 'Y' WRESTLING MEET ON TONIGHT

The international Y. M. C. A. wrestling tournament will open at the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. tonight. The tournament will continue tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Baltimore, the defending team champion, is represented by a squad of 14, the largest of all, and is favored to retain the title.

Durham Goes Against Tiger Jinx Today

Ed Durham will try to prevent the Tiger jinx from attacking the White Sox today. It will be ladies' day, so the former Red Sox employé will have plenty of oral support. Fred Marberry is due to start for Detroit.

The Tigers now have taken six out of nine games from the White Sox and their record against other teams in the league proves they're not that good. They've won three of those from the Chicagoans by rising up in the ninth just when it looked as if they were ready to surrender.

Infielder Bill Rhiel, who was coaching at first base for the Tigers in the ninth, let out a loud squawk over a decision by Umpire Moriarity. A half minute later the young man was off the field in accordance with an order from the arbiter.

Fonseca took a swing in the eleventh in place of Mule Haas who doesn't care about hitting against left handed pitching. The best the pinch hitting manager could produce was an easy grounder to short.

center. Simmons fanned, as mentioned, and Swanson then partially compensated for this by stealing second. Appling did the rest. He walloped a single over second and Swanson scored. Kress ended it with a deep fly to Walker.

The Tigers got their second hit off Jones in the second inning, a single by Rogell. But two were out and he failed in an attempted steal. One was out in the fifth before another Tiger was promoted to the status of a base runner. The lanky Greenberg was involved in this. He singled through short, but the next two men bounced into force plays.

Another opening loomed in the seventh when Gehringer opened with a pass. He didn't get off first base. And you can imagine how the Tigers felt in the eighth when Rogell opened with a hit and Hayworth bounced into a double play.

Here's the Bad News.

Here's how things progressed in the ninth, when the Tigers finally broke through and tied the score: White singled to center and raced to third on Owen's single to right. Gehringer bounced to Kress, who tossed to Appling for a force-out and then leaped back on first to receive the ball from Appling for a double play.

An instant later Stone boosted a long one into the wind and when it came down it was in the right field seats. The only threat the Sox made in their half of the ninth was a single by Simmons after Fischer had fanned Haas and Swanson. Appling then flied to White. There also was a single by Dykes off Hogsett in the tenth, but it was the last Sox hit.

In going west, Page follows the footsteps of A. A. Stagg, who signed with the College of the Pacific at Stockton, Cal., when he was forced to retire because of the University of Chicago's rule. Page is a former Maroon athlete.

slightly swollen from a punch received in the first round, but now both eyes were red as though the tears were about to leak forth. Schmeling seemed physically and spiritually stunned. This might be the end of his career as one of the big men in the fight business.

He had fought his way up through the Sekyras, the Montes and the Paulinos to become the first German heavyweight champion of the world in the history of the prize fight industry. He had been slugged on the chin by experts and he had shaken off many of Baer's clouts on the jaw in the rounds preceding the end without serious inconvenience. In fact, he was coming along to win by his own efforts and by Baer's careless indifference to the rules of civilized fist fighting when his chin intercepted the sort of punch that all the expert boxers have always condemned as futile, stupid and dangerous to the author thereof.

Won Title in Same Arena.

A straw hat sailed out of the twilight, twenty rows behind Schmeling's corner as he collapsed with a crash in the center of the scaffold, but went into a spin and flopped short of the ring. Jacobs' white face appeared beneath the bottom rope, and his neck stretched a yard as he tried to wish his fighter back into action. It was in this ring and in this ballyard that Jacobs clambered through the ropes on a similar night three years ago, and with shrill jabbers of excitement persuaded a wobbling and puzzled referee to declare that Jack Sharkey had fouled Schmeling and thus to award him the heavyweight championship.

Tonight the job of winning the fight for Schmeling was beyond the power of any manager, although Jacobs probably will be able to rebuild Schmeling's confidence and arouse some popular sympathy for him by crying foul. For a fact, Baer lost one round, the third, with a punch so low and so hard that Donovan went between them and warned him. In three rounds after that Baer raked Schmeling's face with backhand punches and Donovan warned him formally on each occasion, which would indicate that he had scored those rounds for Schmeling, regardless of anything else that happened therein. Schmeling weighed 189½ pounds and Baer 203.

Schmeling was sluggish early in the fight and, according to a rather clumsy custom of his, sampled Baer's kind of doing in order to form an opinion of him and decide how to fight him. It took him three rounds to weigh the evidence, and in the fourth he began to pump his right to the body, a punch which never improved any fighter's health, and tag the California giant with short, choppy rights on the jaw.

Schmeling's left gave him very little service, for Baer outreached him and often stood him off with jabs of his own as Schmeling pecked at his nose. However, Schmeling landed more jabs than Baer did, because Schmeling was picking off some with a light gesture of his right glove or brushing them away just short of his face.

Baer seemed to lose heart in the fifth, for he had slammed Schmeling with great abandon in the first three rounds and the other fellow was now coming in, delivering the fight to him with no respect for his great right hand. Baer's nose was gory and the grin with which he marked the arrival of each slam on his features was merely a muscular act by now, with no hilarity in it. Schmeling seemed to be hurting him with his short drives to the ribs and he may have been worried, too, to find a fighter charging steadily at him after catching his right swings to the head.

Baer Uses Unfair Tactics.

Schmeling was bobbing around under Baer's short pokes at the head in close and it began to seem that the western fighter had done all he knew how to do. Baer lost the sixth and seventh for backhanding and, though he revived to outscore Schmeling in the eighth, he lost the round for dragging the back of his right mitt across Schmeling's face several times.

Baer punched Schmeling back in the ninth, but kept on fighting after the bell and might have been penalized for that, too. At any rate, he was trailing up to the instant when the crazy punch flashed against the lights and caught Schmeling on the jaw in the tenth to undo him.

Jack Dempsey, promoting his first program of prize fights in New York, estimated that the gate receipts were between $250,000 and $300,000, but could not be more specific pending the counting of the loot.

May Meet Sharkey or Carnera.

Baer may now be matched to fight the winner of the pending championship bout between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, both of whom were present this evening.

Baer is fast but awkward and boxers of the expert type still will not admit him to the circle of dangerous men on the ground that a right swing is a nonunion punch and bad art. It knocked out Schmeling, but that will be charged to Schmeling's neglect—he forgot to duck.

The night was stifling hot and the high structure of the grand stands shut out any breeze which might have been trying to crash through and fan the customers. There was a battery of seventy huge funnel shaped ring lights suspended just above the fighters' heads which did nothing to mitigate the heat. The smoke of the customers' cigarets hung in the still air as though it had been built there, and all around the ring the gents shucked their coats and slipped down their suspenders.

WHITE, REVOLTA ARE UP THERE; CAN THEY LAST?

21 Year Old Golfers Bid for National Title.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Neil White, a college boy, and Johnny Revolta, a rising young professional, were among the front runners in the first round of the national open golf tournament yesterday at North Shore.

The manner in which these youngsters carry on under the strain of competition will answer the question which recurs each year, "Can an unseasoned player come out on top in one of the most severe tests of skill, stamina, and nerve in the entire realm of sport?"

Where'll They Be Tonight?

Last night they occupied a strong contending position with scores of 73 each. Tonight they may be nowhere. If they remain near the top throughout today's play, what will happen to them tomorrow? Those are a few of the riddles which come up at the end of the first round in every national open.

As a rule the youngsters crack under the inexorable requirements of that last day's play—36 holes of flawless golf with seasoned campaigners crowding them at every stroke. But the observers are always looking for an exception to the general rule that unheralded youngsters don't win national open tournaments.

Revolta May Be the Man.

Johnny Revolta may be that exceptional youth who combines sufficient technical ability with sufficient mental poise to carry him to victory. There can be no doubt that he has both—under normal circumstances—but no golfer can feel that his nerve has been put to a final test until he has come within striking distance of golf's greatest prize—the national open championship. Many a player has moved serenely along the fairways playing flawless golf, only to begin topping his drives and overshooting the greens upon receipt of the information that he is out in front.

Revolta, who is 21 years old, was playing a round last summer with Jimmy Carberry of Shore Acres and Austin Cleyssens of Glen Flora. The youngster shot a 67.

"I wish I knew where I could get a job as a pro," he said.

"What do you want with a job?" Carberry asked. "A fellow who plays like you should pack his clubs and go to Florida."

Cashes In on Trip.

So Revolta took the hint and went to Florida, where he finished first and second in two of the biggest tournaments of the winter season. He won the Miami open and took second money in the Miami Biltmore open.

Coming back from the south this spring, he took a jol as professional at Menominee, Mich., and is now stationed there. He has very large hands, which give him a mighty grip, and he has powerful wrists capable of sending the ball on long flights down the fairway.

White from U. S. C.

White, the college boy who is right beside Revolta among the leaders, hails from the University of Southern California, where he is a sophomore. He is 21 years old and never has ventured among the professionals before this season. He is the present California state amateur champion.

White began his golfing career when a high school boy in Topeka, Kas. For three years he was the Kansas state high school champion and twice he was medalist in the state amateur tournament.

Last January he began trying his luck among professionals. In the Agua Caliente tournament he finished 12th, being the second highest amateur. Last week he competed in the St. Paul open, where he outscored many good professionals to take ninth place. He was the highest amateur in the tournament.

Last night the college boy from California and the brilliant young professional from Michigan were in a position to show the world whether they have the stuff of which champions are made. Today and tomorrow they will go out to face any weather conditions luck may decree. Under blazing heat or through gusts of rain they will be expected to hang on grimly to the contending positions they have taken.

Can they do it? It's your guess now.

CHICAGO IMPORTS NEW YORK GAELIC FOOTBALL STARS

Six Gaelic football stars from New York—Johnny McGoldrick, Tom Kiely, Andy Furlong, Dan Garvey, Pete Landy, and Tommy Armitage—arrived in Chicago yesterday to bolster the United States fifteen which will play Ireland's champion team at Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon.

These New York players faced Kerry in the two games played at the Polo grounds on May 21 and June 4, and their knowledge of the Irish champions' plays will be invaluable to their teammates who have been chosen from Chicago, Cleveland, and St. Louis clubs.

McGoldrick is one of the greatest center half backs ever seen in the United States. Dan Garvey is left full back, a clever blocker and sure kicker. Tom Kiely plays right full back. Andy Furlong's brilliant playing at full back saved New York from defeat in Kerry's opening game on May 21. Pete Landy is a right half back, and Tommy Armitage plays center field.

A German field handball game will open the afternoon's program at 1:30. This will be followed with a hurling contest between Sarsfield and Liam Mellowes before the international clash gets underway at 3:30.

and rolled on and on and into the cup, having traveled about 35 yards.

Tommy took a par 4 on the first hole after driving into the rough, reaching the green with his second and getting down in two. He was in the rough at the second, also, but his second shot was 20 feet from the pin and he took two putts for a birdie 4. He overshot the third green, landing in a trap, and was forced to take a 4.

Another Birdie on Fourth.

He holed a 20 footer at the fourth for a birdie and made another fine approach to the fifth for a three foot putt and another birdie. He followed par to the 12th, where an eight foot putt brought down his fourth birdie. Then came the mashie niblick masterpiece at the 17th. His 50 foot putt for a sixth birdie at the 18th after having overshot the green against the wind missed by inches.

"Might Have Been 80."—Gene.

Sarazen said he regarded his effort as one of the most remarkable rounds of his career because it might easily have been an 80 instead of a 74. Gene was thoroughly acquainted with the rough, not to mention a parcel of traps, before he reached the home hole. His 74 was more a matter of fine recoveries from these difficulties than ability on the greens, for he took 32 putts for the 18 holes.

He was over par at the fourth, where he drove the rough and sent his second into a trap. A good out and two putts earned him a 5. He took a 6 at the seventh, going from left to right down the path to the hole and requiring four to get on. He missed a birdie by an inch on the ninth, where his great chip shot halted on the rim of the cup. A ten footer gave him his only birdie on the round at the 12th, and he was trapped again at the 14th.

Hagen knocked down birdies at the third and ninth, and missed a two foot putt for a third birdie on the home green. He found the rough and subsequent traps at the fourth, seventh, and fourteenth.

Ciuci, who led the 1928 open at the end of the first round as a 21 year old kid, played good golf all the way around, collecting four birdies. He went over the figures on the card either through falling short of the greens or overshooting them. White had two birdies on the second and eleventh, and ran down a 15 foot putt to get his par 5 at the 536 yard seventh. He missed a 72 for the round when, on the 18th green, his ball stopped on the cup's edge after a 35 foot putt.

Revolta's Putter Fails.

Revolta had the hardest luck of all, missing putts of less than four feet for birdies on the fifth, seventh, and sixteenth. McCarthy birdied the second and eighth, and was over par on the sixth, twelfth, and eighteenth.

LEADING PILOTS IN WOLF LAKE'S OUTBOARD RACES

Nearly all of the pilots who have come to Chicago to compete in the outboard races at the World's Fair lagoon are entered in the second regatta sponsored by the Wolf Lake Outboard club and sanctioned by the National Outboard association at Wolf lake, Hammond, Ind., on Sunday.

From 75 to 100 entries are expected with ten states represented, according to James Mulroy, executive secretary of the National Outboard association, who is chairman of the committee in charge of Sunday's regatta.

BILL GONSALVES, SOCCER STAR, TO PLAY WITH STIX

Bill Gonsalves, one of the greatest soccer players developed in this country, is expected to play an important part in the North American soccer championship game between the St. Louis Stix, United States champions, and the Toronto Scots, Canadian titleholders, at Soldiers' field on Sunday.

This big Portuguese-American, who has played for five national championship teams, has received many offers from European clubs and was on the verge of accepting one when Manager Jimmy Burke of the Stix induced him to leave New Bedford and go to St. Louis. Despite his 200 pounds, Gonsalves is one of the most agile players in the game.

As a preliminary to the international game, the silver jubilee final of the Peel cup competition will be staged, with Sparta, the National league champion, playing the Swedish-Americans.

The Toronto team will arrive at the Central station at 9:45 a. m. tomorrow and will be met by a group of local Scots. The German-Americans of Philadelphia, who meet the Swedish-Americans at Soldiers' field Tuesday night, will arrive at the Grand Central station Sunday morning.

gestion helped Johnny any because he took 38 for the second nine which is supposed to be easier than the first nine, while Leo Diegel to whom I didn't offer any helpful suggestion had a 36 which, of course, is par.

Then defending champion, Gene Sarazen, came by and I said, "How'd you happen to take 74, Gene?" Well, Gene didn't look pleased, either, but he said, "Not to offer it as an excuse but if you were in the gallery following us you probably observed I missed several short putts. By the way, what is your name?"

I told him, but it didn't seem to recall any old memories to him so I thought I'd done enough work for you for one day, went over to the press tent to write my story and then back to see Tommy Armour finish. I didn't have nerve enough to ask Tommy what was the matter with his game with 68, but perhaps I can get around to that Friday. But I'm sure I'm on the right track in experting. I'll be out again tomorrow.

Regards.

Record Crowd Turns Out for National Open

The crowd at the national open golf tournament at North Shore yesterday set a record for the morning round, 3,500 having checked in by noon. They divided their attention between the Sarazen-Cox and Hagen-Olin Dutra twosomes, with the latter having a slight edge, due probably to the fact that Hagen is still the game's greatest drawing card.

A quirk in the pairings brought together the two forgotten men of golf, Billy Burke, 1931 open champion, and Johnny Goodman, runner up for the United States amateur title last year. They teed off at 11:30 o'clock, Bill gnawing on the ever present cheroot. He was out in 38 and Goodman in 39. Burke is the golfer who caused Sarazen, Armour, and other big timers to say harsh things about the makeup of the Ryder cup team when they learned that he had been omitted. There was a deal of grumbling also in the case of Goodman, who was overlooked in the choosing of last year's Walker cup team, but derived some satisfaction by dusting off a few members of the team during the national amateur tournament.

Sarazen displayed a bit of temperament at the fourth hole, when he delivered a sermon to a group of photographers who had drawn a bead on him while he was trying to escape from a trap near the green. The photogs said, "O. K., Gene," but no sooner had Gene gone through with the shot than all cameras clicked simultaneously. The champion was also roiled considerably at the ninth green. You could have blinked the ball into the hole, and when it didn't go down, Sarazen pounded his club into the turf.

A number of sports writers dropped the task at hand to engage in a bit of football chatter with the several football coaches who were present as officials. Among the Big Ten coaches present were Dick Hanley, Northwestern; Doc Clarence W. Spears, Wisconsin; Noble Kizer, Purdue; and Bob Zuppke, Illinois. All said that prospects were fine for next fall.

One of the best shots of the day was accomplished by Olin Dutra, who sank his 35 foot approach at the first hole. The ball rested about three feet off the green. The ponderous Californian gave it a healthy tap and appeared nonchalant when the pellet rolled into the cup.

Leslie Madison of Chandler, Ariz., compiled a string of nine straight 4s for a 36 going out. His card coming in was sprinkled with 5s, however, and he wound up with a 36—40—76.

Four withdrawals on the eve of the tournament cut the starters to 147. Those not putting in an appearance were Sam Parks Jr., former University of Pittsburgh star; Willie Hunter, Los Angeles; Fred Morrison, Pasadena, Cal., and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore.

One of the busiest men on the course was Alex Cunningham, club professional at North Shore. Alex was busy acting as host to the visiting golfers and seeing that the manifold details attending the big tournament were handled satisfactorily. The canny Scot has been connected with North Shore for the last five years and much of the credit for the fine condition of the course for the tournament is due him.

A military air was added to the proceedings by the presence of several details of sailors from Great Lakes and a detachment of soldiers from Fort Sheridan. They aided in keeping the galleries from overrunning the course.

Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist, whom the smart ones say is the one to watch in the current struggle, toured the first 18 holes in 74. He bagged a 35 on the first nine but took a 39 coming in. Two 5s on the par 4 17th and 18th holes cost him a chance to equal par figures.

Letter Winners, Young and Old, Acclaim Stagg

Three hundred and twenty-five men who won their major "C's" under A. A. Stagg, including representatives of every class since the University of Chicago opened in 1892, gave their retiring athletic leader an ovation last night at the 30th annual banquet of the Order of C.

A bound volume containing 400 personal letters of appreciation from "C" men was presented to Coach Stagg, and Judge Walter Steffen, president of the order, announced that an additional volume of letters would be presented shortly. The "C" men were to have given Stagg a substanial purse, but the project was discouraged by the coach when he learned of it upon his return from California.

Five men who played on Chicago's '92 football team with Stagg were present: H. T. Chace, L. B. Vaughn, H. G. Gale, R. D. Nichols, and Dr. A. R. E. Wyant. Ten men were present who had come more than 500 miles for the event, including Ruthven W. Pike, tennis star of 1919-'20, who two months ago had been reported missing far up the Amazon river.

Warren Bellstrom spoke in behalf of 42 men who were inducted into the order. Frank Whiting described Page's career, and Dr. Ralph Hamill the career of Stagg.

Olympic Stars to Compete in National Meet

Not since the Olympic games has there been such a gathering of superlative high jumpers and polo vaulters as that in prospect for the national collegiate track and field meet at Soldiers' field Friday and Saturday of next week. Olympic champions in both events, Duncan McNaughton of Southern California in the high jump, and Bill Miller of Stanford in the pole vault, will compete on Chicago's lake front against men who have bettered their best performances.

The leapers and vaulters who are likely to outdo the Olympic titleholders and incidentally to establish new N. C. A. A. records, are Californians all. Walter Marty, high jumper entered from Fresno State college, this spring established a new world's record of 6 feet 8⅝ inches in a minor meet on the coast. The present N. C. A. A. record is 6 feet 7¼ inches, established by Haggard of Texas in 1926.

Van Osdel Consistent.

It is Bob Van Osdel of Southern California, however, who is regarded as the most consistent and therefore the most formidable entrant in the high jump event. Van Osdel tied McNaughton for first in the Olympics with a leap of 6 feet 5⅝ inches, but lost in the jump-off.

Marty, McNaughton and Van Osdel will have plenty of competition from Willis Ward of Michigan, who cleared 6 feet 7⅛ inches as an unofficial competitor in the meet last year.

Miller vs. Graber.

The pole vault competition will bring together again the two Californians who fought it out for the Olympic title last year, Bill Graber of Southern California and Bill Miller of Stanford. Graber, the present national champion and American record holder, with a height of 14 feet 4⅜ inches, has an application pending before the International federation for recognition of that performance as a world record. It was made in the preliminaries of the Olympics. Miller, however, won in the finals.

WHITNEY COLORS CARRIED TO FIRST CHICAGO VICTORY

Slapstick Wins by Neck, Pays $46.90.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Eton blue jacket of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney was carried to its first victory of the Chicago racing season at Washington Park yesterday afternoon.

And what a victory it was for the long shot players! When Slapstick, a 3 year old daughter of Broomstick-Transit, came galloping home with the Whitney triumph, she was at 22 to 1 in the betting. In the mutuels she paid $46.90 to win, $16.08 to place, and $5.70 to show.

Except for one brief period, an eighth of a mile from the finish when she surrendered the lead to Broad Meadows from Col. Edward R. Bradley's stable, it was Slapstick's race all the way. Just when it seemed that she had given up the struggle Slapstick showed the old Broomstick determination and got up to whip the veteran Bradley color bearer by a neck.

Bedight Gets Third Place.

Epin, which with Broad Meadows had absorbed most of the betting support, was well beaten and out of the money despite the hard ride Jockey Steffen gave him coming down the stretch. Bedight had fought it out with the two leaders all the way and saved third money from the fast finishing Ladfield.

The sharpshooters overlooked Slapstick because her record was none too good in her recent starts and because the Whitney horses had not been winning here. Her trainer, Mose Goldblatt, refused to purchase a ticket on her, but Mrs. Goldblatt is reported to have wagered to the extent of five dollars. So, anyway, the unexpected victory wasn't a complete loss to the Goldblatt family.

About 9,000 watched Slapstick step to her victory, and they cheered even though only a few of them profited. Jockey J. Mayer clearly outrode J. Westrope in the stretch drive, which was quite desperate until Slapstick began pulling away in the last forty strides. Slapstick ran the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5.

Esseff Easy Winner.

Esseff, a 3 year old filly, turned in a spectacular performance in the Winnetka purse, which was the best race on the program. She galloped out with a crowd of older handicap performers and gave them a sound beating by five lengths.

Esseff didn't bother about who was in front in the early stages, letting Marooned and Cathop and the veteran The Nut head her at different times. But it was different when the stretch battle started. All Jockey Tipton had to do was turn her loose and let her run. She settled the issue in a very short time. Marooned saved second money and Cathop ran third.

Esseff's time for the seven furlongs was 1:24 2-5. She had a world of backers and paid $5.60.

The daily double players who coupled Hamilton and Tamerlane had collected $34.74 for each $2 investment. Hamilton scored handily, but Tamerlane won by only a head from over Through Omond. That horse, Through Omond, doesn't seem to care to do any better than be beaten by a whisker.

Daily Double to Be Offered at Arlington

There will be daily double wagering at Arlington Park during the 30 day meeting starting June 26, Roy Carruthers, managing director of the Arlington Jockey club, announced yesterday.

Arlington is the last of the tracks in the Chicago district to adopt the feature. "It has become very popular with Chicago racing fans, so the Arlington management is pleased to add the double to its program," Carruthers said.

Unlike the daily double at other tracks, the Arlington feature will provide that horses coupled in an entry will be represented by a single ticket. The double will take in the second and third races each day and there will be no field in either event.

A public demonstration of Arlington Park's new all electric totalizer will be made on the afternoon of Sunday, June 18, Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, announced yesterday. The new totalizer, embodying many features never used before, will replace the pari-mutuels during the 30 day Arlington meeting starting Monday, June 26.

Demonstration of the totalizer will be free to the public as the Arlington Park gates will be thrown open on that date. In charge of the show will be H. L. Straus, president of the American Totalizer company, which is installing the machine, and Mort Shaw, Arlington's mutuel manager.

Visitors at the demonstration will receive sample tickets from the automatic ticket issuers and will be shown how an electrical impulse is created, which goes to a master board where the impulses are collected and added and then transferred to the four display boards, located at convenient points in the infield, clubhouse, grandstand, and paddock.

Candidates for the Robert M. Sweitzer handicap, closing feature of the Washington Park meeting, went through their paces yesterday. Sidney Grant, last year's winner of this event, was sent one mile and an eighth under strong restraint in 1:57 3-5. Sazerac breezed a mile in 1:43, full of run. Big Brand was under wraps seven-eighths in 1:32, and old Pigeon Hole blew out three-eighths in :37. Bert Baroni sent Waylayer a slow half in :54 3-5. Technique evidently came out of her American Derby race in good shape, as she worked five-eighths in 1:05 2-5 breezing.

Winner trained by J. P. Sallee. Went to post at 2:19½. At post 3 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

BLONDELLA, beginning slowly and far back first five-eighths, began to improve her position slowly and on outside nearing stretch, withstood the drive gamely and, getting to front, weakened but lasted. TAR WATER, taken into the lead and rated under steadying restraint for five-eighths, quickly increased his advantage when entering stretch and weakened, but was gaining on winner in final strides. RESISTING, slow to get going and far back for three-quarters, was lucky to get through on inside when closing with a rush.

HAMILTON, rated close to the pace and forced wide when beginning to move up when entering the stretch, worked way to front slowly and, holding on gamely, stalled off KIBITZER. Latter, far out of it for first five-eighths and brought to extreme outside for final three-eighths, had bettered his position fast, faltered slightly in late stages. BATTLING ON, away fast and taken to inside when clear, was cleverly ridden, but weakened in final drive.

Winner trained by J. D. Lenahan. Went to post at 3:20¼. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same. Daily double paid $34.74.

TAMERLANE, probably much the best, was in close quarters repeatedly the first half-mile, found room on inside in final quarter and, making up much ground, was up in final strides. THROUGH OMOND forced the early pace under light restraint, slowly disposed of BROOKSIE and held on well, but was not good enough. ANNAN, sharply blocked when leaving the back stretch, lost some ground when bettering his position at stretch turn and closed well on extreme outside.

Winner trained by Jack Howard. Went to post at 3:52. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

FLAGHORN, going in suddenly improved form, began well, but was steadied along at the turn, offered good response to pressure after reaching final quarter, where he came to outside, and was up in final strides. CHERRY TIME took command quickly, saved ground at turn, and was inclined to swerve when punished, but barely failed to last. DING BIN closed resolutely in a good effort.

SLAPSTICK took command with a rush in first quarter, slightly increased her advantage when saving ground at stretch turn, failed to withstand BROAD MEADOWS' rush, but held on stubbornly and outgamed BROAD MEADOWS in final fifty yards. Latter, under steadying restraint first half mile, weakened after working way to front. BEDIGHT, on inside much of the trip and blocked entering final eighth, held on well when clear.

ESSEFF began fast but could not keep up and, outrun, was taken under mild restraint, gave improved speed after reaching final five-sixteenths and, after racing to the lead with a rush, came away fast. MAROONED had keen speed from the start, saved ground throughout and, while no match for winner, and weakening, was best of others. CATHOP, under stout restraint for a half mile, rallied weakly entering stretch and appeared to loaf under strong urging final three-sixteenths.

†Field. Time, :23 3-5, :47, 1:12 4-5, 1:40. Two dollar mutuels paid: Miscalculate, $3.58 straight, $2.68 place, $2.54 show; Kaposia, $25.76 place, $14.06 show; Our Sandy, $5.84 show. Winner trained by H. S. Hart. Went to post at 5:24. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

MISCALCULATE much used in the first quarter, where he rapidly improved his position, and following which he was rated to stretch, failed to get through on inside of CENTENNIAL in final eighth and, brought to outside, took command quickly and outstayed KAPOSIA. Latter began slowly, bettered his position gradually on outside in final half, and was going gamely at end. OUR SANDY, a strong factor after a quarter, held on well.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :24 3-5, :48 4-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:52 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: North Shadow, $20.38 straight, $9.14 place, $5.94 show; Below Cost, $7.46 place, $5.64 show; Impish, $23.92 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 5:52¼.

NORTH SHADOW narrowly missed unseating her rider at the start, took command quickly and, after making the pace under fair rating, outstayed BELOW COST. Latter under strong restraint for seven-eighths, stood the drive gamely, and was slowly wearing down the winner. IMPISH, badly outrun to final eighth, made up ground fast thereafter. TELA, away slowly and far back for seven-eighths, came to outside at stretch turn and made up ground, but could not get up.

Delmont Opposes Hughes in Semi-Windup.

The Card

Danny Delmont vs. Frankie Hughes [6].
Davy Day vs. Billy Locks [6].
Jack O'Connell vs. Freddy Dolph [4].
Jim Londis vs. Oren Miller [4].

Johnny Phagan, 1932 International Golden Gloves welterweight champion, and Andy Di Vodi of New York will meet in the eight round windup in the first outdoor boxing show at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue tonight.

Di Vodi lost one match in 17 last year. He lost his only contest this year when he substituted for Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, against Teddy Yarosz at Pittsburgh two weeks ago.

He is expected to be in good condition tonight because he was training here for a match against Eddie [Kid] Wolfe at New York until it was cancelled Sunday.

Bucky Lawless, who was to fight Phagan, was forced to cancel the bout because of a cut over his eye. Frankie Hughes, Clinton, Ind., junior welterweight, will face Danny Delmont in the six round semi-final. Four other matches complete the card.

Sammy Wolff, Mills stadium promoter, is attempting to sign Seaman Tom Watson, featherweight titleholder of England, to meet Varias Milling or Johnny Pena on July 12. Milling and Pena will clash at Mills next Wednesday in the first 15 round contest in this state since Gov. Horner signed the Graham bill last April 26, legalizing 15 rounders.

Three matches at six rounds, one at four and one at 10 rounds will comprise the card next Thursday at Shewbridge field. Puggy Weinert and Andy Di Vodi are to meet in the 10 round match. Other matches will bring together Eddie Stiegal and Jack O'Brien and Danny Neenan and Art Donovan.

Jackie Sharkey is in Rochester, Minn., where he boxes Sammy Levine of the west side tonight. . . Frankie Wolfram, Winnipeg, Man., bantamweight, arrived yesterday for an indefinite stay here. . . Jacquotte Elverillo is in Terre Haute, Ind., to fight Peewee Jarrell there on June 17. . . . Willie Oster and Al De Rose returned yesterday from Quincy, Ill., where Oster held Rosy [Kid] Baker of Indianapolis, Ind., to a 10 round draw and De Rose lost in 10 rounds to Eddie Metz of Danville. . . . Jack Moran, west side middleweight, is to return from Gary, Ind., next week.

John Pacek and Max Marek, heavyweight and light heavyweight members of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves team, which will meet a team of amateur champions from Ireland at Soldiers' field on Aug. 2, started drills yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium. Both are concentrating on the matches against their Irish opponents in August, following the finishing of work at school. Marek has finished his course at St. Viator college at Bourbonnais, Ill., and Pacek will conclude his studies for this period at Lindbloom High school today.

Two bouts at five rounds will head the show tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Paddy Waltier and Leo Ranieri will meet in one. The other is to bring together Eddie Chinski and Art Donovan. Four other matches are carded.

ENGLAND LEADS ITALY, 2 TO 0, IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

EASTBOURNE, England, June 8.—(AP)—England today won the first two singles matches from Italy in the quarter final series in the European zone Davis cup competition. Fred Perry defeated Baron de Morpurgo, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, and Henry W. [Bunny] Austin won from Giorgio de Stefani, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5. The winning country will meet Czechoslovakia in the semifinal round.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, June 8.—Czechoslovakia advanced to the semi-final round of the European zone competition for the Davis cup when it won the doubles match against Greece for its third victory today. The scores were 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

Ask Hunters Not to Shoot at Pigeons

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Rifleshooter, kindly refrain from shooting pigeons in Chicagoland this summer. This is the appeal now being broadcast in behalf of thousands of pigeons which are here as a feature of the World's Fair.

At this time the pigeon situation is a source of concern to many owners. Joseph A. Duner, secretary of the federation of northern Illinois chapters of the Izaak Walton league, explains it as follows:

"There will be in the neighborhood of 10,000 pigeons entered in the World's Fair race to be flown from Ames, Ia., to Chicago on Oct. 7. A large number of these young birds will be entrusted to men whose lofts are in the Chicago district for training for the big event. Birds will be received from England, France, Germany, and Belgium as well as from all over the United States and will be tossed for short training flights in the near future.

Big Concentration of Birds.

"Max H. Finley, president of the Du Page Flying club, has made an appeal to this federation asking help in an effort to check the shooting of these valuable birds. The pigeon fanciers of this district are fearful that losses will be unusually large this fall due to the heavy concentration of birds soon to be in the air. It is disheartening for these men to lose fine birds, let alone having to inform an out of town owner that the birds left in his care failed to return from a training flight and consequently could not fly in the big race.

"The hunter and small boy who, when afield, shoot anything that flies, probably account for most of the racing pigeon losses and it is among these groups that educational work must be done. At the last meeting of the federation it was decided to ask the aid of newspapers and broadcasting stations in sending out an appeal to hunters and others to refrain from shooting pigeons."

Farmers Encourage Shooting.

Although there isn't any doubt but what careless rifle hunters account for many missing pigeons, we are confident that investigation will show two other reasons for losses. First, and by far the most important reason, racing associations apparently have not educated the public on how or where to report live, lost birds found in yards or on window sills. Second, many farmers encourage hunters to shoot pigeons around their barns.

Petillo Files Entry for Races at Roby

Kelly Petillo, who has been a star on Pacific coast speedways, yesterday entered Sunday's races at Roby speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis avenue.

The Daredevil Helmet dash event, which is open only to the three fastest qualifiers in morning trials, over a distance of five miles, is a coast feature that will be introduced Sunday. Babe Stapp and Petillo have won the helmet many times at Ascot.

5,835,800 Games Birds and Animals Shot in Wisconsin

Madison, Wis., June 8.—[Special.]—An estimated total of 5,835,800 game birds and animals were killed during the last hunting season, the state conservation department announced today.

Investment Trust "Tells All" in Stock Offer Under New Law

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—In an offer made today to acquire stock of a subsidiary, the Equity corporation became the first company to comply in detail with the requirement of the truth-in-securities bill. David M. Milton, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., is president of Equity, which offered to exchange its shares for those of the Interstate Equities corporation.

For the first time complete details as to the cost of making the offer, the salaries of officers, the stock interest of officers and the names of other large stockholders are published in full. These facts are contained in an eleven page pamphlet.

Offer to Exchange Stock.

Equity will exchange seven-tenths share of its convertible preferred stock and four shares of its common stock for each share of Interstate Equities preferred stock, and three-quarters of one of its common shares for each share of Interstate common. The offer will run until June 26.

None of the officers of Equity has received any remuneration from the company for a year, but six are paid by controlled or affiliated companies. Five of the officers and directors own stock in Equity, the largest holder being Samuel W. Anderson, executive vice president and a director with 2,698 shares.

Tell Amount of Commissions.

Mechanical details in connection with exchange offers by Equity are handled by Allied-Distributors, Inc. Commissions do not exceed 50 cents a share on preferred shares and 5 cents on common shares of the Equity corporation. Where exchanges are effected through security dealers Allied-Distributors is allowed an additional commission of not more than $1 a share on preferred and 5 cents a share on common.

A breakdown statement of the anticipated expenses in connection with the current exchange offer shows a total cost of $50,000, of which $15,000 is estimated for preparing and filing data with the federal trade commission.

The statement shows the total assets of the Equity corporation as of March 31 were $5,503,233, a simple consolidated balance sheet as of May 31 showed assets of $7,320,652.

Studebaker Reports Rise in Production.

General Motors corporation yesterday reported for May the largest sales of cars and trucks to American consumers, to American dealers, and even to foreign dealers, including Canadian and overseas shipments, since June, 1931.

The total of sales to consumers in the United States for May was 85,969 units, against 71,599 in April and 63,500 in May, 1932. The increase in sales over those of the same month in the preceding year was the second so far in 1933. January had shown such a gain, the first since July, 1931.

Sales to Dealers Rise.

Sales to dealers in the United States, amounting to 85,980 units, for the second consecutive month surpassed those of May, 1932, which were 60,270. Sales for April totaled 74,242 units.

Including Canadian and overseas shipments, sales to dealers aggregated 98,205 units, against 66,739 in May, 1932, and 86,967 in April.

For the first five months sales to consumers in the United States were 297,937, against 288,587 in the period last year; sales to dealers in the United States were 327,806, against 295,603, and sales to dealers, including Canadian and overseas, were 384,921, against 342,354.

Studebaker Output Up.

George D. Keller, sales manager of the Studebaker Sales Corporation of America, announced yesterday that contrary to the seasonal trend the production of Studebaker and Rockne automobiles during June will exceed that of May by more than 1,000 units. This month's output is expected to surpass that of June, 1932, by 55.5 per cent, he said.

At the Akron, O., plants of the B. F. Goodrich company tire production, starting to rise the week of May 1, advanced 34 per cent by the week of May 29 over the 1932 average monthly production.

Other firms in such divergent businesses as corn refining, rustproof manufactures, and household utilities reported new improvement. The Corn Industries Research foundation yesterday said that the corn refining industry had announced the heaviest volume of business for May ever handled in any month. The total corn grind was over 8,800,000 bushels.

COTTON PRICES FAIL TO REFLECT GOOD NEWS

Cotton futures were lower in all markets, due in a measure to favorable weather and crop conditions, and to less disposition on the part of speculators to take the buying side.

Prices were higher early but gradually weakened with grains and dropped $1.00 a bale in sympathy with decline in the stock market, but failed to come back later when stocks rallied.

Closing trades were at nearly the lowest of the day with losses in Chicago futures 8 to 17 points, while other markets were off 8 to 15 points. Spots were off 15 points in New York to a level of 9.10c, New Orleans off 10 points to 9.00c, Galveston 8.80c, and Houston 8.85c. Liverpool closed 10 to 13 points net lower. Prices follow:

LARD MARKET WEAKENS AFTER STRONG OPENING

Lard markets were strong early with a fairly good trade, but ran into increased offerings later and forced a decline and closed at net losses of 10 to 17½ cents on the active futures, with January 2½ cents net lower at close.

Cash lard was 12½ cents lower on regular at $6.22½, with loose $5.62½, a loss of 10 cents, and leaf $5.62½, a decline of 12½ cents. Liverpool lard was 9 pence lower on futures and 3 pence lower on spots. Bellies were 20 cents lower for futures and 7½ cents lower on cash lots to a basis of $7.25. Prices follow:

Artificial Market for Federal Issues.

After three weeks in operation the treasury's widely advertised currency inflation credit expansion campaign has produced two net results:

1. It has created an artificial market for the sale of government bonds at subnormal rates of return. This has been accomplished by deliberate manipulation on the part of the 12 reserve banks, which, under treasury orders, have bought an additional 74 million of government bonds, 22 millions of them in the last week.

2. It has stimulated a tremendous wave of speculation in stocks which has boosted brokers' loans of New York banks alone from 512 million dollars to 699 millions. A year ago brokers' loans were 373 millions. Last week brokers' loans rose 64 millions to the largest volume of brokers' loans since Dec. 2, 1931.

Business Credit Lags.

No comparable expansion in the credit extended to business has taken place. Commercial loans of New York member banks on Wednesday totaled approximately 1 billion 682 million dollars, compared with 1 billion, 617 million dollars three weeks ago. In Chicago there has been even less change. Commercial loans on Wednesday were 306 millions, compared with 302 millions three weeks ago.

The reserve banks themselves, under treasury dominance, have been doing even less for business and more for the treasury.

As these twelve reserve banks have been pumping money into the treasury and manipulating the market for government bonds they have been either selling commercial paper or allowing it to mature and failing to replace it with new commercial paper.

The result has been that although the so-called credit expansion campaign has helped the treasury sell bonds it has been accompanied by an actual contraction of credit as far as industry and commerce are concerned.

How Trade Loans Decline.

The total amount of reserve bank credit outstanding in the nation is represented by the "total bills and securities" of the 12 reserve institutions. Last night's reserve figures showed that on Wednesday at the close of business the 12 reserve banks had outstanding 2 billion 204 million dollars' worth of credit. This was just 89 million dollars less credit than was outstanding May 10, despite the fact that 74 millions of government bonds had been bought.

During the same period—May 10 to June 7—total bills discounted declined from 338 millions to 276 millions, a drop of 62 millions in this type of commercial credit. In addition bills bought in the open market declined from 112 millions on May 10 to 11 millions on June 7, a drop of 101 million dollars.

Business Credit Off 163 Millions.

In other words, while pumping 74 millions more credit into the treasury the 12 reserve banks have taken 163 million dollars of credit out of ordinary business channels.

With the New York commercial banks lending more to speculators and the 12 reserve banks lending more to government the great credit expansion, currency inflation campaign has not yet brought much to the ordinary business man.

Other features of yesterday's reserve reports were an indicated rise of about 13 millions more in the gross deposits of Chicago member banks, a similar rise of about 11 millions in the gross deposits of New York member banks, an increase of 6 millions in the reserve banks' gold reserves, a drop of 40 millions in the amount of federal reserve notes in circulation, and an increase of nearly 9 millions in the circulation of the new "asset money."

The report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed a drop of 49 millions in gold holdings, reflecting transfers of funds to other districts.

TAX WARRANTS STEADY DESPITE DECREE ON CUT

Despite the opinion of the Illinois Supreme court that the Cook county board of tax appeals had legal authority to issue its order reducing 1931 assessments on homes and small flats 15 per cent, prices held steady yesterday in Chicago tax warrants. Prices closed practically unchanged from those prevailing Wednesday, according to specialists in tax warrants.

"Warrants are holding up very well," one dealer remarked. "There has been no letup in the demand. The demand has been especially good for 1929 educational and building warrants."

The steadiness in warrants was attributed in part to purchases by persons with taxes to pay. The recent pressure brought to compel tax payments has helped the warrant market, it was explained.

Markets Again Listen to Boom Days Ballyhoo

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the stock market clipping off five and six million share days in the best 1928-'29 style, a lot of the old boom time ballyhoo is coming back into Wall and La Salle streets.

Back of the whole market movement is the administration's inflation program. The federal reserve report last night disclosed that the 12 reserve institutions in the week ended Wednesday had bought another 22 million dollars' worth of government bonds in their treasury directed credit expansion campaign.

At the same time the dollar hits a new low in terms of other currencies. Washington with a barrage of propaganda about cheapening the United States currency is battling London with its billion dollar equalization fund.

Washington wants a cheap dollar and is getting it by threatening to dilute currency. London wants a cheap pound and has been trying to get it by having the equalization fund buy dollars and sell pounds.

During the last few days Washington has been winning repeatedly. The pound last night closed at $4.10 in late transactions, after being as high as $4.14. At the present rate of exchange Washington has already reduced by about one-half the cheap money advantage that the British enjoyed after they abandoned the gold standard in the fall of 1931.

With all this uncertainty in exchange and money markets it is not surprising that the spirit of ballyhoo should have swept into the markets. When fluctuations are wide there is money to be made in a hurry by the people who can engineer them.

Chicago and North Western railway stock dropped from 8¼ to 3½ yesterday as a result of the inspired tale that this railroad would follow the Rock Island into the bankruptcy courts. Executives of the road hastened to explain that the report was totally unfounded and that the company had plenty of money on hand to meet July interest requirements. Whereupon the stock regained most of its previous loss.

It was the second time in two months that funny business had transpired in this same stock. The New York Stock exchange promised an investigation the other time, but no report was ever made public.

In Chicago the bank stock market has been behaving queerly of late. Stock of Continental Illinois National has risen from 71 to 91 since Monday and stock of First National has advanced from 112 to 141. Prices were even higher on Wednesday, but there was a slight reaction yesterday, and both issues closed a few points below the Wednesday finish. New York bank stocks have been performing in similar fashion.

Inquiry among bankers fails to disclose any reason for the sudden spurt in bank stocks. Officers in a position to know whereof they spoke insisted yesterday that there had been no appreciable change in earnings and that the gains made as a result of the inflation market's affect on poorly collateralized loans had not been sufficient to justify the Monday-Wednesday advance in bank stocks.

"Perhaps it's just a belated recognition that bank stocks had not shared the general market advance since March," was the comment of one leading banker. "If favorable dividend action is intended by the directors it's certainly been kept secret from me." Similar assertions were made by other bank officials.

Directors of both the First National and the Continental Illinois National will hold their regular meetings this afternoon.

Yesterday's federal reserve figures showed that approximately one-third of the total loans and investments of member banks in Chicago are in government bonds. The most recent issue of treasury certificates sold to banks on a basis that will yield them about 2-10 of one per cent per annum.

Bank earnings normally increase as commercial loans increase. To date there has been no appreciable increase in commercial loans, the total for Chicago member banks last Wednesday being 306 million dollars, as compared with 302 million the week before and 383 million a year ago.

Banks are in splendid shape as far as liquidity is concerned but high liquidity means low earnings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Railroads of the country will open their offensive on the wage scales of their unionized forces on June 15 by giving formal notice that a 20 per cent cut in the basic pay rates will be sought under the provisions of the transportation act, it was learned here today.

Since Feb. 1, 1932, union men have been voluntarily receiving a 10 per cent deduction in pay, the agreement extending until next October. At the time the agreement was extended early this year, it was provided either side, on and after June 15, could serve notice of an intention to seek a change in the basic pay rate.

During the thirty day period stipulated by law, which must elapse after serving formal notice of an intended wage change, representatives of the carriers and the unionized forces will be brought together by the permanent board of mediation in the hope an amicable settlement of the dispute may be reached.

Production of Soft Coal Reflects Industrial Pick-up

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—An increase of 20 per cent in newspaper advertising lineage during April, bringing it within 15 per cent of last year's level, was cited by the commerce department today in its survey of current business as evidence of improved business conditions.

"Advertising lineage increased seasonally in April," said the department. "The expansion in magazine lineage amounted to 7 per cent and was the fourth consecutive month to register a gain. Newspaper advertising increased 20 per cent and brought the current level to a point 15 per cent below the same month a year ago. Expenditures on radio advertising declined during April and were 39 per cent lower than in the same month of 1932."

Production and distribution indexes continued to advance through May and business activity showed improvement over the corresponding month of the preceding year for the first time since 1929, said the department.

"Practically all major indicators of production," it added, "were higher than in May, 1932, and in such industries as automobiles, iron and steel, textiles and food processing the increases have been substantial. Retail trade has improved markedly, and the distribution of merchandise by the railroads in the second week of May exceeded last year's level."

TEAGLE, SLOAN SLATED FOR U. S. CONTROL BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, probably will be a member of the industrial control board in the event of the passage of the national industrial recovery bill. At the office of the New Jersey company it was stated that Mr. Teagle had not definitely accepted a post on the proposed board and would not until the passage of the proposed act creating the board. Mr. Teagle has left on a fishing trip for Canada and is not expected back until around Aug. 1.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, who also is slated to be a member of the board, when reached in Detroit today, would not make any comment. He explained that any comment at this time would be premature in that the law creating such a board had not been passed. Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, another probable member of the board could not be reached.

REPORT MERGER OF STEEL FIRMS UNDER REPUBLIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Negotiations are under way for the merging of the Republic Steel corporation, ranking as the third largest domestic steel concern; the Otis Steel Holding company, which controls the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company, and which, in turn, is controlled by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, it was learned today.

Although attempts to confirm the reports were unsuccessful, in view of the fact that officials of all three concerns are located either in Cleveland or Youngstown, it was recollected today that efforts were made about three years ago to join Otis and McKinney with Republic.

Merger of the three organizations would result in a corporation with assets of approximately $358,000,000, and its position would be cemented in third place in the steel industry in this country.

Dollar Sinks to New Lows; Then Rallies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—The dollar fell to 81.1 cents in terms of the French franc today, a record low, but rallied considerably in the later trading.

Encouraged by reports that the United States government views with approval the cheapening of its currency, foreign speculators renewed their drive against the dollar. American merchants holding foreign exchange refrained from converting it into United States money and business men having foreign exchange purchases to make scrambled to buy sterling and other currencies.

Sterling and the Scandinavian currencies which follow it rose to the highest levels since immediately after Britain's suspension of the gold standard. All other European exchanges reached the highest dollar prices in their history.

France Rises, Then Recedes.

The franc advanced to 4.83½ cents, which was a premium of 23.3 per cent over its parity of 3.92 cents. At this level the dollar was at a discount of 18.9 cents in terms of France's gold money, which means it was worth 81.1 cents in gold. French exchange subsequently weakened to close at 4.77½ cents for a net gain of 2 points on the day.

Sterling reached a high of $4.14 and closed at $4.10, up 1½ cents. Dutch guilders closed at 48.75 cents, up 20 points; Belgian belgas closed at 16.95 cents, up 15 points, and Swiss francs closed at 23.38 cents, up 8 points. German marks finished at 28.35 cents, up 10 points, and Italian lire closed at 6.30¼ cents, up 4¾ points. Japanese yen were 25 points higher at 25.62 cents and Canadian dollars improved to a discount of 9 3-16 per cent.

U. S. Not Supporting Dollar.

Bankers here explained that the apparent willingness of the United States government to permit its exchange to depreciate encouraged foreign speculators to maintain their short positions in the dollar and therefore deprived the market of the support it would ordinarily receive from short covering. In addition, the fact that the dollar had fallen to a new low on Wednesday without calling forth any official support encouraged speculators to put out additional short lines.

This speculative selling fell upon a market deprived of most of its normal buying demand. American merchants who have sold goods abroad and received foreign exchange are not following the usual course of converting that exchange into dollars. In view of the uncertainties surrounding the future of the dollar, most of them are holding off and allowing foreign balances to accumulate.

14 Roads Report Traffic Last Week Above Year Ago

The first fourteen railroads to report on traffic for last week, which included Memorial day, showed total loadings of 332,692 cars, compared with 350,138 cars in the preceding week, a decrease of 4.7 per cent, but an increase of 16.2 per cent over the corresponding week of 1932.

SALE OF BRENTANO'S TO KROCH APPEALED BY BANK IN NEW YORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—An appeal from the decision of Peter B. Olney Jr., referee, in knocking down the bankrupt book selling firm of Brentano's, Inc., at public auction to Adolph Kroch of Chicago for $121,000 will be taken by the Manufacturers' Trust company, it is announced by attorneys for the bank. They will seek to have the sale set aside on the grounds that it was not properly conducted, that the highest and best bid was not accepted, and that the creditors' committe was not entirely composed of creditors.

Mr. Kroch's bid of $71,000 cash and 82½ per cent of the collections from accounts receivable, with a guaranteed minimum of $50,000, was $1,000 higher than the flat bid made by A. Schaap & Sons, auctioneers, of 394 Broadway, and $1,485 higher than a series of parcel bids by a long list of prospective buyers.

The Schaap concern endeavored today to raise its bid of $120,000 by making an outright offer of $75,000 for the merchandise and fixtures, and 85 per cent of the collections, with $55,000 cash posted as a minimum guarantee on the collections. Mr. Olney decided not to consider the new Schaap offer.

OFFERS FOR NEW U. S. BONDS TOTAL FIVE BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., June 8.—More than five billion dollars in subscriptions to the treasury's offering of 500 million dollars of 2⅞ per cent five year notes and 400 million dollars of ¾ of 1 per cent nine month certificates were received, according to a preliminary announcement by Secretary Woodin tonight.

The subscription books were closed tonight for all subscriptions under $10,000, whereas the books were closed last night for larger subscriptions. The treasury reserved the right to increase the offerings by an amount sufficient to allot in full all subscriptions of less than $10,000.

TRADERS IGNORE WHEAT DAMAGE; PRICES DECLINE

Early Advance Lost; Corn Also Sags.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish comments on winter wheat from the west and southwest fell flat as a market influence yesterday, although leading local experts again stated they regarded the crop as irreparably damaged by the continued hot and dry weather over a large area. The market advanced around ⅝ cent in the early trading, only to break sharply later with stocks. The close was at the bottom with net losses of ⅛ to ⅝ cent.

According to well posted cash grain interests in the southwest the natural test weight of the new winter wheat crop has probably been lowered 1½ to 2 pounds per bushel. Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. expert, said that even a slight variation in test weight per bushel is accompanied by a marked variation in the yield per acre.

"A bushel of wheat testing 53 pounds requires approximately 20 per cent more kernels to make a bushel than one testing 59 pounds per bushel," said Mr. Murray. "Therefore, a reduction of one pound in test weight means nearly 20 per cent reduction in yield per acre."

Longs Sell Wheat Futures.

Tired longs were regarded as having sold out considerable wheat yesterday, owing to the failure of the market to respond to what was regarded as sensationally bullish crop news. Liverpool closed ¼ pence per cental lower in English money, but owing to the advance in sterling exchange the prices there figured out ¾ to ⅞ cents per bushel higher in American funds. July wheat in the local market was 73⅜ cents to 73½ cents at the close, with September, 75 to 75⅛ cent, and December, 77⅜ to 77½ cents. Winnipeg was ⅛ cent lower in Canadian funds with some betterment reported in foreign demand.

The American government crop estimate to be given out at 3 p. m., Chicago time, today had the effect of curtailing speculative operations in the wheat market, as did the fact the world economic conference is scheduled to meet in London next Monday.

Corn Closes Lower.

At no time yesterday were corn prices above the finish of the previous day. Continued dry and warm weather over the belt was regarded as favorable for the new crop, and there was a drop of 2 to 3 cents per bushel in low grade cash grain in the sample market to intensify bearish sentiment. Closing trades were ⅜ to ⅝ cents lower, with July finishing at 43⅞ cents; September, 46¾ cents, and December, 49½ cents.

A flood of damage reports on oats from Illinois and Iowa points was responsible for scattered buying which lifted the September and December deliveries to new high levels for the season early yesterday. On the advance a local long took profits and later there was scattered selling on the weakness in corn. The close was ¼ to ⅜ cents lower.

Trade in rye was largely of a local character despite northwestern reports indicating that the crop as a whole was in rather poor condition. The finish was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Barley was unchanged to ⅝ cent lower.

North Western Denies Rumor of Bankruptcy

Securities of the Chicago and North Western railway broke sharply in price yesterday upon circulation of a rumor in New York that the road was either in receivership or was headed toward it. Denial by officials of the road that any such action was pending resulted in an immediate recovery of prices of both bonds and stocks.

F. W. SARGENT.

The rumor which went around the financial districts of New York and Chicago was the second of a similar nature in two months. Both were attributed to attempts by speculators to manipulate the market. In both cases denial of impending action brought recovery in prices after early sharp losses. In the case of the break following circulation of receivership rumors two months ago the New York Stock exchange undertook an investigation, the results of which have never been made public.

Laid to Broker's Telegram.

It was stated at the offices of the North Western here yesterday that the receivership rumor started with a telegram sent out by a New York brokerage house. It gained force as a result of the Rock Island action on Wednesday.

President Fred Sargent was out on the road yesterday, but after consultation with him by wire this statement was put out:

"Officials of the Chicago and North Western state they know of nothing unusual or abnormal in the company's affairs to account for the break in its stock."

"We have cash on hand to meet our July interest requirements, which amount to about $542,000. There is no change in our situation and there is no truth to rumors of reorganization."

Stocks, Bonds Plunge.

When the rumor came out the road's common stock dropped from 8¾ to 3½, but recovered practically all it lost. The 4¾ convertible bonds, due in 1949, fell from 21 points to 11 points and then closed at 19½.

A partner in one of the leading brokerage houses in the city said that when the report came that North Western stock had broken on circulation of the rumor he wired his New York office to buy everything in sight. He said he has been in touch with the North Western management and knew the rumor to be false.

Chicago Postal Receipts in May Slightly Under 1932

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—The postoffice department announced today that Chicago showed a .26 per cent decrease in postal receipts in May as compared to May, 1932. Receipts were $3,450,240, compared with $3,459,209, a decrease of $8,968. Springfield, Ill., receipts increased 17.9 per cent and Peoria receipts gained 3.45 per cent.

RAID ON RAILS HALTS FURTHER RISE IN STOCKS

But Rally Follows the Reaction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—The stock market advance pulled up short today just as the bulls appeared primed for another upward swing of goodly proportions and after several more new highs for the year had been tabulated.

The rise appeared to be moving along very well when a crackup came in the form of a drive against the rails on reports that the Chicago and North Western would follow the Rock Island into receivership under the new bankruptcy laws.

When the report was denied the common recovered much of a loss of more than 5 points, but the development had an unsettling effect on the rest of the carrier list. Leaders yielded from 2 to 4 points before support returned to the market.

Industrials Also React.

Other groups, notably the industrials, reacted substantially from early highs in sympathy with the setback in rails. The well fortified bulls, however, gave an impressive show of resourcefulness in stemming the tide of selling when the decline started to gather headway.

In the last hour enough new buying had been thrown into the breach to enable the list to close moderately higher on the average.

Gains in early trading ranged for the most part from fractions to more than 2 points, with the accepted pivotal leaders making a better showing than they had on any other day this week. Steel climbed above 56 and closed higher by more than 1 point. American Can was fractionally higher on the day, and a good many of the other industrials had similar rallies. Westinghouse was an exception, with a small loss.

Profit Taking in Western Union.

Profit taking was still in order for Western Union, although merger reports were strong as ever.

One of the brightest features was the buoyancy of gold mining shares. With gains of 3 to 10 points or so, Alaska Juneau, Dome, McIntyre, and Homestake sold at new high.

Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, water works, North American, and other front line utilities pressed the metals for leadership.

Chemicals, aviation, farm equipment, oils, and tobaccoes were active participants in the late recovery, although movements in the majority of cases were limited to fractions. Motors were somewhat erratic, with General Motors the leader on the advance.

Great Northern Bond Plan First to Get Help of Banks

New York, June 8.—Success of the Great Northern railway's plan for refunding the July 1 maturity of $41,963,000 consolidated mortgage bonds was assured today by the approval of the Interstate commerce commission and by arrangements for underwriting the retirement of any minority bonds.

This is the first railroad bond exchange program that has attracted underwriters. The group agreeing to purchase maturing bonds that do not accept the offer of exchange is headed b ythe First National bank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—In heavy trading which exceeded $21,000,000, bond prices on the stock exchange today showed wide irregularity. All groups of domestic corporation bonds averaged lower, while the foreigns, led by German government loans and Japanese government issues, finished generally higher. United States government bonds closed irregularly higher in quiet dealings, up 4-32 to off the same fraction.

Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s, due 1949, claimed the distinction of being the most active issues of the entire list, as the result of rumors of reorganization of the road. At one time this issue showed a net loss of 9½ points, but subsequently recovered all but one point. Other less active bonds of the road finished unchanged to down 11½ points on the day.

Wire Company Liens Drop.

In the utilities, communications issues, which have been exceptionally strong, weakened perceptibly on the eve of the announcement of the news that the senate and house conferees had decided to drop merger provisions in the pending legislation. Postal Telegraph and Cable 5s due 1933 were down 3¾ points, International Telephone and Telegraph issues down 1¼ to 2¾ points, and Western Union issues finished off 3 to up 1 point.

Industrial bonds, as a group, lost much less ground yesterday than did either utilities or rails.

German Loans Rise.

The rise in German government bonds was due to the expectation that these issues will be given preferential treatment under the moratorium. The government 7s due 1949, the Dawes plan loan, rose 4⅞ points, and the 5½s due 1965, the Young plan loan, 3½ points. Other bonds of the German group finished up 4 to off 6¾ points.

St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba, 4½s and 6s, due next month, doubtless would have advanced to par at least if it had been known in the market that strong banking interests had underwritten the exchange offering, which means that bonds not exchanged will receive cash in full.

Vanadium Corporation.

INVESTORS' GUIDE: Any information you can give me in regard to Vanadium stock will be highly appreciated.—W. R. H.

ANSWER: Vanadium corporation of America controls the world's largest known supply of vanadium. This is used in refining practically every type of steel. As an alloy it imparts a high degree of durability.

Principal consumers of this alloy steel are automobile, machine tool, railroad and agricultural implement companies.

From 1929 through the first quarter of 1933 production of these companies decreased steadily and earnings of Vanadium corporation decreased correspondingly, except for the first quarter of this year. It was unofficially estimated that loss for the first quarter was smaller than during the corresponding 1932 period. The substantial pickup in industry during the second quarter of 1933 should enable the company still further to improve its record as compared with 1932.

Net sales for 1932 totaled $1,323,000 against $2,348,000 for 1931. Nonrecurring charges deducted from income in 1932 totaled $112,000. Loss for the year, before extraordinary deductions of $1,094,000, was $1,652,000.

Loss for 1931, after nonrecurring charges of $151,000, was $1,097,000, against net income of $1,117,000, or $2.95 per share, for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $1,857,000.

At the close of 1932 current assets were $3,945,000 and current liabilities were $319,000. Cash assets totaled about $900,000 and notes payable $200,000. Working capital was $3,626,000, against $5,443,000 the year before.

Reduction of stated value of the common stock to $20 a share wiped out a profit and loss deficit of $1,214,000 and established a capital surplus of $2,162,000.

Funded debt, due 1941, totals $4,040,000. Capital stock consists of 355,637 no par shares on which nothing has been paid since Feb. 16, 1931.

The company virtually controls an essential steel alloy material. Rate of operations is dependent almost entirely on rate of industrial activity. The company recently entered the chemical line. This division has yet to show a profit.

United Corporation Warrants.

INVESTORS' GUIDE: I see on the curb market that United corporation warrants are dealt in. I don't know anything about these warrants. Are they identical with the stock I own?—M. A.

ANSWER: United corporation warrants are options which enable the holders to purchase United corporation common stock at any time at $27.50 a share. With the stock selling at less than $27.50, these warrants are valueless except for such speculative attraction as they might possess.

ELECTRIC HEADS ASSAIL FEDERAL TAXES, INQUIRIES

Charge Unfair Hearings, Excessive Levies.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Unfair governmental investigations and excessive and discriminatory taxation were subjects of criticism in two addresses made before the Edison Electric institute in its first annual convention at the Palmer house yesterday.

In one talk Bernard F. Weadock, vice president and executive director of the institute, assailed the tactics of the federal trade commission which is now in the sixth year of a utility investigation.

In the other address W. C. Mullendore, executive vice president Southern California Edison company, Ltd., asserted that certain taxes proposed now to provide a means to create purchasing power actually would destroy a far greater and more widely diffused purchasing power than can be secured by the tax money so raised.

Cites Various Regulations.

Mr. Weadock outlined the situation which now confronts the electric utility industry, saying:

"The states fix our property values, they prescribe our accounting systems, tells us how much we may earn and prescribe rate schedules to bring about such an income. The federal government licenses our water powers and proceeds to regulate their operations wherever the blanket of state regulation leaves a spot uncovered.

"But extending over it all is the investigation of the federal trade commission, now well in its sixth year of continuous research. The bad has been emphasized, while the good has been accepted as a matter of course and passed over without comment."

Fears Excessive Taxation.

In his discussion of the tax situation, Mr. Mullendore cited the proposed levy of a three per cent federal tax upon the gross earnings of the electric utilities.

"While the federal government might derive 25 millions of revenue," he said, "the destruction in value of savings invested in utility investment would amount to several times 25 millions."

MANUFACTURERS' GROUP ASSAILS BUY ILLINOIS BILL

Assert Plan Would Cut Employment.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday declared itself in opposition to the bill now pending before the Illinois general assembly to create a "Buy-Illinois" commission. The bill, now with the committee on appropriations, appropriates $10,000 for a commission to be appointed by the governor to bring about more coöperation between Illinois producers and consumers, to encourage the consumption of Illinois products, and to find markets for such products as cannot be consumed in Illinois.

The effect of creating a barrier around Illinois to the products of other states would be to provoke retaliatory measures by other states, the association claimed. Illinois industries could not exist upon a market confined to the state.

"Illinois is fitted," said Thomas S. Hammond, president of the association, "by reason of its natural resources, strategic location for assembling raw materials, to grow, mine or manufacture certain products more economically than can be done elsewhere and in larger volume than required for home use."

Mr. Hammond's statement said that consumers would lose the benefit of lower prices created by free competition, if the Buy-Illinois movement is carried out to its final conclusion.

"The 100 leading industries in Illinois doing interstate business normally employ 80 per cent of all industrial workers in the state. Similar conditions exist in other states. If interstate distribution of products were abolished by application of the Buy-Illinois idea, the great majority of workers in such industries would lose their jobs or have their employment drastically curtailed."

Finally, Illinois revenues derived from taxes on industry would diminish.

GERMANY PUTS DEBT PAYMENTS UP TO NATIONS

Will Collect Funds; Seeks Parley on Transfer.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—A transfer moratorium of service payments on all German obligations except those protected by the standstill agreement or contracted after July, 1931, was proclaimed today by the German government for July 1.

A special law will be decreed tomorrow ordering all German debtors to pay their foreign obligations to a special conversion office controlled by the Reichsbank, which will hold these funds at the disposal of foreign creditors and seek to convert these funds into foreign currency as soon as possible.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, emerging from a cabinet conference this afternoon, declared he hopes that within the next three weeks at the world economic conference Germany and her creditors will succeed in working out international financial plans which will enable Germany to shorten the transfer postponement and earn the foreign currencies she needs to take care of her obligations.

Invites Creditors to Conference.

Dr. Schacht, in the name of the Reichsbank, addressed a letter to Chancellor Adolf Hitler in which he outlined the reasons for the transfer postponement. In the name of Germany, Dr. Schacht invited representatives of the Bank for International Settlements at Basel and representatives of Germany's creditors to sit down at a conference in London next week and work out jointly the best financial solution of the present difficulties.

"Measures inspired by hasty anger and distrust would only add to the world's difficulties," Dr. Schacht said. "The Reichsbank is faced by a financial situation which is not of its own making. Economic and political errors of the last 15 years led to the present situation. War debts, war tributes, erratic borrowing, the world depression and constant heightening of customs barriers are bound to lead to a crisis, and we must have courage to face the facts and join forces to find a solution.

Seeks Amicable Settlement.

"The world bank, representing the interests of the Dawes and Young plan loans and other creditors, declared they must be given preferential treatment. We want to act as honorable debtors and accord the same treatment to all creditors."

Germany's foreign debts amount roughly to 17 billion 300 million marks, of which about 3 billion 700 million marks represent credits under the standstill agreement. Debts to the United States government are affected, as also are the Dawes and Young loans, a large part of which were floated in the United States.

ROADS TO PROFIT BY TRADE GAINS, SHOUP ASSURES

Rail Costs Cut, So Earnings May Rise Sharply.

Confidence that business is really on the upgrade was expressed yesterday in a talk by Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the Southern Pacific company, in an address before members of the National Metal Trades association in the Congress hotel.

"With the improvement in business," Mr. Shoup said, "it will be found that the net earnings of the railroads will increase surprisingly quick. The roads are operating at a cost 50 per cent under what it was a few years ago and this will be immediately reflected in profits and dividends as business expands."

Mr. Shoup said that he doesn't know of a single major industry that has not felt the results of the business improvement which set in six weeks or so ago. The railroads are all ready to go ahead with the rest of the nation's industry, he said, adding that they were prepared to fill the place in the nation's transportation needs that they have in the past.

Asks Fair Competition.

"We have no quarrel with the various forms of our competition," he said. "We recognize that much of it is here to stay. We would be foolish if we didn't. All we want is a fair break—either put the other forms of transportation under the same sort of control that is imposed on us, or give us freedom to meet their competition in our own way."

The Southern Pacific executive pointed out three important factors that affect the welfare of the roads:

First, the railroads must be given the opportunity to put aside surplus funds in good times to take care of lean periods. "The railroad industry is the only one that is not permitted to lay aside funds for rainy days," he remarked.

Second, the application of a national policy to all forms of transportation so that there will be no discrimination shown one form at the expense of another. Mr. Shoup said that railroads, steamships and highway carriers alike should submit their rates and practices to public tribunals.

Cites Panama Canal Competiton.

Mr. Shoup added that it is vital to the western railroads that they secure relief from the fourth section of the interstate commerce act, so that they can meet the competition of the Panama canal.

Third, in considering ways to help the roads, Mr. Shoup said that too much dependence must not be placed on economies resulting from consolidations, reductions in service and the like. He said that, of course, there are some places where such economies can be made, but the railroad structure as a whole must not be periled.

J. R. Howard, former president of the American Farm bureau, speaking at the annual banquet of the association in the evening, expressed some doubts as to the success which may be expected from President Roosevelt's plans to help the farmers. Discussing the domestic allotment plan in the President's farm relief program, he said that of the twenty level headed farmers with whom he has talked recently, few believe that it will be successful.

Raps Farm Relief Delay.

"They point out," Mr. Howard said, "that if congress and the administration had sincerely believed in the plan, it could easily been enacted into law and put into administration before the planting of the most of this year's crop began. The delay was ominous. These farmers mostly believe that in its adoption the President was advised by economists better versed in scientific theory than in practical application."

HEAT AND HEAVY HOGS IN RUN CUT PRICES SHARPLY

Extremely hot weather and the larger proportion of heavy hogs in the run, coupled with word that the secretary of agriculture is in favor of a plan to penalize stock of excess weight in an effort to encourage production of the lighter weights and smaller tonnage, drove the market for packing grades and extra heavy butchers into the lowest price channels in a month. The spread in prices shows a tendency to widen immediately.

As this is the season when heavy stock naturally sells at a discount because of the large number of packing sows offered on the market during the summer months, the tentative date for the new plan to curtail production of park and lard is said to have been set at October 1, after the close of the season for packing sows.

Heavy Weghts Decline.

Losses of fully 25 cents were registered in 350 to 500 pound "packers," which sold largely at $4.00 to $4.25. Extreme weights were bought as low as $3.85, while selected light butcher sows were halted at $4.40. Better grades of hogs slumped fully 10 cents, with some places off 15 cents. Top sales were down 15 cents at $4.65. The general average for the whole day at $4.50 showed a loss of 15 cents compared with Wednesday and 30 cents loss since Tuesday. Prices still are $1.10 to $1.20 above a year ago, but they show losses of 70 to 75 cents compared with the 1933 high day three weeks ago.

The volume of busness done in the cattle alleys this week has been the largest of the year. Both the receipts and shipments for the week were largest since December and above the corresponding week in 1932. Receipts for the week show an increase of only 16 per cent over a year ago, but shipments from Chicago are 47 per cent larger than for the same week in 1932, most of the buying orders coming from eastern distrbuting points.

Small Receipts for Day.

There was an abrupt decrease in the cattle movement from the country yesterday, however, only 3,500 arriving on the market. It was the smallest Thursday run in several months and prices were immediately bolstered. Top sales at $7.00 for 1,243 pound steers were equal to Wednesday's peak. The bulk sold at $5.25 to $6.00. All cattle are unevenly lower than a week ago.

Lambs took a drubbing yesterday when receipts increased a little and took care of a number of orders that have been carried over unfilled for several days. Best grades of lambs closed off 25 cents, but declines of 50 cents were frequently found in the plainer classes.

REORGANIZE 33 GARARD TRUST BOND ISSUES

Represent $14,842,000 in Securities.

BY AL CHASE.

Completion of the reorganization of thirty-three bond issues of the Garard Trust company, representing outstanding securities of $14,842,000, was announced yesterday by the bondholders' protective committee, of which William C. Cook is chairman.

In two of the twenty-two issues on Chicago properties the depositors were paid substantial sums for their bonds. A sale of the 940 Winona apartment bonds brought eighty cents on the dollar for the depositing bondholders, while those who deposited Casador apartment bonds received seventy-five cents on the dollar through a sale of their securities.

In addition to the twenty-two Chicago properties with total outstanding bonds of $5,311,000 there were three issues aggregating $980,000 on properties in other middle western cities. There were also three issues of $5,320,000 on industrial properties, three collateral note issues of $2,718,000 and two trust fund certificate issues totaling $513,000.

Avoid Foreclosure in 16 Issues.

Twenty of the local properties were reorganized and placed in liquidation trusts with the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee. In all but four of these cases the coöperation of the bondholders in depositing their bonds permitted the committee to reorganize without foreclosure sale. Considerable expense has been saved, it is claimed, by the fact that the committee in six cases reorganized without filing foreclosure suits and in ten issues was enabled by the deposit of outstanding bonds to dismiss pending suits.

Following are the twenty Chicago properties reorganized: Beatrice, 2358 East 70th place; Hotel Bernard, 4166 Drexel boulevard; Blackstone hall, 5746 Blackstone; Cecil Plaza, 6137 Kenwood; Drexel Court, 4420 Drexel; Drexel Parkview, 4611 Drexel; East End Manor, 7317 East End; Envoy, 5631 Kenmore; Fleetwood, 6026 Winthrop; Ingleside Court, 8101 Ingleside; Irving-Lamon, Irving Park boulevard and Lamon; Keeler, 4009 North Keeler; Logan Vista, 2600 North Kedzie; Midway-Woodlawn, 6104 Woodlawn; Nautilus, 6165 Winthrop; 79th and State building; West Fountain View, 2205 Rockwell; Westgate hotel, 6016 Winthrop; Hotel Wimbledon, 4631 Woodlawn, and the Winshire Arms, 6321 Winthrop avenue.

Negotiate with Owners.

"The committee's policy is to avoid the appointment of receivers wherever possible through negotiations with the owner for the acquisition of the title in the interest of the bondholders," said Mr. Cook. "In this way the committee is able to secure the income of the property for the bondholders without the expense of receivership."

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, June 8.—Wool prices were more stable today than for several weeks, limited supplies and good demand giving strength to the market and offsetting bearish factors, such as natural reaction after a sharp rise and conservatism of many operators.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—Cotton goods were firmer today with scattering spot lots of gray cloths cleaned up. Finished goods where available, are bringing full prices. Many men's wear mills are withdrawn from the market. Prices rule very firm. One concern has advanced viscose rayon yarns another 5 per cent. Silk goods for fall are much firmer with a rising tendency. Burlap holds steady at the year's high price level.

BUTTER LOSES EARLY BULGE

Selling at the close erased early gains made by butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter closed unchanged to ⅛c higher and eggs unchanged. Butter received fairly active support early and advanced ⅜c, but profit taking and new selling developed near midsession on the upturn and caused a gain at the reaction. The four markets stored 400,000 lbs more than last year and production was reported 11 per cent greater than last year. Eggs were firm early but came under profit taking pressure at the close. The movement of stocks into storage continued heavy, the four markets storing 29,000 cases more than last year. Sales: Butter, 44 cars, eggs, 60 cars. Deliveries: butter, 1 car, eggs, 4 cars. SOLUTION TO DEATH IN THE FLOUR MILL
As the dead man's shoes were highly polished and the floor was covered with flour dust, Fordney knew he could not have committed suicide. Sheridan admitted there was no one else there at the time in question, therefore, the professor knew Sheridan had murdered his associate.
